DEMOCRATS KILL STATE ECONOMY QUIZ COMMITTEE

Parole Reform Gets House Group O. K.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 2.—[Special.]—Three major developments came today in the legislature as it entered the final two months of the regular session. They were:

1. Democrats, in a surprise move, dissolved the joint legislative economy committee which has been inquiring into charges of waste and extravagance in the Democratic state government. Seven Democrats were aided by one Republican, Senator Clinton L. Ewing [R., Douglas], in killing the inquiry. Five Republicans opposed the action with charges of Democratic cowardice and whitewash. Ewing made the motion to dissolve the committee.

2. The steady progress of the Ward-Schnackenberg parole reform bill continued as the house committee on judicial practice and uniform laws, headed by Charles J. Jenkins [R., Chicago], recommended its passage by a vote of 9 to 2. This measure, to give judges more power in fixing sentences of criminals, now goes on the house calendar. It was passed two weeks ago in the senate by the conclusive vote of 36 to 3.

Kill City Manager Bills.

3. The house killed the city manager enabling legislation by striking the enacting clauses of the bills. In considering a number of amendments to the measures the house first exempted Chicago from their provisions. A second roll call resulted in complete disaster for the program. The consensus was that the plan is dead for this session.

The killing of the economy investigation came almost on the stroke of midnight [Springfield time] tonight after several days of reported Democratic uneasiness over its progress. One Republican, Representative David I. Swanson [R., Chicago], was absent when the roll was called, but his presence would not have changed the outcome in view of Senator Ewing's affiliation with the Democrats.

Action Amazes Searcy.

Chairman Earl B. Searcy [R., Springfield] declared he was amazed at Ewing's motion.

"Regardless of the fact that our activities have created some atmosphere of economy around the statehouse," the chairman said, "to abandon this quiz in midstream seems to me an act of cowardice."

Representative Clinton Searle [R., Rock Island], in a blistering speech, promised the Democrats good use would be made of the Democratic move in the 1940 Republican campaign.

"This is a disgrace and a whitewash," he shouted. "It is an admission by the majority party that it can't face the spotlight. This thing had gotten so hot for them that it threatened to blow off the statehouse dome. But it isn't over. You Democrats will hear from us next year. We'll tell the people and they'll clear you out of the building."

Ewing Explains His Motion.

In moving to discharge the committee Ewing said: "To continue along this line is just a waste of time. We've accomplished all the good we can do, and I think we've done a lot of good. Now I think we ought to get back to work in both the senate and the house. I move we adjourn sine die."

Supporting Ewing were the following Democrats: Senators Peter P. Kielminski and A. L. Marovitz, both of Chicago; Nicholas L. Hubbard, Mount Pulaski; Melvin Thomas, Charleston, and H. S. Burgess, Fairfield, and Representatives W. O. Edwards, Danville, and Frank Ryan, Chicago.

In opposition stood Senator Searcy and the following Republican representatives: Searle, John A. Bingham, Galena; F. W. Rennick, Buda, and Sam O. Dale, Fairfield. These five probably will submit a minority report.

Chicago Judges Heard.

Debate in the committee on the parole reform bill today was limited to fifteen minutes for each witness. Two Cook county Circuit judges took opposite sides. Judge Daniel P. Trude

TWO RADIO FANS TRIP IN THEIR OWN LITTLE NETWORK

Alfred Boardman could ask the man across the street how he was at any hour of the day or night—just by tapping out a radio code message. The man across the street, Anthony Lucas, could reply on his little sending set that he was fine and dandy. The neighbors could listen in. They had to, indeed. They got the message as interference when they were trying to listen to programs.

So Martin Gerber, assistant United States district attorney, brought both men before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker yesterday. Gerber said they were operating without licenses and ignoring the time regulations for amateur operators. Commissioner Walker held both to the grand jury in bonds of $500 each. Boardman, 24 years old, lives at 1443 14th place. Lucas, who is 22, gave the address of 1500 14th place.

BOARD OF THREE GIVEN POWER TO DRAW UP TERMS

Workers Return to Jobs Today.

Mayor Kelly's intervention last evening halted the 26 day labor dispute between the Wieboldt Stores, Inc., and the trucking unions. Both sides signed an arbitration agreement giving a three man board full power to fix terms of settlement.

Today the 74 Wieboldt truck drivers and helpers, who have not worked since April 6, will go back to their jobs. Union pickets will be withdrawn from the Wieboldt stores, garages and warehouse, and business at these establishments will be carried on as usual. Both sides have agreed to refrain from threatening or intimidating the store employés in any way.

All Pledge to Nab Killers.

Signing of the arbitration agreement does not mean that the slaying of James Lawrence, Wieboldt truck helper who was shot by labor terrorists last April 12, will be forgotten. Mayor Kelly and representatives of the stores and unions asserted that the killers must be brought to justice.

Members of the board intrusted with the work of bringing about a lasting settlement of the dispute are Federal Judge Otto Kerner, the impartial chairman; Elmer Stevens, vice president of Charles A. Stevens & Co., agent for the Wieboldt stores, and Daniel D. Carmell, general counsel for the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. These men were given

The agreement itself was signed by Elmer Wieboldt, president of the Wieboldt stores, and by Leslie Goudie, chairman of the joint council of the teamsters' unions. Goudie read his own copy of the agreement to the union members at a special meeting called two hours after the signing of the pact. The men voted unanimously to accept the agreement and passed a resolution affirming their confidence in the membership of the arbitration board.

In signing both groups agreed to accept as final all decisions of the arbitration board.

Two Options Open to Store.

The agreement also provided that should the board determine that a majority of the Wieboldt employés of their own free choice designate the unions as their bargaining agents the stores shall have two optional courses open to them.

Either they shall at once enter into a contract with the union or they shall negotiate a contract with an independent trucking company to have their hauling done. In either case only union men will be employed and all Wieboldt employés as of last April 5 will get jobs.

If the union is not selected as the bargaining agent the officers agree to desist from efforts to obtain members among the Wieboldt truckers for a period of at least one year.

Murder Is Not Settled.

"We definitly are not settling the murder of Lawrence when we settle this strike," said Mayor Kelly. "The city's law enforcing offices have been instructed by me to pursue the men who committed this murder until they are all brought to trial."

State's Attorney Courtney could not be reached last night but his assistant, Gordon Nash, who has been in charge of the murder investigation, said: "My instructions are to use every effort to track down and convict the guilty men."

"We certainly are anxious to see the terrorists brought to justice," said Elmer Wieboldt.

"I deplore the killing of Lawrence as much as any other citizen of Chicago," said Goudie. "The guilty men should be punished."

ANOTHER NUGGET

Boss Crump's Son and 2 Die in Plane Crash

Grenada, Miss., May 2.—[Special.]—Three men were killed here late today in the crash of a plane on a tour to publicize the cotton carnival at Memphis, Tenn. The victims were John Crump, youngest son of E. H. Crump, political boss of Memphis; a newspaper reporter, and the pilot, who was a newspaper photographer.

In landing at the airport here the plane plunged into the yard of a nearby home and burned. Witnesses said the crash occurred when the pilot swerved sharply to avoid hitting several children who were permitted to run out in front of the ship as it was landing.

However, Mayor E. C. Neely of Grenada, who witnessed the crash, said there was no one on the field in the way of the plane. There was no apparent cause for the accident, he added.

Two Newspaper Employés.

The reporter who was killed was Ted Northington, 31 years old, and the photographer-pilot was George Stokes, 33, both employés of the Commercial Appeal of Memphis, which owned the plane.

Crump, 30 years old, was secretary of E. H. Crump & Co., a real estate and insurance firm owned by his father. The elder Crump has been the political chieftain of Memphis and Shelby county for more than thirty years. His powerful Democratic organization, which regularly piles up huge majorities for Crump supported candidates, often holds the balance of power in the state and senatorial elections.

Widow Survives Crump.

Surviving young Crump are his parents, the widow, and two brothers, E. H. Jr. and Bobbie.

The plane was one of five ships that had toured parts of Missouri, Tennessee, Alabama, and Mississippi to extend invitations to the cotton carnival in Memphis from May 9 to 14.

Another plane accompanied the Commercial Appeal ship to Grenada, which was the last scheduled stop of the day before the return to Memphis.

Franklin Delano Smith, 5 years old, plans to climb aboard next year. Curly is a horse.

SNUBBED AS HE ASKS OF BRITISH WAR DEBT TO U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 2.—Debate in the house of commons was enlivened today by mention of Great Britain's failure to pay its war debt to the United States. The question was raised when Leslie Hore-Belisha, secretary of war, revealed that the government was paying royalties to Germany on patents of the Bren machine gun. The patents formerly were held by Czecho-Slovakia.

In reply to Laborite T. M. Sexton's question of whether Hore-Belisha was aware that payment of the royalties was strengthening Germany's financial position, the minister said:

"That may be so, but it is not customary for this country to repudiate payments which have been legally contracted."

To this answer, an unidentified Laborite shouted, "What about America?" He got no reply.

Knock, Knock! It's a Shell Game with a New Twist

"Knock, knock!" It came eleven times. "Who's there?" called Mrs. Mallard Duck, as if she didn't know. And she thought it clever of them to revive such an old game when eleven little mallards pecked their way out of their shells at the Jackson Park bird sanctuary yesterday to become the first brood hatched there this spring.

Windsors Plan American Tour Late This Year

LONDON, May 2.—[Special.]—The duke and duchess of Windsor, whose plans to visit the United States in 1937 were disrupted by American labor's objection to their acceptance of the chaperonage of Charles E. Bedeaux, industrial speed-up expert, will visit the United States next fall, it was declared here today by an authority in close touch with the duke's affairs.

The former British king and his wife will sail several weeks after the return to England of King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain. The latter will sail for America on Saturday.

The duke and duchess for some time have been weary of their French exile. The duke especially has been restive, their friends here say, and the American duchess is eager to visit the United States.

Visit Approved by King.

They will be accompanied by a large entourage of British and French friends, and probably by Mr. and Mrs. Herman L. Rogers of New York, at whose French villa the duchess stayed when she left England just before Edward's abdication.

The forthcoming visit has been arranged with the full knowledge and consent of King George and Queen Elizabeth, it was said. There were reports which could not be confirmed that the American tour may be an exploratory gesture toward the eventual appointment of the duke as governor general of Canada.

Relations between the Windsors and the British royal family have been slowly but certainly growing more cordial during the last year. Edward has repeatedly expressed his desire to serve the empire in some capacity abroad.

At the time of the Czecho-Slovakian crisis last September he was reported to have pleaded with his brother, the king, for restoration to some useful service.

Disappointed by Fiasco.

The duke is described by his friends as having been keenly disappointed over the fiasco of his first projected visit to America.

His acceptance of the sponsorship of Bedeaux, it is said, was made in all innocence of the American millionaire's unpopularity with labor, and not because of any interest in Bedeaux's labor speed-up plans. The association, the duke is said to have told friends, was an unfortunate mistake which he intends to exert every effort to correct.

Guns Blaze in Tavern Holdup on North Side

An undertaker was shot to death and two policemen were so seriously wounded that they were believed dying in a furious gun battle early today that followed an attempted holdup by two robbers in a north side tavern. The victim of the bandits' bullets was Alex Ferguson, 55 years old, 2525 Leland avenue. His place of business is across the street from the tavern at 4623 North Western avenue, the scene of the shooting.

Alex Ferguson.

The two policemen are Edwin McIntyre, 42 years old, 4421 North Rockwell street, assigned to the North Damen avenue station, shot through the head, and Phil Kelly of 4730 Virginia avenue, attached to the office of Supervising Captain Richard Gill. He was shot through the abdomen, the right wrist, and chest.

100 Offer Their Blood.

Nearly a hundred policemen gathered at Ravenswood hospital within a few minutes after the shooting to offer blood for transfusions for their fellow officers. Doctors who were preparing for an emergency operation on Kelly, held a number of them in the expectation that their blood would be needed. Little hope was held, however, for either policeman.

McIntyre had gone to a show for the evening and had asked his wife, Theresa, to meet him at the tavern, operated by Pat Sheehy, at midnight. Mrs. McIntyre arrived a few minutes early from an evening of bridge. McIntyre, Kelly, and their friend Ferguson came in shortly afterward and sat down at the table with her. They arranged a golf date for this morning.

Two Bandits Enter.

Before they could order the two young bandits entered. One went to the rear of the bar and another stayed at the front. One of them shouted, "This is a stickup!" and ordered the patrons, about sixteen in all, to line up at the bar.

McIntyre made it appear that he was bewildered at the command and asked the bandits which way he should go. Meanwhile both he and Kelly were edging toward the wall. Suddenly they drew their guns and fired. The robbers returned the fire. Mrs. McIntyre and the other patrons dropped to the floor. Ferguson fell at the first blast from the bandits' guns.

The robbers, still firing, moved toward the front door. They slipped out and into their tan sedan and roared away up Western avenue. Kelly, in a lucid moment at the hospital, said he knew he had shot one of them in the neck. Witnesses said it appeared one of the pair was hit.

It was believed that the bandits may have been the same who a short time earlier held up a tavern at 5301 Justine street and escaped with $31.50 taken from the owner, Joseph Ringbauer, and three customers. One of the men had an automatic pistol and the other a revolver. Their tactics were similar to those used by the bandits in the Western avenue shooting.

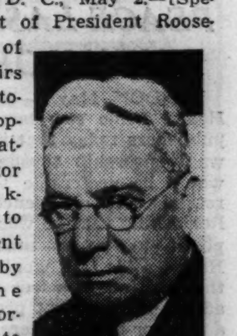
HOLD FORT! KEEP U. S. OUT OF WAR, CONGRESS TOLD

Sen. Johnson Fights Effort to Adjourn.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 2.—[Special.]—Distrust of President Roosevelt's conduct of foreign affairs was reflected today in senate opposition to an attempt by Senator John H. Bankhead [D., Ala.] to fix adjournment of congress by June 15. The prompt and vigorous opposition to Bankhead's resolution, which was regarded as an administration trial balloon, was based at least in part on a desire for congress to remain in session and keep a close watch on President Roosevelt until conditions in Europe improve.



Hiram Johnson.

This unwillingness to trust the President with the responsibility of keeping the country out of war, often and widely expressed privately, was intimated publicly in a speech by Senator Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.], veteran member of the foreign relations committee.

Stay on Guard, Says Johnson.

"We cannot go home," said Senator Johnson. "We have to be on guard, literally on guard, every minute of the day and every minute of the night in the days to come, to see that we do not participate in a war which is none of our concern, and that we be neither eased into that war nor driven into it. Let us stay here and do our duty in that regard."

The first casualty of war, Senator Johnson declared, is truth, and that casualty already has occurred. This was an allusion to administration propaganda and war hysteria, which he has denounced repeatedly. He urged congress to remain here and do everything in its power to "prevent any provocative utterances, prevent, if we can, various things which may be construed as warlike on the part of this government."

Fear Dictatorship Here.

"I regard the two dictators with every feeling of horror that can actuate anybody, or that anybody can feel," Senator Johnson declared, apparently referring to Hitler and Mussolini. "If we go to war in an endeavor to destroy those two dictators, we shall have a dictator in the United States, and he will be with us forever.

"Let us be ourselves, and, for the people of the United States, let us keep out of war."

Spectators in the galleries applauded when Senator Johnson had concluded his speech.

Senator Tom Connally [D., Tex.] and Senator William H. King [D., Utah] also opposed the Bankhead resolution on the ground that congress ought not to adjourn with a war menace in Europe.

"There is no war in Europe now, and I do not believe there is going to be any war in Europe immediately," said Senator Connally. "But there may be a war in Europe. The United States has no business in that war. The people of the United States do not want to be in that war."

Tries to Sidetrack Legislation.

Senator Bankhead's resolution proposed to sidetrack for further study all amendments to the Wagner labor relations act and all amendments to the neutrality act, railroad, tax, social security, and other legislation.

"We know that the senate committee [foreign relations] has been unable to agree upon a new neutrality bill," Bankhead said. "Senator Borah [William E., R., Idaho] has stated that it probably will take as long to pass a new neutrality bill, if it contains certain provisions, as it took for the senate to consider the covenant of the league of nations."

If Bankhead's gesture was an administration trial balloon, as was generally suspected, it meant that the White House was prepared to abandon the campaign to nullify the neutrality act and put the United States on the side of the so-called democracies of Europe in the next war.

By abandoning this proposal and getting congress out of Washington the administration would obviate the risk of a serious defeat on the neutrality act and, at the same time, would prevent any modification of the Wagner act or other New Deal legislation.

Barkley Against Adjournment.

Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.] opposed the Bankhead resolution, but he is not always acquainted with the devious moves of the White House. Barkley said the legislative program would not permit even serious consideration of a resolution to adjourn by June 15.

Barkley mentioned railroad legislation, taxes, social security amendments, and neutrality act revision as subjects demanding consideration. He expressed the hope that the existing corporate tax structure, which expires Dec. 31, would be extended without wasting any time on the removal of business deterrents.

SAYS CANADA MUST ARM

OTTAWA, Ont., May 2.—[Special.]—The Canadian senate was told yesterday by a world war infantry commander that President Roosevelt's pledge to defend Canada's territory would not protect its coast cities against bombardment and that American assistance would at best be bought with Canada's autonomy.

Gen. W. A. Griesbach, commander of the 1st Canadian infantry brigade during the world war and now a member of the upper house, declared there was great and growing dissatisfaction in Canada with the government's defense program. Military reorganization was mostly on paper, he said, leaving the dominion's land forces just what they were ten years ago.

He advised that because Canada could not obtain armaments from Britain she must establish an armament industry of its own.

PRESS GAG DURING PEACE LASHED BY BRITISH OFFICIAL

LONDON, May 2.—(AP)—Sir Samuel Hoare, home secretary, told British publishers today that in the event of war censorship through coöperation would be preferable to dictation to retain public confidence in the news. Remarking that he was "strongly opposed to peace time censorship," Hoare said: "I would rather have the criticism of a free press than the adulation of a kept press. If I were a dictator press flatterers would drive me mad."

ROPER TO HOLD DIPLOMATIC JOB FOR KING'S STAY

Washington, D. C., May 2.—(AP)—Daniel C. Roper, it was disclosed today, will serve only as temporary minister to Canada. The former secretary of commerce, appointed to the diplomatic post by President Roosevelt, said: "I expect to remain only during the period of the visit of the king and queen of Great Britain. That would be about sixty days, or ninety days at the most.' There was no indication who would succeed Roper at the end of that time.

U. S. OUTSMARTS HITLER ATTEMPT TO WOO BRAZIL

High Army Officer to Make Friendly Visit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 2.—[Special.]—Brig. Gen. George C. Marshall, who soon will succeed Gen. Maline Craig, chief of staff of the United States army, is scheduled to sail for Rio de Janeiro tomorrow.

Gen. Marshall.

The person mainly responsible for the visit of Gen. Marshall is believed to be Adolf Hitler, who some weeks ago, as part of his campaign to make Brazil view world conditions through Nazi eyes, hit upon an unprecented plan to accomplish his purpose.

The arrangement, which is said to have been worked out by Hitler and Field Marshal Hermann Goering, was to invite Gen. Pedro Aurelio de Goes Monteiro, chief of staff of the Brazilian army, to visit Germany, where he was assured he would be received with open arms and given the honor of leading a division of German troops in a parade in his honor.

Invitation Kept Quiet.

The invitation was not publicized extensively and plans apparently were proceeding according to schedule when some high officials in Brazil and in the United States heard what was going on. One was Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, and persons who know the facts say Welles was worried and upset. It was regarded as a delicate situation.

While Welles was busy in Washington trying to forestall the German move, Dr. Oswaldo Aranha, the Brazilian minister of foreign affairs, is understood to have taken a hand and to have advised President Getulio Vargas of Brazil that it was hardly an opportune time for a Brazilian soldier to place himself at the head of a column of German troops, since an erroneous interpretation of Brazil's attitude in the existing crisis might result in the United States, Great Britain, and France, all friendly nations.

Hitler's Bid Declined.

The upshot was that Hitler was informed that Gen. Monteiro was not going to Germany at this time. Instead he was to stay at home to welcome a distinguished American soldier who was coming to Brazil, and Gen. Monteiro would be one of his hosts. The American soldier selected to go to Brazil was Gen. Marshall, deputy chief of staff. At the time Gen. Marshall had not been chosen to succeed Gen. Craig.

Gen. Marshall is returning to Washington from an inspection tour of the Pacific defenses and is due to arrive tomorrow from Tucson, Ariz., where he stopped to pay a short visit to Gen. John J. Pershing, whose aid he was for several years. Gen. Marshall, who is going to Brazil by sea, will remain about a week.

PERMANENT BAR ON BERGDOLL IS SOUGHT IN BILL

Washington, D. C., May 2.—(AP)—Declaring service in the armed forces of the country is one of the paramount responsibilities of American citizenship, the house military affairs committee urged today the passage of a bill designed to prohibit Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, convicted draft dodger, from returning to the United States from Germany.

Putnam refused to comment on the statements.

10,000 COMPANIES REPORTED AIDING IN U. S. DEFENSE

Washington, D. C., May 2.—[Special.]—Approximately 10,000 private industrial plants have accepted schedules of production in connection with the current national defense program, Col. J. H. Burns, executive officer to the assistant secretary of war, told the United States Chamber of Commerce today.

Burns also disclosed at the round table discussion that a special study of price and wage control methods is being made in connection with proposed establishment of an economic control agency in case of war. The study is being made by the Brookings institution at the request of the war department.

The officer noted that army plans call for an initial strength of 400,000 men, increasing to 1,000,000 within three months after a declaration of war.

$100 CHECK GOES ASTRAY; CHARGES STIR U. S. HOUSE

Congressman Alleges Plot by Another.

Washington, D. C., May 2.—(AP)—A bitter fight over the creation of a new national park in California caused an uproar in the house today, with two congressmen from that state exchanging charges of scandal and corruption Representative Bertrand W. Gearhart, Republican, accused Representative Alfred J. Elliott, Democrat, of plotting to destroy his reputation.

The principal issue was a $100 check Gearhart said Elliott had used as a basis for false rumors against him in the hopes of defeating the Republican congressman's bill to establish the John Muir-Kings Canyon National park in California's Kings river area.

Check Mailed to Wrong Man.

Gearhart said the check, intended for him, had been erroneously mailed to Elliott by its sender, a Mrs. Gertrude S. Achilles of Morgan Hill, Cal.

Elliott, said Gearhart, had the check and a letter from Mrs. Achilles photographed and then remailed to him from California. In the meantime Elliott asked the federal bureau of investigation, Gearhart said, to inquire why it had been sent.

He accused Elliott of exhibiting the photographed copies in California with the representation that they were proof of the "base character and cheap grafting propensities of the representative of the 9th congressional district of California."

Gets an Ovation.

Gearhart, who told the house he had returned the check to Mrs. Achilles as soon as he received it, received a standing ovation by Republican members as he concluded. Democrats joined in the applause.

Elliott gained the floor immediately and was subjected to questioning from the Republican side. He insisted he had meant no harm to Gearhart's reputation.

"I had a perfect right," he shouted, "to know where this check was going and what was behind it."

U. S. Fleet Leaves Panama, Heads for San Diego Base

PANAMA CITY, May 2.—The American fleet moved out as scheduled today for maneuvers up the west coast until it reaches its base at San Diego, Cal. Light craft trickled out one by one during the morning. The Indianapolis weighed anchor at noon, followed by the Mississippi, California, and Pennsylvania one hour apart.

RIOTING SEAMEN IN C. I. O. STRIKE HALTED BY GAS

Outside Help Called to Aid Town Police.

Everett, Mass., May 2.—[Special.]—Police reserves from Boston and several other nearby cities were called here late today to halt street rioting by striking C. I. O. seamen. Everett police called for help when the mob violence flared out of control.

Enraged by the officers' use of tear and nauseating gas, Thomas McGowan, business agent for the strikers' union, boasted that pickets would be on duty tomorrow in gas masks.

Police Chief George O. Kenney answered his challenge with the assertion he would ask Gov. Leverett Saltonstall to send National Guardsmen to the town if the violence continued.

Strike Ties Up Tankers.

The rioting climaxed a two weeks' strike which has tied up six oil tankers in the Boston area and more than 100 along the Atlantic coast. The strikers, members of the C. I. O. National Maritime union, seek preferential hiring and increased wages.

The first outbreak took place near union headquarters, where strikers stoned a truck. Then a series of battles broke out, with sticks and stones being hurled indiscriminately. Police who rushed to the scene were met by a barrage of the missiles.

The tension was so great that Chief Kenney sent out a request to all cities and towns in the state to send officers and equipment to his aid. Outnumbered about 20 to 1, he feared serious bloodshed if his men were forced to use their weapons to restore order.

Boston Sends Men and Boats.

Boston police sent twenty-five officers and three dozen tear gas grenades. Other cities dispatched policemen and riot equipment. Boston also sent its three harbor police boats to the dock side of the Colonial Beacon Oil company here, where the strikers had massed.

When the augmented police force numbered about 125, attempts were made to move 250 pickets from in front of the oil company plant.

Officers said gas was used only after trucks bearing provisions for struck oil tankers at the Colonial dock were showered with missiles and one driver was cut by a broken windshield. Wind carried one cloud of gas into a nearby playground.

PRESIDENT SAYS HE ORDERED NEW CARIBBEAN BASES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 2.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt returned to the capital late tonight from a six day visit at his boyhood home in Hyde Park, N. Y. He went directly to the White House from his train.

At a press conference earlier in the day after he had boarded his private car for the return trip Mr. Roosevelt discussed the national defense situation. He disclosed that the war department's creation of the department of the Caribbean was a result of his participation in the navy's war games in the North Atlantic last February.

The navy's first maneuvers since the world war demonstrated, he said, that the development of airplanes as a third arm of warfare has made the defenses of sea bases a more precarious problem than ever before.

Accuses Ex-Husband

[TRIBUNE Photo.]
JUNE STRAETEN.

WOOS EX-WIFE OUT OF JOBS, SO COURT SAYS PAY

Rushing Since January Wins June Alimony.

When Mrs. June Straeten Nagel divorced George W. Nagel Jr. on Jan. 16, she asked no alimony. Instead she went out and got herself a job as a secretary. But she came back to ask alimony yesterday although her attorney assured the court that she's no gold digger, because—

Her ex-husband, she says, gets her dismissed from secretarial jobs faster than she can get them.

The former Mrs. Nagel, who now uses her maiden name, said that ever since the divorce her husband has been begging her to remarry him.

Office Scenes Get Her Fired.

"He calls me at the office," she said. "He comes there to see me. When I tell him no, he loses his temper and makes such a scene that no company will have me around. I lose my job."

Her attorney, Edward L. S. Arkema, told Judge Robert C. O'Connell more.

"Miss Straeten has a young woman friend who shares her apartment at 3917 Frontier street," he said. "Nagel didn't stop at getting Miss Straeten fired. He made such a scene that her friend lost her job, too.

"Now neither girl has an income.

Prefers Work to His Money.

"Miss Straeten wants only enough to enable her to live until she can begin earning her own living again. Her ex-husband earns $400 a month as an advertising salesman. But she will be satisfied with $20 a week and he can stop paying that if he'll let her get a job and keep it."

Miss Straeton, a slender brunette 24 years old, said that although she has no money for the rent, she has $4,000 worth of furniture in her apartment—a wedding present from her family and Nagel's.

Judge O'Connell awarded her the $20 a week.

Work Started on Contested Winnetka Church Building

Work was in progress yesterday on the new Saints Faith, Hope, and Charity Catholic church and school in Winnetka. The Illinois Supreme court recently granted church authorities permission to erect the $200,000 building at Hill road and Linden and Ridge avenues, in the residential section of the suburb, after the Winnetka zoning board had refused a permit. The Rev. Thomas J. Burke celebrated mass and broke ground for the building at a ceremony Monday.

PLAN TO ENLARGE COUNTY'S FOREST PRESERVE AREA

Citizens' Committee Maps Vast Program.

Cook county's forest preserves will be increased from their present area of 33,690 acres to about 40,000 acres within the next three or four years if the recommendations of the forest preserve citizens' advisory committee are carried out. The group is headed by Edward Eagle Brown, president of the First National bank. It has served the commissioners for twelve years.

Under the state law the forest preserve board, which has the same members as the board of county commissioners, is authorized to issue bonds for the purchase of not more than 35,000 acres. This limit has been reached. The advisory committee urges that the forest board seek state legislation to raise the limit to 40,000 acres and also take steps to acquire as a gift nearly 3,000 additional acres now held by the sanitary district of Chicago.

Financing Held Not Difficult.

It was indicated in the communication that financial arrangements for the purchases, either by agreement or condemnation, could be made without great difficulty. The forest preserve board has outstanding only $11,813,750 of bonds, although it is authorized to issue $23,000,000. The cost of the additional land purchases is estimated at $3,000,000.

"Bonds could be issued as needed," Mr. Brown and his associates wrote to the commissioners, "and the amount of outstanding bonds need not be more than $12,000,000 at any time." This last statement is predicated on the fact that the principal of outstanding bonds is reduced by regular sinking fund payments.

In outlining the necessity for the increased acreage, the committee members pointed out that in 1916, when the bonding limit of 35,000 acres was established, Cook county had a population of 2,700,000. The comparable figure today is estimated at 4,400,000.

Goal Is 10 Acres per 1,000.

"Recreation authorities have agreed that a desirable objective in respect to municipal parks and playgrounds is ten acres for each 1,000 people,' the committee stated.

Land within the city limits is too high priced for much park expansion, the advisory committee's letter says, and the responsibility for adequate play space is therefore on the forest preserve commissioners.

Looking ahead to 1960, the committeemen said that fifteen counties in the metropolitan area will probably have in that year 7,300,000 inhabitants. To reach the goal of 73,000 acres [the whole area now has 46,000 acres of publicly owned recreation space], it was suggested that Cook county should raise its holdings by at least 8,000, that the state of Illinois acquire 9,000 acres, the state of Wisconsin 2,000, the state of Indiana 2,000, and counties other than Cook 6,000 acres.

The committeemen urged that the forest board would not only fulfill its share of the obligation for twenty years ahead by buying now, but that such a policy would in the end mean a substantial saving, as suburban property is advancing in price.

Plans Link with Canal Lands.

For months the sanitary district has been discussing proposals to turn its real estate holdings, which are from 600 to 1,000 feet wide along some of its canals over to the forest commissioners. These lands, the committee said, are so located strategically that they could form connecting links between some of the forest preserves that are now isolated. The committee also suggested that the purchase of 5,000 more acres would serve to join the whole of the preserves into logical units.

"The 5,000 acre area proposed for addition is made up of a belt of land along streams and lakes such as Thorn creek in southern Cook county, around Wolf lake in southeastern Chicago, along the upper Des Plaines river and the north branch of the Chicago river," the committee reported.

On the committee, which has acted in an advisory committee for twelve years, are William Scott Bond, Daniel H. Burnham, Henry P. Chandler, Walter J. Cox, Rufus C. Dawes, William S. Elliott, Bruce Johnstone, John T. McCutcheon, and Charles W. Seabury. Robert Kingery is secretary.

200 MORRIS, ILL., HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS STRIKE WHEN COACH IS FIRED

Morris, Ill., May 2.—[Special.]—Two hundred pupils of the Morris High school went on strike today, parading around the Grundy county courthouse and shouting, "We want Zimmerman back!"

Robert Zimmerman, 28 years old, is the athletic coach. He and three other high school teachers and two teachers from the grade school have been notified that their contracts will not be renewed, but no explanation has been forthcoming other than that the action is for the good of the schools.

Half of the high school pupils left their classes today.

They marched to the Grundy County National bank, of which Walter G. Penn, president of the school board, is head, but Penn refused to see them.

"The school board, not those youngsters, is going to run this school," he said.

The teachers notified that their contracts will not be renewed are Zimmerman, Miss Edith Kincaid, Miss Genevieve Beard, and A. R. Grismer of the high school, and Miss Helen Fairbairn and another teacher from the grade school.

Penn declined to explain Zimmerman's discharge.

AIRPLANE SPEED UP TO 500 M. P. H. PREDICTED SOON

Langley Field, Va., May 2.—[Special.]—Speeds of almost 500 miles an hour for planes of tomorrow are nearing realization, Dr. George W. Lewis, director of the national advisory committee for aeronautics said today at this research center. He spoke before several hundred guests including Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, a member of the committee, at the dedication of two new wind trunnels.

Science is solving problems of air flow and compression of air that will permit these super-speeds for tomorrow, Dr. Lewis explained. [A German Messerschmidt 109R plane set a world's record of 469 miles an hour less than a month ago.] He said that in the future, when air flow is fully understood speeds of almost 700 miles an hour might become possible.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 2.—While the feud between the recent allies, Germany and Poland, is becoming highly vocal, the estrangement between the partners of the Munich pact, England and Germany, is proceeding in a more genteel but nevertheless decidedly unfriendly vein.

Denunciation of the Poles and their demands for East Prussia and Silesia filled the press today. Hidden away in the Official Gazette was an order prohibiting the sale of postal cards showing Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Prime Minister Chamberlain of Britain united in amity at Godesberg last September. The conference at Godesberg led to the four-power decision at Munich to let Hitler absorb the Sudeten German regions of what then was Czecho-Slovakia.

Many of Berlin's fervent members of the Nazi party were nursing hangovers today. The police complained that never before did they have as difficult a time managing persons under the influence of May day liquor as yesterday.

Hitler's Aids Enjoy Selves.

Robert Ley, chief of the Labor Front, has been preaching abstemiousness, but many members of his front evidently did not take his teachings to heart. Even the usually staid and dignified employés of Hitler's chancellery had a great time in the Wintergarten theater, where everybody from charwomen to the secretaries of state met for the festivities.

Workers with small pay envelopes were given $2 tickets for beer and $1.20 tickets for food. At the Wintergarten the $2 bought six huge glasses of beer.

Those who wanted hard liquor had to pay for it out of their own pockets. The result was that quite a number of persons this morning felt considerable sympathy for the introduction of beer with an alcoholic content of 1 per cent. Hitler and Ley have been advocating such a brew for a long time.

Press Attacks Poland.

The Nazi hangovers did not cramp the style of the headline writers. They attacked Poland and accused her of being arrogant. The Nazi press was particularly angry at the Polish Illustrated Courier, which said that when Austria was united with Germany the Germans should have returned the Polish Silesia and East Prussia to Poland. The paper also said: "Danzig must be annexed by Poland."

Sir Nevile Henderson, the British ambassador, finally was received by Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop after waiting nine days for an appointment. The British embassy described the visit as a routine call of courtesy. Political observers put it this way: "It is quite natural that England should be interested to know what Hitler meant when he referred to the possibility of reaching a new agreement with England after he scrapped the naval pact."

Angry Over Expulsions.

Difficulties were developing over the expulsion of German citizens from England and British citizens from Germany. The Voelkischer Beobachter, Hitler's mouthpiece, in a dispatch from London complained about the expulsion of nine Nazi party functionaries. It is indignant because the correspondent of the Essener National Zeitung, Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's organ, has been requested to leave England. The correspondent was referred to as leader of the local groups of central London.

The Voelkischer Beobachter asserted that the expelled Germans did not violate British laws. It warned that Germany will give the proper reply to what it described as shabby treatment of decent Germans.

Nevertheless, German officials said that Dr. Herbert von Dirksen, Nazi envoy to London, will return to the British capital this week. They expressed the hope his return would contribute to better relations. Von Dirksen left London immediately after Henderson's departure for Britain March 17 to report on Germany's invasion of Czecho-Slovakia.

HENRY BLACKMER, 69, IS MARRIED IN EXILE TO AN OPERA SINGER

PARIS, May 2. — [Special.] — The secret marriage of Henry M. Blackmer, Colorado oil millionaire, who has lived in exile from the United States since his refusal to testify before the senate in the Teapot Dome oil scandal fifteen years ago, was disclosed today.

Eide Norena.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

He married Eide Norena, Norwegian soprano and former Metropolitan opera star, in a brief civil ceremony before the mayor of the 15th Arrondissement on Feb. 1, friends disclosed. Since then the couple has been living in a new Paris home on Avenue Foch. Blackmer is 69 years old. Miss Norena is about 55.

Once head of the Midwest Oil company and still reputed to be worth more than $30,000,000, Blackmer fled the United States in 1924 during the oil scandals that rocked the Warren Harding administration. Year after year he fought extradition on a fugitive from justice warant signed by the late President Coolidge, in which he was charged with falsification of income tax returns. In 1926 he paid a $60,000 fine assessed because of his refusal to testify in the oil scandals, but the other charge still hung over him. At various times since it has been reported that he would return to the United States to take his medicine, but friends said today that he has no intention of returning to America.

50 NAZI AGENTS FACE EXPULSION FROM ENGLAND

Government Scrutinizes Activity of Germans.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 2.—British newspapers today reported that the government was planning to expel more than fifty Nazi agents from England. The expulsion orders, it was declared, would be given as a result of information gathered in the course of an investigation of Nazi activities throughout the United Kingdom. Some of those to be expelled, it was said, are newspapermen.

Simultaneously with this war of expulsions, the British pushed their preparedness for war on other fronts. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain conferred with Viscount Craigavon, prime minister of Northern Ireland, concerning the British plan to conscript youths for military training.

Viscount Craigavon said after the meeting that he had left the decision on whether to apply conscription to Northern Ireland in the hands of the British government. He added that all the resources of Northern Ireland were at the disposal of the British government if it decided to call for them.

Suppress Army List.

The application of conscription to Northern Ireland has been a delicate question since Eamon de Valera, prime minister of Ireland, warned the British government recently against it. It was indicated by British sources tonight that the government would not attempt to enforce conscription in Northern Ireland unless war broke out.

The government announced that general publication of the monthly army list would be suspended, effective immediately. The army list contains the names of all officers. It was said at the war office that the suspension of publication was decided upon to hamper foreign agents, who, it was declared, used the list as a reference book.

It was announced also that applications by British army officers for permission to retire will not be approved until the international situation has cleared.

Army Recruiting Gains.

Leslie Hore-Belisha, secretary of war, announced in the house of commons that from Jan. 1, 1938, to March 31, 1939, 49,415 men had enlisted in the regular army and 104,890 in the territorial army. This was in contrast with the corresponding period of 1936-'37, when 36,598 men enlisted in the regular army and 66,295 in the territorial army.

The government today sent to Berlin an acknowledgment of the German note last week denouncing the 1935 British-German naval treaty. It was indicated by a spokesman for the foreign office that the British had no intention of negotiating a new naval pact with Germany.

FASCIST PRESS SHIFTS COURSE; ATTACKS POLES

Calls Them Stubborn in Danzig Dispute.

ROME, May 2.—(AP)—The controled Italian press took an unsympathetic tone toward Poland today as diplomats looked in that direction for the next move of the Rome-Berlin axis.

Newspapers characterized Polish reaction to Germany's desires as "intransigent" [uncompromising].

Diplomats placed special importance on the press treatment of Poland, since up to now newspapers have been stressing Italian-Polish friendship. Some thought it was an indication that Italy would give Germany full support in the event of a new crisis involving Danzig and Poland.

Charges Threatening Language.

La Tribuna said the extremist Polish press was using threatening language toward Germany and accused Britain of instigating Warsaw to military occupation of Danzig.

"Poland will not yield an inch from her intransigent position, and as for Danzig, it is probable that Poland also wants to advance greater pretenses to strengthen her position in the free city," Il Giornale d'Italia said in a dispatch from Warsaw.

The message added that almost all foreign diplomats in Warsaw, including Italians and Germans, were sending their families out of the country.

Nazi Reviews Native Troops.

Evidence of the solidarity of the axis continued. Col. Gen. Walther von Brauchitsch, chief of staff of the German army, reviewed native troops at Bengasi, Libya, and it was announced he would see a sham battle at Bracciano upon his return to Italy with Gen. Alberto Pariani, chief of staff of the Italian army.

Premier Mussolini, meanwhile, received Anthony Kunder, Hungarian minister of commerce and industry, who said on his arrival that he hoped to effect greater development of Italian-Hungarian commercial relations.

3 U. S. Warships to Stop in Mexico for Week's Visit

MEXICO CITY, May 2. — (AP) — The American embassy announced today that the American cruiser Charleston and the destroyers Tattnall and J. Fred Talbott, comprising the navy's special service squadron, would arrive at Vera Cruz next Monday for a week's visit. Rear Admiral John W. Wilcox Jr., commanding the quadron, and his staff will visit Mexico City to be guests of Ambassador and Mrs. Josephus Daniels and to call on President Lazaro Cardenas next Wednesday.

HITLER EXPECTED TO AVOID WAR IN FIGHT FOR DANZIG

Peaceful Deal with Poles Predicted.

LONDON, May 2.—(AP)—The impression grew in both official and diplomatic quarters tonight that the Polish-German dispute over the free Baltic port of Danzig would be settled peacefully.

Official observers in the British foreign office and in foreign embassies apparently were becoming convinced that:

1 Poland is prepared to agree to joint Polish-German control of Danzig and to make any other concession compatible with her independence and her need for a free outlet to the Baltic sea.

2 Germany is unwilling to risk a major war for Danzig—a city not quite the size of Newark, N. J., and one which would bring her no great economic gains.

3 Germany is slowly drawing the conclusion from Britain's commitments to Poland and Rumania and adoption of conscription that she might have to face a war on two fronts against such a coalition as Britain, France, Poland, soviet Russia, and Rumania.

Poland Proud Nation.

While the opposition section of the Polish press now is suggesting that Poland demand a protectorate over Danzig, this move was explained here as a maneuver to reëstablish a position of equality in bargaining with Germany over Danzig.

Diplomats point out that Polish pride has played a great part in negotiations of that country during the last few months. They say Poland demanded that the British-Polish agreement—under which the two countries are pledged to aid each other against aggression—be reciprocal to avoid any suggestion that a small power was seeking the protection of a large power.

And now, the diplomats say, the Poles unofficially are making demands upon Germany not because they think Germany will concede them but just to show Germany they are not afraid to make a few demands themselves.

Suggest Board Control City.

Informed sources said Poland would let a board made up equally of Poles and Germans control Danzig in place of the league of nations commissioner.

But Reichsfuehrer Hitler's demand for unqualified return of the Free City to the reich is certain of Polish rejection because the Poles are convinced that once Danzig becomes a part of Germany a Nazi military and naval base would be established there immediately and Poland's outlet to the Baltic would be blocked.

British official quarters say that Britain, however, is not suggesting to Poland how she should settle the Danzig question even though the British guarantee of Poland's independence covers Danzig.

"We are confident," one official said, "that Col. Beck [Polish foreign minister] will solve this problem fairly and peacefully."

Poland's confidence in her ability to settle her difficulties with Germany is so great she still is holding out against a flat military guarantee of her territory by Russia.

REJECTION PREDICTED

WARSAW, May 2.—(AP)—Foreign Minister Col. Josef Beck today was said to be ready to reject flatly German demands for outright annexation of Danzig and a broad German route to East Prussia in his speech to parliament Friday.

Commentators argued that resistance to Adolf Hitler's claims would be the best means of arriving at a peaceful solution. Submission, it was held, would only increase the impetus of German demands.

The press sharply reflected popular support for maintenance of all Polish rights in Danzig, free city at the head of the Polish corridor. The public fears that a German rail and road passage through the corridor separating East Prussia from the rest of Germany would block Poland's outlet to the sea.

The press joined in predicting that Beck would answer the German demands with a plain no. However, it was not indicated whether he would go as far as to subscribe to demands in opposition newspapers for a Polish protectorate over Danzig.

The government has said it was ready to offer Germany all technical facilities for communicating between the two sections of the reich, but would give up no degree of sovereignty in the corridor. The German suggestion of a right of way 15½ miles wide was received coldly.

Polish newspapers, meanwhile, bitterly accused Germany of a long-standing intrigue aimed at building a wall to cut Poland off from the sea. The official Gazeta Polska declared that Hitler's obvious policy was to remove Poland from the Baltic.

Plan to Broadcast Speech.

Arrangements were being made to broadcast Beck's speech in several foreign languages, including English, with a special transmission to the United States.

Since parliament's next regular session will be in December, the Friday meeting may be the last until then. The cabinet will ask parliament to invest President Ignace Moscicki with decree powers during the recess over problems of national defense and finance excepting the rate of the Polish currency.

Plans for a Polish air line to Great Britain without crossing Germany were completed. Present Warsaw-London planes stop at Berlin. A new regular line from Warsaw to Gdynia, Copenhagen, and London is expected to begin operation in a few days.

Britain to Lend $7,020,000 to Rumanian Industries

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 2.—(AP)—A British economic mission negotiating a new trade treaty with Rumania today arranged details of a $7,020,000 loan to Rumanian industries and businesses. The trade mission resumed its negotiations after a three day pause during which British experts investigated enterprises seeking British capital.

DEMOCRATS KILL STATE ECONOMY QUIZ COMMITTEE

Parole Reform Bill Given House Group's O. K.

spoke for the bill and Judge Harry M. Fisher against it.

The Ward-Schnackenberg bill directs courts to fix minimum and maximum sentences within the limits of the indeterminate sentence act.

Judge Trude declared its passage would take a heavy burden from the parole board without nullifying the intent of the parole law.

He insisted that a judge who hears the evidence and has an opportunity to summon any person able to throw light upon the proper punishment of a defendant is in a far better position than the parole board to determine minimum punishment.

Judge Fisher said the bill would substitute for the parole board the individual opinions of the ninety-nine Circuit court judges in Illinois. "Reorganize the parole board, if you will, but do not abolish it," he pleaded.

Judge Fisher suggested as an alternative for the Ward-Schnackenberg bill that judges be empowered to fix a maximum sentence for first offenders and a minimum for second offenders.

Judge Walter W. Wright of Carrollton, president of the Circuit Court Judges of Illinois, also opposed the bill, declaring that downstate judges did not want it.

Attorney Charles A. Bellows, for eight years an assistant state's attorney of Cook county and now engaged largely in criminal defense practice, supported the measure.

Chicagoans Wreck Bills.

The city manager bills were wrecked today by Chicago Democrats aided by a clique of Chicago Republicans. Sponsors had claimed pledges of support that would at least carry the bills through the house, but the measures were not permitted to reach passage stage.

An amendment, passed after long debate, took Chicago out of the bills. Another struck out the enacting clause, closing the subject for this session. Similar bills have been introduced in nearly every session for twenty years.

On the amendment to exclude Chicago the vote was 67 to 64. The vote on the amendment to kill the enacting clause was 69 to 65. The only Chicago Democrats to aid the bills were Representatives Benjamin S. Adamowski, minority floor leader; Michael E. Hannigan, Arthur M. Kaindl, and Linn.

Chicago Republicans who voted to kill the bills were Representatives James J. Adduci, Arthur T. Broche, William S. Finucane, Peter C. Granata, Stanley E. Martynowski, John A. Pelka, Robert Petrone, Edward P. Saltiel, Torrence, and William J. Warfield. The three latter are colored. Jenkins said he feared Negroes would fare badly under the proposed system of electing councilmen.

The plan provided that Chicagoans elect eleven councilmen at large instead of fifty aldermen by wards. The councilman with the highest vote would be mayor. The city's chief executive, however, would be the city manager. The council would hire him and could fire him.

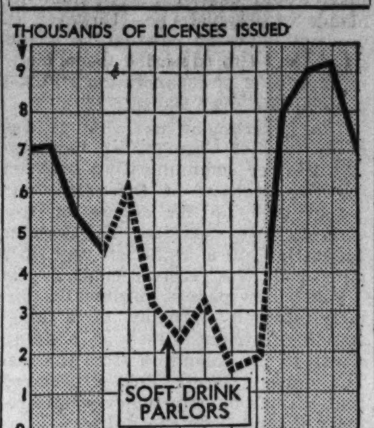
Called a Lollypop.

The city manager plan was dubbed "just a lollypop that looks good and would fool the people" by Representative Joseph L. Rategan [D., Chicago]. He said that in a referendum the people would not know what they were voting for.

"I don't believe the people of Chicago can be fooled by a lollypop," replied Representative Rennick. "And I resent the implication of this word picture as to downstaters also. Thirty-nine states have this permissive legislation, used by over 450 cities."

As a spokesman for Mayor Kelly, Representative James P. Boyle denied that the mayor wanted the bills to be passed. Mayor Kelly, said Boyle, merely asked that they be released from committee to give all members a chance to vote.

Tavern Licenses



Graph shows recent rise in number of licensed taverns in Chicago. The white section covers the period of prohibition, and the licenses in that time for soft drink parlors. If the taverns were limited to one for each 500 population, the line would go down again in 1940 as indicated.

More taverns were operated in Chicago last year than ever before in the history of the city. The total was 9,496, compared with 9,290 which have been licensed for the first six months of this year.

Bills pending before the legislature, limiting the number of taverns to one for each 500 population, would reduce the total to 7,260. This law is similar to that which existed before prohibition when taverns were limited to 7,152 from 1909 through 1916.

MAYOR SUPPORTS COALITION TICKET IN JUDGES' RACE

Urges Democrats to Back All 26 Nominees.

Mayor Kelly yesterday spoke for the entire Democratic ticket in the judicial election on June 5. At a meeting of the Democratic county central committee in the Morrison hotel he urged support of all twenty-six nominees, among whom are ten Republicans.

"I'm here today," he said, "because I consider it my duty both as a member of this organization and as mayor of Chicago to speak out in favor of deserving, experienced, thoroughly qualified judicial candidates.

"This organization's support of coalition for this election is incontrovertibly a service to good government. Every man on the ticket, Democrat and Republican alike, has an outstanding public service record. All the candidates with but two exceptions have had judicial experience.

Hails Principle of Coalition.

"Opposed to them is a ticket of unknown quality, and I am supremely confident the people of Cook county are not going to trade experience for experiment at this time. The people of this community have repeatedly demonstrated their approval of the principle of coalition. It has operated to retain deserving judges and has kept the judiciary out of politics."

County Chairman P. A. Nash spoke in a similar vein.

"The charge will be made, of course," said Nash, "that the candidates are machine made. The answer to that is simply found in the qualifications of the candidates and the records they have made."

G. O. P. Candidates Speak.

The twenty-six nominees on the Republican ticket continued the round of ward meetings that they began on Monday. Some began to point out similarities between the local situation and the Roosevelt court packing plan.

"Coalition and court packing are twin evils," said Luther D. Swanstrom, "evils which destroy the impartial efficacy of our judiciary."

"A vote for the Republican ticket," said Arthur J. Murphy, an overseas veteran, "is a vote against coalition and the New Deal—a vote against war."

"A vote for the Republican ticket is a vote for Americanism and against dictatorship," said Hector Brouillet.

"Judges will not be the servants of the people unless they are elected by the people and are responsible to them," said William D. Saltiel.

GUTKNECHT ASKS DETENTION HOME FOR ERRANT BOYS

The St. Charles School for Boys, like any other jail, is a school of crime, Judge John Gutknecht told the citizens' committee on the Juvenile court last night. The committee met in the Morrison hotel and heard Judge Gutknecht and the Rev. Ralph A. Gallagher, Loyola university sociologist.

"There ought to be a real detention home to which boys could be sent if we wish to save them," Judge Gutknecht said. "If we don't want to save our boys the best thing to do is to shoot them outright as they do in Europe."

Judge Frank H. Bicek is doing a fine job in Juvenile court, Judge Gutknecht insisted. "He tries to save boys instead of sending them to jail," he said. "I could understand objections to his plan if it were possible to reform them in jail, but it isn't."

Joyful Initiation

Three hundred boys and girls were initiated into the delectable mysteries of black cow yesterday in Hull house, Halsted and Cabrini streets. Moved by the generous spirit of national ice cream week, two dairy companies supplied the treat—125 ice cream sandwiches and ten gallons of black cow. Black cow is ice cream richly darkened and flavored with root beer.

PARK BONDS BILL ADVANCES OVER TAXPAYERS' 'NO'

Committee Asks House to Vote Measure.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 2.—[Special.]—Organized taxpayers failed today in an attempt to prevent committee approval of bills authorizing the Chicago park district to issue $6,000,000 in bonds without a referendum and to levy increased taxes.

With less than half of the thirty-five members present, the municipalities committee of the house recommended that the bill be passed.

Robert J. Dunham, president of the park district, said it is planned to pass the bond issue bill first. If the house concurs, he said, the pegged levies in the other bill will be reduced by a total of $6,000,000, the amount of the bond issue.

As the bill stands now it provides for pegged levies of $10,500,000 for the tax year 1939, and $11,000,000 for 1940 and 1941.

176 Organizations Object.

Frank J. Bilek, president of the Cook County Civic council, which he said is comprised of 176 smaller taxpayers' organizations, objected to the park measures.

"It's mighty nice for you to vote this stuff—but look at the court records of mortgage foreclosures on small homes today," Bilek said.

"You haven't passed any legislation to enable us homeowners to get on relief or WPA. Do you want us to take a chunk out of the floor for breakfast and another for dinner?

"Sure, we love music, but we can do away with park band concerts in times like these."

John Bowers, chairman of legislative committee of the Chicago Real Estate board, also protested.

"I don't feel the residents of Chicago are entitled to any more playgrounds than the taxpayers can pay for," Bowers said.

The committee also reported favorably a bill giving Wilmette and Kenilworth the right to acquire the no-man's land between the two without a vote of property owners in the unincorporated area.

HORNER REAPPOINTS HIS CABINET; HART GETS COMMERCE POST

Springfield, Ill., May 2.—[Special.]—Gov. Henry Horner reappointed his cabinet of ten department heads today and made two changes in the Illinois commerce commission. He did not, however, name a chairman of the commission to succeed United States Senator James M. Slattery. New appointees are William Hart to the commerce commission and Joseph E. Knight to be commission secretary in Hart's place. Knight has been an assistant commissioner.

Dr. A. C. Baxter, who has been acting director of health, was made director. The other nine reappointed departmental directors are Sam Nudelman, finance; James H. Lloyd, agriculture; Martin P. Durkin, labor; James McSherry, mines and minerals; F. Lynden Smith, public works; A. L. Bowen, public welfare; Thomas J. Lynch, conservation; John J. Hallihan, registration and education, and Ernest Palmer, insurance.

Peter J. Angsten was reappointed chairman of the industrial commission.

CHICAGO ROAD PLAN IS DEAD, SAYS HUBBARD

Springfield, Ill., May 2.—Nicholas L. Hubbard [D., Mt. Pulaski], chairman of a senate committee on highway policy, said today the 140 million dollar program for Chicago superhighways and downstate farm to market roads apparently is dead.

Hubbard made his statement after the committee was told by Prof. C. C. Wiley, University of Illinois highway engineer, that modernization and repair of existing highways cannot be carried out if license fees or gasoline taxes are reduced. This means that new roads can't be built without increased taxes, Hubbard said.

Wiley said the most important duty of the state highway department is to modernize present highways. The committee will draft its report to the legislature next week.

CITY OF ST. CHARLES ENDS FIGHT ON FENCE AT SCHOOL FOR BOYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 2.—[Special].—Representative John C. Friedland [R., Elgin] was notified today that the St. Charles Chamber of Commerce had withdrawn its opposition to a bill for erection of a fence about the St. Charles School for Boys.

The measure, which calls for an appropriation of $40,000 to construct the barrier and patrol the grounds, was advanced to third reading on the house calendar.

A. F. Vagge, president of the St. Charles chamber, said that objections to the fence were withdrawn because the legislative committee investigating escapes at the state institution was taking steps "to make St. Charles a first class training school for boys and not a penal institution."

"The people of this community," Vagge wired, "appreciate deeply the sincere efforts of the legislative committee in its difficult task of finding solutions to the many serious problems at this school." The appropriation bill, which passed the senate last week, may be placed on final roll call tomorrow. Its passage is predicted.

EX-POLICE CHIEF DIES AT 74.
Logansport, Ind., May 2.—[Special.]—Thomas Miller, 74 years old, former police chief and a member of the local police department for 41 years, died of a stroke of apoplexy today.

PARKS FORBIDDEN TO INTERFERE IN GUN CLUB CASE

Judge Cornelius J. Harrington issued a temporary injunction yesterday restraining officials of the Chicago Park district from interfering with members of the Lincoln Park Traps club or the general public who use the club's facilities on the lake shore near Diversey parkway.

Last September the park trustees voted to cancel the gun club's lease, which runs until 1946, for failure to pay $200 rental accruing in four years. The club's attorneys asserted that the failure to meet the rental had been an oversight and that when payment was offered to park trustees it was refused. It was further alleged that closing of the club would hamper the public in the enjoyment of trap shooting.

STANTON UNFIT TO SIT ON BENCH, SAYS COURTNEY

Politics, Asserts Judge of Misconduct Charges.

State's Attorney Courtney yesterday charged Judge Walter T. Stanton with deliberate judicial misconduct and said that he should not be permitted to sit in the Criminal court. He accused the judge of aiding two young toughs who were acquitted of house burglary in Stanton's court Monday. The judge replied: "Politics!"

State's Attorney Courtney [top] and Judge Stanton.

"I am paying the penalty for belonging to the Kelly-Nash organization, and I have been paying it for many years," was Judge Stanton's answer to the state's attorney's charge. "I am sorry if the state's attorney does not like me. I cannot help that. The record of the court is there, and it speaks for itself."

Scores Instructions to Jury.

Courtney's principal accusation was based on instructions which Judge Stanton gave the jury trying the accused burglars, James Callaghan, 15 years old, and Donald Lanktree, 18. Judge Stanton explained that they would face a mandatory sentence of a year to life in prison if convicted. Courtney declared that in doing this Stanton went beyond his province as a judge.

Discussing this phase of the prosecutor's charge, Stanton said: "I did give the instructions to the jury, and that is all there is to it."

Asked whether he did not consider this an unusual practice, Judge Stanton said: "If you were on a jury, wouldn't you like to know what the penalty was that you were going to inflict?"

New Indictment Obtained.

Courtney's criticism of Judge Stanton was in a statement issued after the prosecutor had obtained another indictment against Callaghan and Lanktree. Callaghan, who is accused of twenty-five burglaries, has admitted many of them and has implicated Lanktree. Lanktree is accused of nine burglaries. Callaghan's confession was read to the jury which acquitted the two Monday.

Two weeks ago Callaghan went on a rampage in the courtroom of Judge Jay A. Schiller. His outburst and threats against Judge Schiller caused him to be held for the Criminal court. Before the trial he was examined by Dr. Harry Hoffman, Criminal court psychiatrist, who pronounced him sane but emotionally unstable. Four indictments charging burglary were voted against him and Lanktree.

Probation Deal Rejected.

Last Friday they were brought before Judge Stanton. Their attorneys said the defendants would plead guilty if the state would agree to permit them to be placed on probation. Assistant State's Attorney Julius Sherwin refused. He said they were not first offenders but that this was merely the first time they had been caught.

A jury was waived and Judge Stanton heard the evidence in one case. The defendants had admitted their guilt and considerable stolen property had been recovered. Judge Stanton reserved his decision. Thereupon Prosecutor Sherwin moved to proceed in another case, and it was set for trial Monday.

Sherwin insisted on a jury for the second trial. After the evidence was presented, including Callaghan's confession, Judge Stanton explained the sentence the two would face if convicted. The jury then returned a verdict of acquittal.

Exceeded Right, Says Courtney.

"The recent act of Judge Stanton is but one of a series of acts of improper judicial conduct on his part," said Courtney. "By instructing the jury in a manner to give them the impression that the defendants were likely to be kept in Pontiac for life he deliberately went beyond his province as a judge in order to help the defendants.

"He knew he had no legal right to give such instruction. Therefore he, and not the jury, is responsible for the miscarriage of justice, in my opinion.

"Throughout the jury trial Judge Stanton exhibited an attitude of prejudice against the state. The state has no appeal to a higher court so, therefore, we cannot complain to a higher court as to his judicial misconduct."

Courtney cited another case—"the worst rape case ever to come to this office"—in which, he said, Judge Stanton refused to admit the confession of a grown man because it would create too much sympathy for the victim, who was 8 years old. The case was heard last October. Six persons were convicted.

Charges Desertion

Mrs. Florence Hamilton after winning divorce yesterday.

Mrs. Florence Hamilton, 22 years old, who sings in a near north side night club under the name of Joy Rogers, won an uncontested divorce yesterday before Judge Rudolph Desort. She testified that she was married to Arthur C. Hamilton of Detroit on Nov. 5, 1937, and that he deserted her six weeks later. Mrs. Hamilton lives in the St. Clair hotel.

STATE WILL ASK CHAIR FOR YOUNG SLAYING SUSPECT

Seeks Rape Conviction to Strengthen Case.

Samuel Hryciuk, 19 years old, has confessed two murders, several rapes, and numerous other attacks on women. Yesterday the state's attorney's office, starting a move by which it hopes eventually to send him to the electric chair or to prison for life, presented in Criminal court one of Hryciuk's confessions.

Hryciuk was arrested in March. He boasted then, "I guess I must have attacked about fifty women in all."

Hryciuk is being tried before a jury and Judge George Fred Rush on one of four charges of rape. He is described by the police as a vicious degenerate. Although he has repudiated the confessions, Judge Rush permitted the one in the present case to be read to the jury.

Seeks to Bolster Case.

Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Freedman said the state plans to ask the death penalty when the young rapist is tried for murder. He said there is little evidence, however, other than the admissions to connect him with the murders. If the confessions hold up in the rape cases, where witnesses are present to corroborate them, they will be strengthened for the murder trials, Freedman said.

The victim who is principal witness in the case now being tried is 45 years old, the widowed mother of a boy 11 years old, and a school teacher on a WPA project. On the witness stand she told how she was attacked by a young man as she crossed a wooden bridge in Humboldt park the night of June 1, 1938.

"The man jumped on me and began beating me and kicking me," said the witness, her voice tense. "He began tearing off my clothes and I screamed. He tore off my wrist watch. Then he stuffed a handkerchief in my mouth and attacked me.

"I must have fainted. When I came to I was in a hospital. They told me it was 10 o'clock at night."

Identified at Showup.

Subsequently she identified Hryciuk at a police showup.

Hryciuk, who gave his address as 2621 Potomac avenue, was arrested March 14 when he seized Miss Eleanor Cibic, 18, of 2518 Iowa street, and attempted to attack her near her home. Miss Cibic's screams brought her brother, Charles, who captured Hryciuk.

In his confession to the police, Hryciuk told of killing Mrs. Bertha De Meyer, 67, a recluse, who was found beaten and strangled to death in her home at 1657 North Troy street in November, 1937.

The other murder which Hryciuk confessed was that of Mrs. Caroline Schenke, 37, of 2856 North Harding avenue. She was beaten fatally in October, 1937, in an alley at the rear of 2709 North Kildare avenue. Hryciuk will be tried first for the De Meyer murder.

SEEING IS BELIEVING!

SMOKERS...everywhere...are comparing cigarettes by just watching them burn! At the right, O. J. Brown, pilot for American Airlines, shows how one leading cigarette, compared to others, burns much slower! It's a C-A-M-E-L! Camels win in this comparison by a wide margin. The reason: Costlier tobaccos... carefully blended... in a cigarette made to burn slowly, completely and smoke cool, mild!

Recently, a group of scientists made this interesting laboratory test on a bigger scale. 16 of the largest-selling cigarette brands were tested impartially. CAMELS BURNED SLOWER THAN ANY OTHER BRAND TESTED—25% SLOWER THAN THE AVERAGE TIME FOR THE OTHER BRANDS. (Camels were remarkably consistent. Cigarettes of some brands smoked twice as fast as others right from the same pack.) IN THE SAME TEST, CAMELS HELD THEIR ASH FAR LONGER THAN THE AVERAGE TIME FOR ALL OTHER BRANDS.

Camel is the cigarette of costlier tobaccos... cool, mellow, more appealing in taste, always so uniformly delightful!

"There it is again," veteran pilot O. J. Brown exclaims to a group of friends, "...the Camel is burning slower than the other cigarette. To me, that's a perfect explanation of why Camels smoke so cool and mild. It must have a lot to do with the delicate, pleasing taste of Camels, too!"

SMOKING IS BELIEVING!

Camel's slower burning (compared to the average time of the 15 other brands tested) gives you the equivalent of 5 extra smokes per pack! You economize while enjoying smoking pleasure at its best!

TRY Camels for a really thrilling smoking experience... fragrance, ripe taste, mildness! Camels give everything you want in a smoke... including ECONOMY!

Camels have more tobacco by weight than the average of the 15 other brands tested. Besides, Camels burn slower than any of those other brands. And by burning 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands, Camels give you the equivalent of 5 extra smokes per pack!

Camels give you even more for your money when you count in Camel's finer, more expensive tobaccos. Buy shrewdly! Buy Camels ... America's first choice for a luxury smoke every smoker can afford!

FARM AND LABOR GROUPS BLAMED FOR HIGH MILK

Federal Control Called an Aggravation.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 2.—[Special.]—Organized labor and organized farmers were blamed today for high retail milk prices paid by consumers in most parts of the country.

Theodore G. Montague.

Theodore G. Montague, president of the Borden company, accused leaders of these organizations of abusing their collective bargaining powers. He made his statement before the temporary economic committee created by congress to investigate monopolies.

State and federal control of prices in some markets were a further burden upon consumers, according to the head of the second largest milk distributor in the United States. In Illinois, the legislature is considering a milk control law such as has increased the cost of milk to consumers in eastern cities an average of 2 cents a quart.

Labor Cost Is High.

Montague emphasized the cost of labor in the Chicago market. There, he said, wagon drivers on retail routes this year averaged $52.82 a week, while those on wholesale routes averaged $79.95. Such wages have aroused dairy farmers to seek a larger part of the 10 cents a quart paid in stores and 12 cents paid for delivered milk through price fixing.

Montague said 6.47 cents was the labor costs in a 12 cent bottle of milk delivered to a Chicago home. He said the wagon driver received 4.01 cents of this total.

Tomorrow in Chicago, it was learned here, the Chicago Milk Wagon Drivers union will be in conference with the city's associated dealers on the question of whether a wage reduction proposal should be submitted to the vote of the union membership.

Price Said to Exceed Value.

"Coöperative marketing associations," Montague told the committee, "have been successful in maintaining high prices for fluid milk which are not based on real values. Governmental price fixing has operated to achieve the same result. Governmental price fixing has meant artificial and arbitrary price raising.

"These high prices [for the milk going into bottles and not for the surplus that is processed] have been a factor in encouraging farmers to increase their output. The record breaking surplus has resulted.

"An explanation of milk prices in Chicago," he continued, "may well be found in the current wage cost of milk delivered to the doorstep. It will not be possible to reëstablish stable employment in our Chicago fluid milk operation until excessive wage costs in delivery are reduced, paving the way to a lower retail price."

Seek to Cut Store Sales.

Referring to the high scale for wholesale route drivers in Chicago, Montague said: "This is a striking example of a union's bargaining power unduly raising the cost and price of milk. The purpose of the union in imposing this wage scale is not simply to obtain a high wage for those delivering to the stores, but to curtail our store business and thus to keep more of its members employed."

Replying to a recent charge made before the committee that there is a monopoly among dealers, Montague showed that Borden's milk purchases last year equaled only 4.4 per cent of the national production. In Chicago the two largest companies sell about 46 per cent of the milk delivered to stores and homes.

Problems of Milk Distribution Costs

(Story in adjoining column.)

FOUR DIE AS AUTO PLUNGES 200 FEET FROM TOP OF DAM

New York, May 2.—[Special.]—Four persons plunged to death late tonight when their automobile dropped 200 feet from the roadway atop Croton dam, near Kitchawan. Passing motorists, who reported the accident to state police at Hawthorne, said the car had come from the direction of Harmon on route 129. Whether the driver lost control or the car was thrown out of control by a blown tire, no one knew.

State police rushed floodlights to the scene and summoned an ambulance from White Plains. None of those who witnessed the crash was able to say whether the occupants were men or women—or both.

NOT GUILTY PLEA ENTERED BY TRIO IN BOMB SLAYING

Elizabethtown, Ill., May 2.—[Special.]—Three persons charged with the murder of Earl W. Austin, 44 years old, Cave In Rock High school janitor, pleaded not guilty on arraignment today in Hardin Circuit court before Judge Roy E. Pearce. The accused are Austin's widow, Alice, from whom he had been estranged; Theodore Simmons, and Ira Scott.

Austin was killed March 20 by an explosion of dynamite ignited by a fuse attached to the exhaust pipe of his motor truck. Hearing on a petition for bail was set for May 16. Mrs. Austin and Simmons were taken to jail at Harrisburg and Siott placed in the Hardin county jail.

Scott, who repudiated an alleged confession that he put the dynamite charge in the truck, appeared without counsel and the court appointed R. F. Taylor, Elizabethtown attorney, to defend him. James E. Watson, Elizabethtown, and Alpheus Gustin, Harrisburg, represent Mrs. Austin and Simmons. The defense will file motions for severance and a change of venue.

U. S. CRIME GRIP BEING BROKEN, DEWEY ASSERTS

Newman Medal Presented to Racket Buster.

BY BRUCE DENNIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Urbana, Ill., May 2.—[Special.]—Thomas E. Dewey got a gold medal tonight—the 1938 Cardinal Newman award for an outstanding contribution to American life and welfare. The young New York district attorney's contribution was the smashing of vice rings and corrupt politicians with a series of spectacular convictions ranging from Lucky Luciano to Tammany Boss James J. Hines.

Dewey received one medal but went through two presentation ceremonies with the Rev. Dr. John A. O'Brien, director of the Newman Foundation which adjoins the University of Illinois campus.

Addresses Capacity Crowd.

Because of a shift in radio time he was awarded the medal first, and made his speech of acceptance at what was to have been a quiet banquet given by faculty and campus leaders at a Y. M. C. A. After this broadcast event he dashed to the university auditorium and repeated his address to a capacity crowd of 2,000. Hundreds could not get into the auditorium.

It was Dewey's first speech in the middle west since he rose to national prominence and began to be mentioned as a Republican presidential possibility for 1940. He accepted the award not for himself, he said, but in the name of thousands of grand jurors, petit jurors, and business men who have dared to stand up and fight the rackets in New York and in other communities.

Cites Racketeers' Power.

"The racketeer became a power in politics in America and with political power came immunity," declared Dewey after tracing the rise of rackets in American cities. "Local overlords dictated the selection of men for public office. The relationship of crime and politics was winked at in high places.

"Today the extermination of organized crime is gradually progressing from city to city. Its sponsors are being exposed and driven from power. In high places it has been learned that clean government can also be good politics. It will take years to finish the job, but the good news of today is this—America is cleaning its own house."

Judge John P. McGoorty of the Cook county Superior court, state chairman of the Newman Foundation, presided at the medal presentations. He and Dewey motored from Chicago to Champaign this afternoon.

GREEK GODS GET CHILLY WELCOME ON NORTH SHORE

Northwestern university Greek letter society representatives garbed themselves in flowing robes last night to appear as Greek gods and goddesses in the annual pageant which opens the campus Greek week. They were to go a quarter of a mile north of the quadrangles to the lighthouse, embark in a great rowboat, and make a triumphal entry at a student party around a bonfire on the beach. But——

The weather was so chilly they had to spoil the effect by wearing over coats and cloaks over their classical garments. And they couldn't find the boat. So they had to trudge back down the beach to the party, with their teeth chattering and the sand getting in their shoes, frail mortals indeed.

SUBTERRANEAN TRANSIT (1)

By CALEB

PROBABLY clearer and more startling than in the minds of any other Chicagoans, these days, are the plans and projects that confront one particular group of engineers and construction experts: the recently organized City Department of Subways and Traction, headed by Commissioner Philip Harrington. For theirs is the problem of "substantially completing," by June 30, 1940, the 40-million-dollar system which will bring to the crowded Loop and its north, south and west side commuters, an entirely new travel medium: fast subterranean transit.

The new medium has not been at all new in the thoughts and discussions of city planners themselves. On the contrary, their studies, investigations and reports have delved into the subject, and its practicability, for the past thirty years. New York, Boston and Philadelphia have long since proved the case for swift conveyance unhampered by street-surface congestion and interference; while to millions of Londoners the "Tube" is as routine in the day's scheme as fog, or the "Bobbie" on any busy street-corner . . .

Bystanders who crowded the railed-off area near Chicago and State streets, on December 17th of last year, saw the first shovelfuls of earth taken from the first site of operations.

But the "Christmas rush" was already at its height; workmen digging a hole quickly lost the popular interest; and while, nine days later, the contractor's shaft on that spot had already assumed the proportions of a huge vertical tunnel—the average citizen today can tell his neighbor little or nothing about what is the project that has been launched; what program underlies it; or how the forthcoming subway will function in the city's total transportation scheme.

Yet, a few minutes' conversation with those "in the know"—city engineers who are entrusted with this one-time dream's actualization—would serve to surprise that same average Chicagoan with some startling glimpses into the transformed transit situation of an early tomorrow.

For not only will the new subway have many features not found in earlier systems, but—when and if the ultimate scope of the engineers' 1937 report to the city council is carried out—there will be realized a $181,000,000 modernization and expansion program designed to make Chicago's transit facilities the envy of all other metropolitan centers.

WPA LABOR COST 2½ TIMES THAT OF PRIVATE JOBS

Engineers Tell of Survey Made in N. Y.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 2.—[Special.]—Two government engineers today testified that the Works Progress administration spends two and one-half million dollars for labor on construction projects for every million dollars that would be expended for labor on the same construction work under private contract.

This evidence, presented to the house committee investigating the WPA, was regarded as the most crushing blow delivered thus far to President Roosevelt's insistence that congress should not reduce the multibillion dollar spending of the work-relief agency.

Supports Economy Demand.

Members of the committee declared that the testimony conclusively supported the contention of congress that vast economies can be effected in the operations of the WPA. Supporters of a slash in future WPA appropriations were given a powerful weapon in their opposition to the President's demand for 1 billion 762 million dollars for unemployment relief in the next fiscal year.

Allen W. Stephens and Peter L. Hein, consulting engineers in the procurement department of the treasury, were the witnesses. They gave the results of a survey they made in New York City of the comparative costs of WPA projects and similar work performed under private contract.

Various Projects Studied.

School buildings, a police station, sewers, piers, highway paving, marsh area drainage, an airport, and the WPA exhibition at the New York world's fair were studied by the engineers. The costs of these projects were then compared with the costs of private construction work.

When the WPA built a school building in Queens, New York City, the total cost was $782,000, of which $446,595 was for labor, Stephens said. Another school building of identical size, constructed nearby under private contract, cost the city only $441,000. The labor cost was $176,000.

While the excess cost of $341,000 was mainly due to labor costs, Representative John Taber [R., N. Y.], ranking minority member of the committee, noted that the WPA paid $70,000 more for materials than did the private contractor. Stephens said he couldn't explain this discrepancy.

High Wages on Airport.

The Northbeach airport, constructed for the convenience of world's fair visitors, was also studied by Engineer Stephens. He found that the WPA "security-wage limit" of approximately $94 a month had been widely waived in order to complete the airport by May 1. Workmen were paid high wages for overtime. The government is contributing 26 million dollars to the cost of this airport while New York City is contributing 15 million dollars.

Stephens said this project was so immense that he could not find another airport to compare the costs. He did not supply an estimate of the labor costs on the $41,000,000 airport. Assuming that the WPA labor costs would be about 60 per cent of the total, or $24,600,000, committee members applied the engineer's statement concerning the 250 per cent excess cost of WPA labor. They figured that the labor would have cost under private contract only $9,840,000, a saving of $14,760,000.

Other Costs Compared.

The WPA exhibition building at the fair, originally scheduled to cost $250,000, has already cost $504,000, Stephens testified. It is 95 per cent completed.

Although the entire cost of this building was borne by the WPA, only 17.7 per cent of the workers came from the relief rolls, the witness reported, the remaining 82.3 per cent consisting of nonrelief workers.

The U. S. government's building at the fair, erected under private contract, cost 20 cents per cubic foot, Stephens testified. The cost of the WPA building has been 43.5 cents per cubic foot. The government building is of steel construction while the WPA building is a frame structure.

Costly WPA Jobs

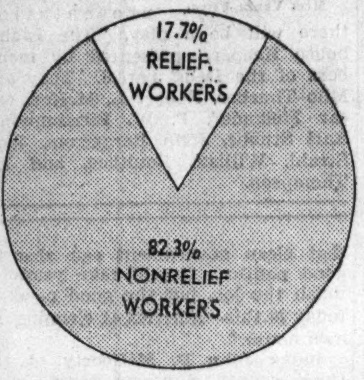
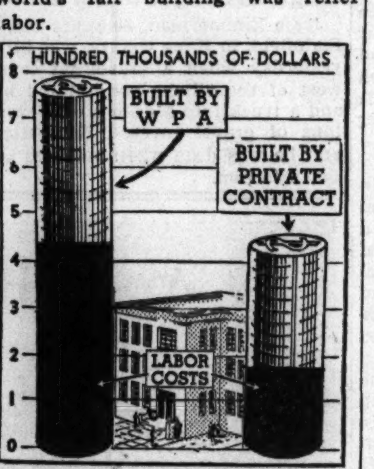
The administration building for the New York World's Fair, built by the WPA, was scheduled to cost a quarter of a million dollars. Now it is 95 per cent completed, and the cost to date has risen to more than half a million.



WPA projects are supposed to provide work for the unemployed, but testimony yesterday before the United States house committee investigating the WPA was that only 17.7 per cent of the labor on the world's fair building was relief labor.



Two schoolhouses, of the same size, were built in New York, one by the WPA, another by a private contractor. The labor cost of the WPA-built buildings was more than twice as great as the labor cost for the privately constructed building. The black section of each stack of coins represents the labor cost of each project, the height of the stacks represents the total costs.

Registration for Judicial Election Closes Saturday

Registration of voters for the June 5 judicial election closes Saturday evening, the board of election commissioners warned yesterday. All who voted in the April election are eligible except those who have moved or changed their names. The latter must notify the election board of any changes by calling in person at the city hall offices, or by mail before midnight Saturday.

YOUNG BURGLAR WINS PROBATION. Charles Skinner, 18 years old, 10906 Michigan avenue, charged with burglary, was put on probation yesterday by Judge J. M. Braude of the Boys' court. A sentence of three months in the Bridewell, imposed on Skinner, was vacated.

MIAMI NEGRO VOTE A RECORD; KLAN IS DEFIED

Miami, Fla., May 2.—(AP)—Negroes cast a record vote today in Miami's primary election. It apparently was their reply to a warning issued last night by a parade of men in Ku Klux Klan regalia.

City Clerk Frank J. Kelly said about a thousand Negroes voted. Usually not more than 150 vote.

Police Chief H. Leslie Quigg, who assured the Negro Citizens Service league through Kelly yesterday that there would be no disorder, dispersed a growing group of white men opposite the Negro polling place today.

In the demonstration last night, white robed men in more than fifty automobiles paraded through the Negro section.

Sixteen candidates in today's primary sought six nominations for three city commissionerships. Mayor E. G. Sewell topped the list in the returns tonight with 15,749 votes.

FRENCH AIRLINER HITS MOUNTAIN; NINE ARE KILLED

MARRAKECH, Morocco, May 2.—(AP)—Six passengers and three members of the crew of an Air France passenger liner were killed tonight as the plane crashed fifteen miles south of Chichaoua. Military planes found the wreck on a mountain side.

The victims were not identified immediately. The plane was en route to Dakar, Senegal, from Casablanca, French Morocco.

This radio message was flashed from the plane as it fell:

"We are falling! We are falling! Ice and snow are forcing us down!"

The plane was a three motored Dewoitine which had been in service about a year.

CROATS MAP WAR ON JEWS; PLAN TO ADOPT NAZI LAWS

Semites Are Accused of Practicing Usury.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ZAGREB, Jugo-Slavia, May 2.—Croatia will join the procession of Jew baiting nations as soon as it gets its semi-independence from the central government in Belgrade.

Area for which Croats demand autonomy shown in black.

Measures copied after Reichsfuehrer Hitler's famous Nuremberg laws, which put Jews under heavy disabilities, will be the first to be enacted by the new autonomous legislature, the Tribune correspondent was told today by young leaders of the Croatian National Peasant party.

They added that their venerable leader, Dr. Vladko Matchek, was not opposed to anti-Semitic legislation so far as they knew, but in any case his wishes will count for little.

Young Radicals Hold Power.

Dr. Matchek's position has become purely honorary, power and influence having passed into the hands of the young radicals. These youths have been deeply impressed by Naziism and Fascism.

The case against the Jews in Croatia, as outlined to THE TRIBUNE correspondent, sounds like the case made out against them in all European countries. Official figures give the Jewish population of Jugo-Slavia as 67,000. About 40,000 of these live in Croatia.

By the Serbs the Jews are looked upon favorably, or at least with indifference. The Jews carry on the commerce which a people of agricultural warriors like the Serbs feel unable to carry on themselves. But among the more highly evolved and civilized Croats the Jews are regarded usually as competitors. They include—as in former Austria—a large percentage of the business men, manufacturers, merchants and professional men of Croatia. The charge most frequently laid against them is the common one of practicing usury.

Farmers Heavily Mortgaged.

"Almost all of our farmers have mortgaged their property to Jews," a young Croat told THE TRIBUNE correspondent. "Our peasants break their backs toiling to pay interest to Jews. This sort of thing has been going on for centuries, and we intend to put an end to it."

Anti-Semitic legislation is predicated on Croatia getting its autonomy. That is not yet an accomplished fact, despite the agreement signed six days ago by Dr. Matchek and Premier Dragisha Tsvetkovitch.

When the latter left Zagreb with the signed agreement in his pocket he said that it would have to be ratified by the cabinet and Regent Prince Paul, but that this approval would be a mere formality.

General Staff Objects.

It is proving, however, a very troublesome formality. THE TRIBUNE learns from reliable sources that members of the general staff were astounded when they saw the text of the agreement Premier Tsvetkovitch had signed and at once raised vigorous opposition.

They said it was preposterous, among other things, that the Croats should allow only Croat soldiers to be quartered in their territory. These officers refused to accept responsibility for the grave consequences to national defense if the agreement should be put into force.

Regent Prince Paul, THE TRIBUNE learns, supported the army officers and told the premier he could never approve of Croatian autonomy under the conditions of the Zagreb agreement. Chagrined and mortified by this disapproval, Tsvetkovitch drew up a list of modifications to the text he had signed and made counter proposals, which have been dispatched to Zagreb from Belgrade by special courier.

Croats Not Interested.

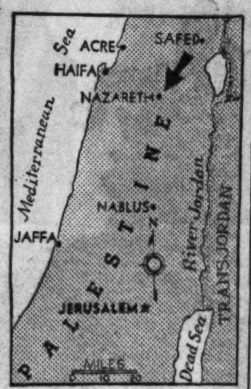
Whatever these counter proposals may be does not interest the Croatian autonomy leaders, who say that they have gone the utmost limit in concessions to the Serbians, that they will not yield an inch, and will take absolutely nothing less than the full letter of the Matchek-Tsvetkovitch agreement.

If they remain firm, the whole Croat problem will go back to its beginnings and once more will become a matter of serious concern, threatening the internal unity of Jugo-Slavia.

Croat leaders told THE TRIBUNE that on information they have received from Belgrade they expect the problem to be completely settled within the next twenty-four hours. Since they repeated their intentions of making no concessions the only conclusion possible is that they received an inside tip that Prince Paul is weakening and that once his counter proposals are rejected he will ratify the Matchek-Tsvetkovitch agreement. Even if he does, it will be with considerable reluctance.

HOLY LAND ARABS RAID NAZARETH; DEFEATED BY BRITISH TROOPS

JERUSALEM, May 2.—(AP)—A band of Arab rebels which attempted to take control of Nazareth last night was driven off by British patrols today after several hours of severe fighting.



Arrow locates Nazareth.

Several Arabs were believed to have been killed. The raiders burned an Arab home and one government building. One group of Arabs was repulsed by an armored car when it attempted to break into a bank. An Italian nun was injured seriously.

Intermittent fighting continued until after midnight, when British forces regained control and imposed an indefinite curfew. The British reported no casualties.

British Remove Barriers on Gibraltar-Spain Road

GIBRALTAR, May 2.—(AP)—Barricades that recently were erected across the main road from Gibraltar into Spain were removed today by a detachment of British engineers, indicating a lessening of tension. Units of the German fleet, including submarines, left Ceuta, Malaga, and Algeciras, and headed westward out of the Mediterranean. Three British warships and a submarine left Gibraltar for the east. Four French destroyers also left, proceeding westward..

JAPAN ORDERS JEWS GRANTED EQUAL RIGHTS

Cabinet Warns Against Discrimination.

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, May 2.—Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita clarified Japan's stand on the Jewish problem in a speech before a gubernatorial conference which opened today.

Foreign Minister Arita

The government, he told the governors, has no intention of antagonizing or discriminating against Jews. He requested that they be accorded the same treatment as are other foreigners.

The foreign minister said that the government wants no friction with other countries, such as has been caused between Germany and other nations, over anti-Semitism. As long as the Jews do not act in a manner contravening the spirit of the anti-communist pact, they must not be discriminated against, the foreign minister declared.

Premier Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma, who also addressed the conference, said he keenly feels the need of strengthening the ties with Germany and Italy, so that the three may cooperate effectively.

He said that what Japan wants of China is a realization of the folly of continued anti-Japanism and a willingness to share the responsibility of establishing a new order in east Asia.

Hints Further Sacrifices.

Turning to internal problems, he hinted that the people may be asked to make further sacrifices. He intimated that restrictive measures on the public's purchasing power were likely. The Japanese already have made heavy sacrifices as a result of the war with China.

"We have entered a long-term stage of construction," the premier said. "Expansion of the national economic strength is absolutely essential. This will be carried out in close relation to the exploitation of natural resources in Manchukuo and China.

"But raw materials needed for the perfection of armaments and the expansion of productivity cannot be secured domestically. They must be imported in considerable quantities. Japan must augment its capacity to import and promote its exports."

Deep-rooted in friendly ground

A great tree gains its stature, builds its strength, bears its fruit, through years of growth in friendly ground.

So do the enterprises of men.

When one newspaper in a great city rises to leadership without artificial stimulation . . .

attracts readers through merit alone—and stands first in daily circulation year after year for more than three decades

. . . that newspaper reflects character and worth that can be products only of deep-rooted natural growth.

When The Evening Bulletin began its rise to circulation leadership among Philadelphia daily newspapers forty-four years ago, it decided to build a future on merit alone, —decided that circulation should stand only for satisfied, loyal readers—that each day's issue of The Bulletin would be so edited as to sell the next day's issue to the same reader . . . and more readers—solely on the interest in its pages.

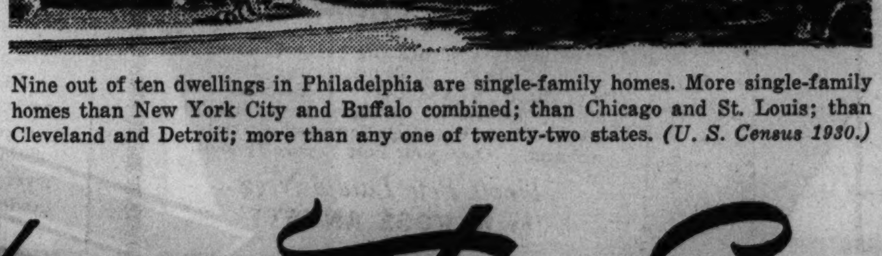
On these principles The Evening Bulletin became the daily newspaper with the largest circulation in Philadelphia. And following these principles—solely on reader confidence, with constant adherence to the policy of no subscriber contests or premiums or prizes to subscribers—The Evening Bulletin has continued its leadership every day, six days a week, since 1905.

The Bulletin's circulation—all net cash paid—is Philadelphia circulation! 94.6% in the retail trading area of the greatest city market for home products in America!

In every issue, The Evening Bulletin publishes on the first page and editorial page, the average net daily number of copies sold during the preceding month . . . and has done so for more than forty years.

GREATEST CITY MARKET OF INDIVIDUAL HOMES



Nine out of ten dwellings in Philadelphia are single-family homes. More single-family homes than New York City and Buffalo combined; than Chicago and St. Louis; than Cleveland and Detroit; more than any one of twenty-two states. (U. S. Census 1930.)

And as important to the advertiser as The Evening Bulletin's coverage of the Philadelphia market, is the interest readers have in its pages.

People buy The Evening Bulletin to read — and when they buy to read, they read to buy! For the confidence readers have in The Bulletin's news columns is reflected by confidence in the advertising in its pages.

No subscriber inducement except the newspaper itself, no premiums or reader contests have ever been used to build circulation.

Consult your advertising agency about the extra value of circulation by natural growth through reader interest.

With The Evening Bulletin alone, a manufacturer can reach more homes in the city of Philadelphia than with any other newspaper, morning or evening, daily or Sunday — and do so at one of the lowest costs per reader in America!

DOUBT MISSING PENDERGAST AID TOOK OWN LIFE

Federal Agents Conduct Secret Search.

Kansas City, Mo., May 2.—[Special.] —Federal officials expressed the belief tonight that Edward L. Schneider, long time lieutenant of Democratic Boss Thomas J. Pendergast, did not commit suicide as was indicated by circumstances surrounding his disappearance yesterday.

The city buzzed with speculation over what happened to Schneider, who suddenly had emerged as a key figure in the war on the Pendergast political machine. His mysterious absence followed quickly his appearance before the federal grand jury which indicted Pendergast a second time for income tax evasion.

Opinions concerning his fate were widely divergent. His friends expressed the conviction that he had drowned himself in the Missouri river. Others suggested he had been slain. His wife was noncommittal. Federal investigators indicated they believe he still is alive.

Scoffs at Suicide Theory.

"I am convinced that Schneider did not commit suicide," said United States District Attorney Maurice M. Milligan. "It is very difficult for me to believe such a thing. I have asked federal agents to investigate every angle of the case and they are doing so."

The federal agents conducted their search in secret and it was reported that among their tasks today was an investigation of Schneider's bank accounts to learn whether he had drawn any large amounts of money before his disappearance.

Schneider's automobile, containing notes indicating suicide, was found on a bridge over the Missouri river here yesterday morning. His hat floated ashore three miles downstream. Firemen dragged the river near the bridge yesterday and men in boats continued the search today.

Description Is Given.

When Schneider, 46 years old, left his home Monday he wore a gray suit with indistinct brown stripe, a light gray hat, a green necktie with a green pocket handkerchief, and black shoes. He was 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighed 175 pounds, light complexioned, with black eyes and black hair untouched by gray.

Witnesses said Schneider's car was parked on the bridge as early as 9 a. m. His floating hat was found at 10 a. m. An architect reported he saw Schneider on the south side at 11 a. m. Police were called at 11:30 a. m.

The embattled political boss, who was accused of using Schneider as a dummy to conceal his large income, posted a new $10,000 surety bond today for his release on the second income tax indictment, which was returned Saturday.

Suicide Doubted

Federal investigators indicated yesterday they believe he is still alive. Others in Kansas City think he may have been slain.

DORIS KENYON BEGINS RESIDING AT RENO RANCH

She married Albert D. Lasker, wealthy Chicago advertising man, on Oct. 28. On Feb. 21 she said she would seek a Nevada divorce because they found their marriage incompatible.

Her first husband was the late Milton Sills, film actor. She was divorced from her second, Arthur E. Hopkins, New York broker, in 1934.

Lasker's first wife died in 1936.

FOUND DEAD IN LOT.

The body of a man identified as Patrick Donegan, 36 years old, 3522 West 58th street, was found yesterday in a lot at 45th and Federal streets. Death apparently was due to natural causes.

SELECT 9 JURORS TO TRY STUDENT AS GIRL'S SLAYER

Fort Wayne, Ind., May 2.—[Special.] —Nine jurors had been tentatively accepted late today in the murder trial of Adrian H. Miller, an engineering student charged with the slaying of Alice May Girton, 18 years old, a student at a business college here.

C. Byron Hayes, prosecuting attorney of Allen county, indicated in his questioning of veniremen that he will seek to send Miller to the electric chair. Defense attorneys said they would base their case on a plea of insanity. Miller is 31 years old and a native of Racine, Wis.

Miss Girton, whose home was at Winchester, Ind., was found raped and strangled last Oct. 18 in a rooming house where she lived while attending business college. Miller also was a roomer in the house. After being arrested as a suspect he confessed.

FIND 3 GUILTY OF FRAUDS IN PASSPORT FAKE

New York, May 2.—(AP)—Three men charged with conspiracy in fraudulently obtaining United States passports were convicted in Federal court today.

The defendants, Edward Blatt, lawyer; Ossip Garber, a photographer, and Aaron Sharfin, formerly a clerk in the Egyptian consulate, were accused by the government of having provided the passports used by the mysterious Adolph Arnold Rubens, alias Donald Louis Robinson, and his wife, Marie, who were detained in Russia in 1937, as spy suspects.

Repercussions of the Rubens-Robinson case resulted in the government's action against the three men tried here. The maximum penalty is two years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

Spinach finds favor with Chicago's high school pupils. Results of a survey disclosed yesterday that 18,275 of the boys and girls like the vegetable while 10,400 said they didn't. There were another 14,482 canny students who didn't vote, they weren't going to be trapped into yeas or nays.

Balloting for the favorite foods in each course served in high school lunchrooms showed that the composite preferred meal is orange juice, vegetable soup, vegetable salad, roast beef, potatoes, peas, ice cream and milk. That repast, with bread and butter added, can be bought for 34 cents in a high school cafeteria, it was estimated by F. O. Washam, director of lunchrooms for the board of education.

The survey was conducted for two weeks among 43,000 students in 52 high school lunchrooms in connection with national restaurant week, opening next Monday.

TRANSIT MERGER MEETINGS OPENED BY NEGOTIATORS

The three man committee which will represent the transit lines in negotiations with the city for settlement of the traction merger problem held its first meeting yesterday. The committee, of which Walter A. Shaw is chairman, was appointed Monday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. The other two members are Guy A. Richardson, president of the surface lines, and Col. A. A. Sprague, trustee for the elevated lines. Shaw is the court's traction adviser.

Shaw said yesterday's meeting was informal and that a definite plan of procedure had not been decided upon.

The committee is expected to meet again today to discuss plans for negotiating with the city council's transportation committee. Judge Wilkerson has instructed the committee to be guided by the transit unification plan proposed a year ago by Shaw. Ald. John R. Quinn [50th] is chairman of the city council's transportation committee.

POSSESSION OF THESE ISLANDS AN IMPERATIVE NECESSITY.

An order of the war department sets up a new army department in the region of the Caribbean with headquarters at San Juan, Porto Rico. There will be garrisons in Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands. The new defenses are to prevent a hostile force from obtaining bases for air or other attack upon the canal, the mainland, or the islands.

It is difficult to see now how the administration can avoid taking up with France and Great Britain the question of transfer of the islands held by these two powers off the American coast. President Roosevelt twice has given the world to understand that the United States will defend Canada against an invader. It would seemingly follow that the French and British islands are included in that policy. British and French sea power might be a sufficient guarantee of the security of the islands, but no one can predict what might happen on the margin of operations so far reaching as the maneuvers of a general world war.

Since the beginning of colonization of the western hemisphere the sub-tropical and tropical possessions have changed hands with nearly every war in Europe. They have been captured and bartered back and forth in peace negotiations, being treated as spoils or exchanged as compensations. They have seen many flags and had many rulers. The United States might have the alternative of standing by while they fell into other hands or of undertaking to defend them, even if America were not involved in the war.

There is also the danger that even if they had not been occupied during the war they might be passed over the counter in a treaty if Great Britain and France were forced to make a disadvantageous peace. That has happened to them before. We can't exclude from future developments the possibility that Italy and Germany would be told to compensate themselves in the western hemisphere or that they would be given a foothold in these British and French possessions over here.

There are desirable colonizing areas and spheres of influence in the Caribbean, in Central and South America. Nothing in imperial calculation is wholly fantastic, and a European war, even if it fell into a stalemate of exhaustion, might result as many other imperialistic wars have, in a rearrangement of possessions and some compensating bargains. If Great Britain and France found it to their advantage to keep more desirable holdings by giving up what they have in this hemisphere they would not be deterred by any of the considerations they advance as obstacles to transferring these properties to the United States.

It will be agreed, we think, that the United States could not see a change of possessors without great concern. The present ownership of the islands, including Bermuda, the Bahamas, the Leeward and Windward Islands of the Lesser Antilles, and Trinidad, cannot be guaranteed against all the contingencies of war. The new Caribbean department of the American national defense will be established in territory surrounded by the possessions of foreign powers which may soon be at war with other powerful nations. The islands form the natural barrier closing the Caribbean and the approach to the Gulf of Mexico. They are in the gateway to the canal and they are all within easy striking distance of the American coast. If they are to be involved in a European struggle the United States must view their destiny with great anxiety. We certainly would protest the sale of them to any other European power and we might have to fight to prevent their capture.

These being the facts and the possibilities, it would be neglect of duty for the American government not to take immediate steps to obtain possession. Great Britain and France cannot be intransigeant on this question. They owe the United States a great deal of money and say they are unable to make any payments on the debt. They are relying upon the United States government in their present difficulties for the most benevolent neutrality, and we suspect they have been given reason to believe they will get a great deal more than that. Anyway, they are not only debtors but they are applicants for future benefits. They should have at least that sort of gratitude which is a lively sense of favors to come.

There is nothing unusual, far less unreasonable or preposterous, in the American proposal, not, however, made by the United States government as yet, that islands only sentimentally important to their present owners be transferred to American jurisdiction and military control. They are of small economic and of no military value to Great Britain and France, no military importance, that is, except as bases of operation against the United States. These properties have changed hands many times and it would be nothing shocking in their history or derogatory to the dignity of their present owners if they were brought under the American flag.

The United States in various ways has been extinguishing European titles in this hemisphere from the very beginning of the American republic. This has been sound national policy and it has contributed the greatest factors in the present American immunity from European wars, which can still be preserved if the government and the people cherish what has been won for them. If Europe had not been so well liquidated in the western world we'd have a war over here every time there was a war abroad.

What remains of European imperialism in America is vestigial, but it is still important to the United States. When these small encircling islands off the coast have been brought into the American domain a military hazard will have been eliminated and the process which began with the retirement of the Spanish from Florida and with the Louisiana purchase will have been completed. The establishment of the new army department in the Caribbean leaves the American government with no excuse for delaying its approach to France and Great Britain in negotiations for the islands. The British and the French cannot refuse to negotiate. This is the time to round out the territorial unity of the United States.

THE ILLINOIS NATIONAL COMMITTEEMAN.

The Republican state committee last week tried and failed to select a successor to the late George F. Harding of Chicago as Republican national committeeman for Illinois. The state committeemen couldn't find a man whose qualifications and prominence in the party made him a natural choice, and they took to jockeying for personal and political advantage. Some men who could be thought of for the place are regarded as too inexperienced in national politics to be quite prepared to represent the state in the national committee. The settlement has been put over until June 10, after the judicial elections.

Unable to agree, the state committeemen began factional maneuvering and intrigue in which the shadows of the old Small-Insull-Frank L. Smith control of the state began to take substance, and Mr. Smith, twice denied a seat in the United States senate, appeared on the scene trying to take advantage of the deadlock in his own interest. If the party permits those cats to come back it will be lost for another generation.

The lack of an outstanding man, the choice of whom would be almost predetermined by his capabilities and prominence in the party would seem to indicate that the old time leadership in Illinois is either gone or discredited and that the new Republicans have not as yet found themselves. That situation, of course, will be remedied, and even now it is not impossible for the state committee to find a man able properly to represent the state in the management of the national party.

If the state is to carry its weight in national affairs the man selected cannot be one of the old timers associated with discredited Republican organizations and leadership. He would be an obstacle to the recovery of Illinois Republicanism and to its having any influence in the organization which will conduct the 1940 campaign.

The old Republican party of Illinois has some very black blots on its record and nothing to recommend it to the voters who will make the decision in the future. In neighboring states the party has recovered by reforming. The process is on its way in Illinois now, but it would be set back if one of the old timers should be put on the national committee as representative of the Illinois Republicans.

LINDBERGH AND RICKENBACKER.

The summoning of Col. Lindbergh to give advice to the war department on its program for expanding the air service was a wise move, but by no means an inevitable one. There is no doubt that Col. Lindbergh is the most distinguished of our flyers of the post-war era and he knows, probably better than any other man in this country, the qualities of the air fleets which foreign governments have built and are building.

Fortunately, the army command did not this time take the view that the army knows everything and the civilian and the reserve officer have little or nothing to contribute. Often in the past the army's efforts have been rendered ineffective by its attitude of superiority. Needless to say, the army has gained prestige, not lost it, by calling Col. Lindbergh to its service at a critical moment.

There are other men who should be called into consultation, and notably Eddie Rickenbacker. He was first among American aces in the war, and aviation remains his chief interest. As head of an important air transport service he is thoroughly up-to-date in the subject. He knows American planes, American engines, and American manufacturing facilities. He has information, experience, and judgment which the army should draw upon. No one who knows him can doubt his willingness to help.

BIRTH RATE GOES DOWN.

[Fargo (N. D.) Forum.]

America's current birth rate is 5 per cent short of being sufficient to maintain the population at its present level. That is the finding of Dr. Frederick Osborn, research associate in anthropology of the American Museum of Natural history. It marks what may be a major turning point in American history, for it is a reversal of a trend that has been in the opposite direction for many years.

The change is not the result of any falling off in the birth rate in the farming sections but apparently is a result of the urbanization of America. Dr. Osborn reports the highest birth rate is in the farm regions and lowest in the large cities.

Cities of 100,000 population have a birth rate of 75 per cent and this percentage increases as size of the city decreases. Towns of 25,000 to 100,000 population show a reproductive rate of 88 per cent, while communities of 10,000 show a rate of 97 per cent. In the rural village the rate leaps to 137 per cent, while on the farms it is 169 per cent.

Dr. Osborn finds that racial, social and educational standards all play vital parts in the decline in the reproductive rate. To maintain our present population there must be an average of 2.6 children for each married woman. This, of course, means that many families must have five or six children to offset the families with one or two or none.

He listed the following differences in reproduction among various occupational groups: Professional, .75; business and clerical, .85; skilled labor, 1.06; semiskilled, 1.03; unskilled, 1.17; agricultural labor, 1.32.

Discussing his report Dr. Osborn urged social and educational agencies to work with the medical profession to stimulate the maintenance of families of the right size and best genetic level. If the trend continues it is going to be something for America to ponder on. Apparently it can be checked by decentralizing our population.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

AT MIDNIGHT ON MAY DAY.

Let it be recorded without jesting that at 1:15 a. m., May 2, the temperature then standing at 40 degrees, a raw wind blowing from the north, and a bright moon riding high, we saw, flickering in ghostly greenish fingers over the northern firmament of Chicagoland, a fine display of the Aurora Borealis. There is always a thrill in this phenomenon, which is still a mystery to the scientists who are so well informed about "curved space," cosmic rays, and other things that the eye of man will never behold. Chicagoans see these displays of arctic wizardry infrequently, although they are not rare in this region, because of obstructed views or smoke dimmed skies.

That day we had skimmed through some forty contributions in verse, dealing chiefly with the conventional natural beauties of a spring season which had not yet arrived. Our winter overcoat had gone to the cleaners; the wind was chill and cutting; and we felt strongly allergic to spring poems. As the odes and sonnets dripped into the waste basket, we thought, "Chicago never has had a true spring, and never will have one. All these verse writers must live out of town."

Came midnight, and a dog wanting to be taken out when she should have been asleep, and the surprising spectacle of the Northern Lights over the vacant lots of Evanston.

"There's a subject for a spring poet!" we proclaimed; and hastened to beat the contributors to it, in prose.

PRAYERS FOR PEACE.

(Pope Pius XII. has urged a "crusade of prayer" for peace among all nations during the month of May.)

This is the month which bears Our Lady's name,
The month most dedicated to her love,
When all the world is splendidly aflame
With fragrant, growing color, and above
Is arched a sky of her own chosen blue;
And once men came in pilgrimage to pay
Her love and reverence, as is her due . . .
But that was in an older, simpler day.

Now flowers still come to joyous blooming, birds
Pour out unstintingly their golden song,
And heaven wears its blue. . . . Only man's words
Withhold the tribute they have owed so long,
Trampling down peace with hate. O glorious,
Compassionate and gentle, pray for us!

Beverley Githens.

A Quiet Corner in Heaven.

We know you take good care of things, Lord, but we're sure you'll understand and pardon us for this anxious reminder. He never was one to complain, and he wouldn't say anything about it even if things weren't the way he'd like to have them. We knew him so well, Lord, and how he hated a fuss; so we know he wouldn't care much for the harps and golden streets and such things.

He'd rather have a quiet, sunny corner of his own, a little like the home here he was so proud of. He was very tired, Lord, so please let him have just a good easy chair, his slippers, and his precious old smelly pipe. Let him listen to the ball games on the long, lazy summer afternoons that are coming, and we know he'll be content to wait until we join him again.

Just one more thing, Lord, please let him be near a window, so he can look out and see that we are getting along all right down here; he'd not be satisfied unless he knew. Quizzicuss.

Yesterday
I found some letters,
Neatly tied with ribbons blue—
Sweet and torrid
Letters, these,
Most of them from you!
Slowly,
As I read them o'er,
I tore them, one by one;

O, To Be in Paris in the Spring!

Quotation from a letter by an American artist, naturalized in France, veteran of the first world war, aged 60:

"I'm head over heels, getting ready for war or trouble of some kind. Better be prepared than caught napping! I suppose if anything happens I shall reënlist—might as well die doing something as choking through a gas mask in some underground abris."

Memories of a Skyscraper Theater.

The wrecking of the old Masonic Temple recalls its roof garden and "The Girl with the Auburn Hair," who sang there. But the one that people remember best [she married the manager] was not the original. The first auburn haired singer there was Gertrude Haynes, who came from Huntington, Ind. She always insisted that the second one stole her act. Miss Haynes later used her church scene, with soloist and choir, in the melodrama called "The Fatal Wedding." I knew her well. Brownie.

We are giving the old houses and queer streets a rest for a while, but if you miss them in the column, don't worry. There are many other choice specimens to be unveiled. CHARLES COLLINS.

LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA: AN AFTERMATH OF SYPHILIS.

TABES DORSALIS, or locomotor ataxia, is generally a late complication of syphilis. Intervals of from two to twenty-five years may elapse between the initial infection and the advent of the symptoms affecting the nervous system. Once in a while, however, it may be encountered far more quickly than one would believe possible, particularly in neglected virulent cases. When the condition becomes recognizable we may understand that changes have taken place in the spinal cord, occasionally involving certain portions of the brain.

At the outset manifestations differ widely and mistakes in diagnosis are not rare. There are usually sharp, stabbing pains, most common in the legs or about the trunk. These may be associated with a feeling of heat and burning and may leave the region sensitive to pressure for some time thereafter. These episodes occur irregularly. On the other hand, some afflicted individuals will observe first numbness in the feet, tingling, and a sense of constriction about the body, as though a belt were drawn tightly around the waist or at some higher level.

A word of caution must be uttered at this point because arterial disorders of any sort [anemia of a muscle] may account for identical "stabs." Furthermore, herpes [shingles] may imitate with great accuracy the girdle sensations of syphilis. It is only when these attacks follow one another with increasing severity that the family doctor can distinguish between them.

Next in importance is gradual loss of vision and every now and then the pupil may become fixed—that is, neither dilating nor contracting with the amount of light encountered. Bladder symptoms are customary, particularly inability to empty the urinary pouch or in withholding its contents. But here again other disturbances may give rise to these complaints and one must be sure before jumping to conclusions.

Before the typical ataxic gait [tottering or stumbling] develops, the victim may have noticed that he had trouble in washing his face with his eyes shut. When he stands with the feet together and the eyes closed he is likely to sway. On turning quickly he may be unable to recover his balance. Not infrequently he will have more difficulty in descending than in ascending stairs. The characteristic tabetic walk is now upon the patient. As he steps, the leg is thrown outward, the foot raised high, and brought down with a slap. A cane is indispensable. Sometimes there is incoördination of the arms which comes on earlier than that of the legs and there may be some awkwardness in buttoning the collar. During this period there is little, if any, loss of muscle power.

Other than the routine anti-syphilitic treatment with arsphenamin and other modern drugs—together with a plan of hygienic living—no further help seemed possible until the advent of artificial fever. This appears to be equally helpful in cerebrospinal syphilis or paresis. In a report of eight subjects, one writer states that the vanishing of pain was the outstanding feature. Heat was applied electrically and the improvement in general health following the series was startling. The assertion is made that one patient who had begun to have some interference with walking was able to get about normally after twenty applications. In addition, certain visual disturbances also cleared away. This author recommends twenty bi-weekly fever sessions and cites the fact that in 66 per cent of all published cases distress was relieved.

It is reasonable to believe that in induced fever we have probably the best remedy for locomotor ataxia. However, it goes without saying that it should be used promptly. We must not expect return of function on the part of tissues that have been destroyed completely. Furthermore, if taken in the beginning, the progress of the affliction will be arrested—at least partially. Anything which ameliorates the terrific suffering of these persons will prove a boon. We need not wonder that many resort to large doses of narcotics to ward off these pains which come with such startling frequency.

With our national campaign against syphilis we may look forward confidently to the time when we can count tabes as among the scourges of history—a thing that was.

JAWS ARE TIGHTLY CLOSED.

T. W. writes: In lockjaw, do the jaws really become locked?

REPLY.

As the disease progresses it becomes increasingly harder to open the mouth and finally the jaws become firmly closed. If tetanus is the cause, the poison of this disease has affected the muscles of mastication, causing this spasmodic condition.

PIERCED EAR FAIRY TALE.

R. W. writes: I have been told that piercing the ears [as is done for certain types of earrings] will improve the hearing and the eyesight. Could this be?

REPLY.

I haven't heard this fairy tale in years. It should be as forgotten as the Elsie Dinsmore books.

CESAREAN OPERATIONS.

D. M. writes: In what conditions are Cesarean operations indicated?

REPLY.

It sometimes happens that deformities of the bones of the pelvis, tumors, heart disease, and certain other conditions add to the danger of both child and mother should normal labor be allowed to proceed.

WISDOM TEETH.

H. T. writes: At what age do wisdom teeth appear?

REPLY.

There are cases on record in which they have erupted as early as age 14 and there are some reports in which they have appeared as late as 40. The average period is between 20 and 30 years of age.

NURSING MOTHER'S DIET.

Mrs. F. writes: What diet will increase the milk supply of a nursing mother?

REPLY.

Use plenty of fluids, particularly fruit juices and milk. A well balanced menu is indicated.

HAY FEVER SHOTS.

C. M. writes: May a person who is receiving injections for the menopause take hay fever shots?

REPLY.

Yes. They will not fight.

COMPENSATION LAWS AND HANDICAPPED WORKERS.

Chicago, April 30.—There is no one in the city of Chicago in a better position to understand and sympathize with Misfit, whose recent appeal to employers echoes my own lament.

I have been unfortunate enough to have been a victim of both infantile paralysis and tuberculosis, and, although unlike Misfit, I am well trained and experienced in the profession of mechanical engineering, I have been repeatedly turned down by employers in spite of the fact that I can prove that I am cured, in perfect health, and well able to compete with my fellow workers in industry.

There are several reasons for this apparently heartless attitude—reasons mostly due to fear and prejudice based upon ignorance, with a sprinkling here and there of downright cruelty cleverly rationalized. But the foremost reason is the insurance compensation laws passed in recent years as a boon to humanity, but which are, ironically enough, proving to be a boomerang to the handicapped unfortunates on the outside of industry and civil service trying to break in.

MISFIT II.

WPA ART PROJECTS.

Chicago, April 30.—A continuation of the art projects of the WPA is desired by the President. Judged by the value of the art produced, the art projects seem to be the home of incompetents. There are scores of people now drudging away as clerks, factory hands, mechanics, or typists who desire very much to be poets, sculptors, actors, or writers. By economical use of their time some of them are achieving their aim, while the WPA art projecters drag along through the years without much achievement although the generous government pays them for devoting their full time to their work. There is little sense in having the government support people who "must" be "artists," "sculptors," or "actors," as any other work would be "too commercial."

D. R.

UNITED BY AGREEMENT, NOT CONQUEST.

Chicago, April 21.—"English Born American" showed in his letter how little he knows the Germanic race. There is no aspiration on the part of this race to consolidate the racial groups of Europe. The purpose is to conquer and dominate them—to prove the "Deutschland Ueber Alles" slogan of Germany. Consolidation of racial groups and the creation of a United States of Europe would be a godsend, but it would have to come about voluntarily, by mutual agreement—not by conquest.

POLISH BORN AMERICAN.

THE FIRST BRITISH EMPIRE BUILDERS.

Chicago, April 28.—Conscription in Britain? It isn't new. When the Romans conquered and held Britain for 371 years they forced a quarter of a million young Britons into the Roman army. After they were drilled in the art of war they were shipped to foreign lands to help to fight the continuous wars of the Roman empire and they never returned.

TRY ROCK SALT.

Chicago, April 17.—Last year at great expense and time I put in a bent lawn in the front of my home. I will say it is one of the prettiest on the street. Lately the neighbors' dogs have taken it over and have scratched up so much turf that it will take a whole season to repair the damage.

What can I do besides shooting the dogs or putting up a six foot board fence?

MRS. WALTER J. MURPHY.

WITHHOLDING THE CORN.

Chicago, April 27.—Others quote the scriptures in supposed justification of New Deal procedure. May I have this privilege for calling attention to one of the gravest mistakes made by our well meaning idealists?

The following is from the Book of Proverbs, 11:26:

"He that withholdeth corn, the people shall curse him: but blessing shall be upon the head of him that selleth it."

To interfere with the distribution of any commodity—corn, wheat, cattle, hogs, lumber, automobiles, mineral products, etc., through the regular established channels is a terrible blunder. The price received by the producer is a very small item compared to prosperity created by production. There is the marketing, processing, transportation, selling, advertising, and delivery that cause employment and flow of capital through the hands of myriads of our people. If raw products are held in storage in anticipation of enhancing the price to the producer there is resultant loss that is staggering.

THE LAW'S DELAYS.

Chicago, April 27.—While I agree with "Practicing Lawyer" that there is no absolute necessity for creating additional judges, I take issue with him in his charge that "many of the judges now serving are seldom found on the bench."

Judges mount their benches each morning to try cases appearing on their call. Generally the call is quite lengthy, but soon melts away because of the number of continuances requested by lawyers. It is not unusual for a judge to start out with a substantial call and find himself without work for the foregoing reason.

In justice to the judges, I would say that the lawyer who is willing and anxious to try his case can obtain a hearing without a great deal of delay.

PHILIP P. SACHS.

CLEANING UP ELECTION POSTERS.

Chicago, April 17.—Would it not be well to have each contender for public office post a bond with the city guaranteeing that he will remove all political advertisments from buildings, posts, and signboards within a given short time after the election? In the event that the advertisments are not removed the bond could be forfeited and its amount would supply the city with a sufficient amount of money to hire men to remove the publicity.

Test Your Facts

Below each of the following questions are listed three answers. Make your choice, turn to page 32 in the Want Ad section for the correct answer, and mark your score:

1. If a region is arid does it have—
[a] Excess of rainfall, [b] deficiency of rainfall, [c] adequate rainfall?
2. Who wrote the Æneid?
[a] Virgil, [b] Homer, [c] Dante.
3. During what century was Joan of Arc burned at the stake?
[a] Fourteenth century, [b] fifteenth century, [c] sixteenth century.
4. In what group of islands is the Dominican republic?

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

LOST CHECK.

Chicago, April 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My husband lost his pay check.

1. Don't know whether he indorsed it or not. When he went to cash it at the bank it was gone.
2. He reported it to the bank about ten minutes later and also to his department where he worked.
3. Now the check came back to the bank after one month and it was indorsed five different times.
4. Who is responsible for the check?
5. If the check was indorsed, can they hold the first party that cashed it?

E. S.

1. If the check was originally payable to bearer or was so indorsed as to be payable to bearer, then it seems probable that parties taking title from the finder or thief are holders in due course, so that your husband would be the loser. For purpose of subsequent questions we will assume that it was not so payable to bearer.

2. The ordinary procedure would be for the drawer to give the bank a stop payment order on such facts, but you do not state whether this was done. If it was done the bank would not be entitled to charge the payment against the drawer and consequently it would be reasonable for the drawer to give a new check. Even in absence of a stop payment order the bank would not be entitled to charge against the drawer's account a check not payable to bearer where title was traced through a forged indorsement.

3. We assume that you mean that the bank paid the check.

4. Depends on facts that are not before us.

5. Depends on whether it was indorsed in blank or to order and on other facts that are not before us.

Polynesian Color and Romance Are Concentrated in Our New Fashions

Jade Amulet Of Chieftains For Label Symbol

If you have ever dreamed of sailing away for a year and a day to the coral islands beyond the setting of the sun, the adventures of a young American with camera and paintbrush in Polynesia will intrigue you. Truman Bailey is the designer responsible for the new Polynesia Hei Tiki fashions, shown at Field's for the first time on May 1. All of us will make a dive for these pastel hued clothes now in the cool of spring, and dote on them through the sweltering summer!

Marshall Field & Company is one of ten leading department stores in the United States to back Mr. Bailey's venture. When he proposed the trip to us over a year ago, we were enthusiastic. We sensed a fashion scoop, and got it. Truman Bailey left San Francisco, Aug. 17, 1938. He spent several engrossing months among the atolls of the South Seas, especially at Samoa, Manua, and Hawaii. Here he sketched, photographed, gathered test-tubes of color material to be used in the designs and color combinations of Polynesia Hei Tiki fashions.

This completely new and exciting group of fashions includes not only daytime dresses, sportswear, evening gowns, playsuits, bathing suits, but children's wear, men's sportswear, and romantic shell, woven straw, and fishnet accessories. Every design calls to mind the eternal lure of the happy islands in the South Seas.

Emblem of Rank And Superiority

Mr. Bailey chose the name Hei Tiki as the symbol of his Polynesia fashions from the little amulet worn about the necks of Polynesia chieftains. This is their emblem of rank and superiority. It is carved of jade or whalebone. The Hei Tiki amulet appears on the nametags of all the articles in this group of fashions, exclusive with Field's in Chicago.

Chicagoans had an opportunity to chat with Mr. Bailey himself at his personal appearance on the Sixth Floor of Field's in honor of the opening of the Polynesia Hei Tiki collection. He brought with him many enlarged photographs of his fascinating journey.

Designer Bailey described his arrival at the island of Ta'u. The hour, just before dawn. "There are no wharves on the tiny islands of Manu'a" he reports. His ship, the "Tutuila," anchored daringly near the knife-like coral reefs which barricade the islands. Long boats ferry the infrequent passengers ashore, through the booming surf. "Our little cockleshell of a lifeboat plunged and tossed shoreward to rouse the sleeping village," said the artist. A fraction of miscalculation on the part of the native oarsmen in guiding the boat through the coral reefs, and passengers, bag and baggage would have been tossed into the sea and soundly walloped by the churning surf. Not to mention adventures with sharks.

Shells, Fish, Ferns Chosen For Color

Then began fascinating work for Mr. Bailey, collecting shells, colorful fish seaferns, native tapa cloth, lava rock, coral specimens, soon to be translated into the fabrics for Polynesia Hei Tiki fashions.

One dinner frock in the collection is called "Hurricane Palms." On a ground of pale gray, fuchsia palm trees toss and sway in the fury of a tropical gale. Tucked bosom, puff sleeves, and a far-flung skirt to swirl about your ankles! You may also have the dress in white with fuchsia. Sizes are 10 to 18. $17.95. Misses' Moderately Priced Dresses, Sixth Floor, South, State.

The names which Mr. Bailey has given his Polynesian colors call up enticing pictures of the happy isles. Torch ginger, color taken from the bright red ginger flower. Kailua earth, color of the hills surrounding Kailua, on the island of Oahu. Luma Reef green, like the sea as it pours over green moss on the coral reef at Luma. Red hibiscus, favorite flower sometimes worn behind the ear by Polynesian maidens. Po Moana blue, color of the night sea.

The story of the creation of Polynesia Hei Tiki fashions will be told by Mr Bailey in his book, "Polynesian Venture," available in Field's Book Section, Third Floor, North, Wabash, on May 5, priced at $3.

English Bicycle Is Speedy

One of the best ways to get out and have fun is to go bicycling. There's a new English bicycle that's causing comment . . . the Raleigh "Gazelle." It follows the British tradition for wheels light and easy to handle, and has three-speed gears and free-wheeling. The bike is available only at Field's in Chicago, and the price, for men's and women's models, is $39. It's on the Fourth Floor.

Fashion Shows Today

It's Wednesday . . . the day for meeting friends in the Walnut Grill or Narcissus Room, on the Seventh Floor, for lunch. From 12:00 to 12:45, and from 1:15 to 2:00 this afternoon, we're showing Polynesia Hei Tiki fashions, which we think you will love.

New "Personal Turban" Bears Your Initials

You can do so many things with turbans! Today you can even buy them by the yard . . . as many yards as you like, of fishnet or fabric, to whisk around your head in folds (folds carefully planned but casual-looking as anything). The colors are luscious, and there's one to match or accent almost any of your costumes. You'll find an exciting variety on the Fifth Floor, North, State, or in our Hat Bars on the First and Sixth Floors.

At the moment our most wonderful bit of turban news is a beautiful, restrained idea which came out of our own Designing Room. Flat on top, it bears your gold monogram for all to see. The fabric is coarse mesh jersey, and we think it an especial love in white. Dramatic in black, too, and in navy. It's photographed here, and you'll find it in our French Room, priced at $22.50.

Coarse mesh jersey turban. monogrammed

The Initial Bar on the First Floor has a number of intriguing styles for the monogram, but you may also select the type you want in our French Room.

The variety in turbans this Spring is amazing. There's the off-the-face type that hugs your head snugly and covers your ears . . . leaving either your widow's peak or your bangs to impress the public. There's the Indian Rajah, draped square across the face and very high. And the Grecian kind with sculptured rolls of fabric.

They're practical, comfortable, and they add to your sensation of being well-groomed.

Get Mother's Gift Now

If Mother is out of town, you'll want to buy her gift very soon now, and send it off. The store is filled with charming things, many of which have been collected in our Gift Court, Second Floor, for the special convenience of people whose time is limited. And for the sake, particularly, of any of you who prefer the solace of shopping in a small space.

Preferred List Of What's New At Field's Now

By Editor, Fashions of the Hour

If your friends are unwelcome in your house on Tuesday evenings between 7:30 and 8 o'clock, unless they will sit right down and be quiet, you qualify as an Information, Please, addict. And you undoubtedly remember with bitterness any Tuesday evening when you have had to part company with your radio, for whatever reasons. But the missing half-hours are easy to make up . . . in the Book Section, on the Third Floor you'll find the new book "Information, Please," which contains thirty-five separate quiz sessions. Complete with answers and quips. The book is wonderful fun for all manner of occasions. It's $1.60, and was edited by Dan Golenpaul, dedicated "To My Wife, who didn't whistle while I worked."

In our new Royal Copenhagen China and Faience Room (faience is their word for earthenware), there is a new fruit plate in the Blue Fluted Service. It's called the Lace Plate, because a deep edge has been hand-pierced into a delicate lacy lattice. Price is $7.50 each. And if you don't passionately want the plate for your summer tables, we'll be very much surprised. Second Floor, North, Wabash.

If you're planning a jaunt to the New York World's Fair, and don't want to be bothered with the annoying details, it's the Travel Bureau for you. You'll find it on the Third Floor, North, State. Do you want to spend three days in the Fair City? Seven? It doesn't matter to the Travel Bureau . . . they'll be glad to arrange the whole trip for you, according to your specifications. Your transportation, your hotel accommodations, any tours you might wish to take . . . everything can be planned from a desk in Field's! Your final expenses will be exactly what they'd have been if you'd gone to all the trouble yourself.

Opened only this week, on the Third Floor, is a kind of movie-scenery Cape Cod Cottage (it has only a front, you see.) Its shelves, doors and windows are laden and decorated with wonderfully amusing things we think you'll love. Gourds, of all things, have been made into statues, for table decorations. A yellow and red penguin is $1.95; a yellow fish is $2.95; a red flamingo $3.95. They're so amusing and silly and such fun that you'll have to see them for yourselves. And don't overlook the gourd that's made into a Leave-A-Note box, for your front porch . . . it's $1.95.

For babies from four months to a year old, our new First-Short Dresses and First-Short Creepers are entirely irresistible. They're shorter than usual baby clothes for infants of this age. Your baby boy, particularly, will look charming . . . he'll be strictly masculine in a cunning creeper, made of a fine soft fabric lighter in weight than broadcloth but heavier than lawn. The tiny frocks are of mull, lawn and batiste, with five-inch hems, and incredibly delicate touches of trimming. In our Baby Section, Fourth Floor, North, State. The prices begin at $2.95, the colors are white, pink, blue, peach.

Shells Are The Key To A Costume

The simplest of the Polynesia Hei Tiki fashions, this daytime dress is also one of the most tempting, for it can be as casual or as dressed-up as you like. The white shell design is used on backgrounds of Ta'u Coral Pink, Sama Sama Yellow, Moana Violet and Mokapu Blue (all lyric names that make you vaguely nostalgic for a place you've never been!). The seven-gored skirt and almost-tailored blouse are $3.95 each, and may be purchased separately, in the Blouse Section, Sixth Floor. On the First Floor, South, Wabash, you may see the shell necklace, which is $3, and the matching bracelet and turban pin, $2 each.

Three New Houses In Home Trend Show Are Thrilling Our Visitors

If you are one of those people who love to look at new homes (and what woman doesn't) you'll surely want to see the three newly furnished houses on Marshall Field's eighth floor: Modern House, Trend House and Thrift House. Even if you aren't planning to build or to remodel your home, we know you'll be as excited as we are about the new ideas, the new home furnishings trends you see here.

A Decoration Problem?

Field's has a special, very special staff of decorators ready to solve your slightest decoration problem without obligation. Here's what they do—they ingeniously weave your ideas into decorative room schemes, offer suggestions, and build rooms around actual merchandise. No problem is too large or too small to interest them. Why not drop in for a visit? You'll find them on the Ninth Floor, Middle, State.

Fabric Is Already Pleated For You!

Fabric by-the-yard is performing all kinds of delightful pranks this Spring. The pleated fan which grandmother used to get out in tropical July must have inspired this yard goods whimsy. It's printed pure dye silk ready-pleated, ready-hemmed, ready-cut in 3-yard lengths for dress skirts!

As a matter of fact, the fan-like skirt is practically completed when you buy these yard goods. Simply cut off the top to regulate the length. The same fabric, without pleats, is available for making the dress bodice. Nowhere else in Chicago can ready-pleated pure dye silk be had by the yard. It is exclusive with Field's.

You'll find these print companions—pleated and unpleated—cast you in a stellar role. The pleated skirt turns into a pinwheel of color as you dash down the avenue. The pleats fall apart in delectable profusion disclosing glimpses of the tucked-away patterns . . . really as entrancing as the spin of a magically shuffled deck of cards. And you'll be amazed at the clever way the pleating is done. It forms perfect patterns.

The pleated skirt retains its tailoring and spirit through innumerable wearings.

The fabrics come in a quartette of 4 sparkling patterns, in a series of Spring-wise colors, on white or dark grounds. The ready-hemmed, 3-yard skirt length is $10. The unpleated fabric for dress tops is $2.50 a yard. Yard Goods, Second Floor, South, State.

The Modern House introduces the new Louis XV Modern furniture. It's a new livable modern . . . with a curved line, smooth flowing and graceful! Created by Marshall Field's as the perfect foil for the simple straight lines of your Swedish Modern; and designed in a new traditional spirit that you'll find both charming and capricious.

This new design is a far cry from the original ornate and massively elaborate furniture of the period. Its main inspiration—the curved line of its design—is enough to set it apart as a new modern. Louis XV-Modern is a furniture you'll live with today . . . and tomorrow.

Authentic Copies Of Classic Period

To make authentic copies of this classic period, we studied English museum pieces. We also brought home with us many of the more adaptable original models to secure their exact details. Today, Trend House is furnished in William IV . . . a period reminiscent of Great Britain's great classical revival. The time when new designers were inspired by Thomas Hope and Henry Holland and by the classic designs of the Greek, the Etruscan, the Egyptian. They created a new furniture, splendid and elegant. A design which we choose to call William IV, after the last reigning monarch in the period 1811 to 1837.

Complete House On A Budget

Everything young couples have dreamed about for their first home—furniture, draperies, floor coverings and other accessories to make home a charming place to live in, an inviting place to entertain friends—that's what one sees in our exciting new "Thrift House."

It's a house completely furnished at prices well within any young couple's budget. The pieces of furniture, for example, are copies of 18th century designs and have a beauty of line unusual at such modest prices! It's a house you can actually "shop" in . . . for, in addition to its charming rooms, there is a "shopping aisle" of interesting displays. "Thrift House" secretary is here to help you plan your own color schemes.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

We can remember few "beauty gifts" as attractive and utterly practical as the lipstick ensemble one of the great specialists has created. Women love lipsticks, of course, but a lipstick heretofore hasn't been a gift item. You just don't go handing out lipsticks to a woman until you are extremely certain of the shade she wears.

The lipstick ensemble that is perfect for gift giving consists of four sticks, inset in a stiff card decorated with the picture of a coach and four. Four ribbons bind the lipsticks to the coach. It's most amusing to look at—and certainly something you'd like to own.

The idea is that this makes a lipstick wardrobe for any colors the recipient might be wearing this summer. One stick is in a delicious and fashionable pink, infinitely smart for the pastels. A second stick is in a red shade with brown undertones, to be worn with either town or country clothes in the rust shades, the yellow greens, the browns, and the heathers. The third is a rather acid pink with lots of mauve in it that looks wonderful with gray, white, electric blues, and some of the interesting pinks. The fourth shade is a pure red, that is a chic color accent with navy blue, bright reds or some of the gypsy shades.

You can enjoy this yourself; the luxury of having exactly the right lipstick shade with whatever you choose to wear is a delightful sensation. But wouldn't the card of four sticks make a grand gift, especially for a hostess? It's different and chic and entirely useful.

The lipsticks are of excellent texture, in trim cases. Every woman you know would be happy to own them.

The Housewife

Did you know that there are new Venetian blinds made of cloth? The slats are of a specially treated cloth and are translucent to admit the light, but to exclude the glare. Of course they are lighter in weight and less bulky than wooden slats, and they are so resilient and flexible that they will take a lot of punishment.

Also these cloth slats are simple to keep clean with soap and water.

Here Are Ways of Curing Nail Biting Habit

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

In curing the nail biting habit, as well as various others that we feel are not desirable, indirect methods are most successful. Biting the finger nails may have various causes. Sometimes these causes are simple ones, but sometimes they are due to something in the child's home life or in the way he is managed which causes emotional disturbances, and one result is this habit of biting the finger nails. Whatever the cause, experience has proved that one or more of the following lines of action will bring results:

Be sure your child is well.

See that he or she has the right food and plenty of outdoor play.

See that your child has plenty of sleep and a daytime nap, or rest.

Guide him with calmness, friendliness and intelligence.

He needs activity. His life should be rich with childish interests. Supply companionship of his own age for him, if possible.

Let him learn to use his hands and provide him with the materials for doing so.

These are all indirect means. Now, here are two direct means usually successful.

One is caring for the finger nails. Working a little olive oil, or in the case of a little girl, some of your own fragrant heavy cold cream into the ends of the fingers and the cuticle at night relieves the dryness that is usual, and keeps down the skin and hangnails that result from the biting.

The other direct thing is an appeal to pride by giving a gentle manicure every day in some leisurely moment, with no attendant scolding. The promise of a manicure set or the buying of one often helps.

Be free with praise and encouragement. Some parents have used rewards where the older children are concerned, and I see no objection to it in these circumstances.

"Helping the Nervous Child" is a leaflet of interest to parents and teachers. Send a large, stamped, addressed envelope for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Crocheted Dress for Infants Is Practical Model

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

When the toddler from 9 to 18 months starts on her initial adventure of discovery she will have to have some serviceable dresses to withstand wear and tear. Crocheted garments are the logical choice, and these not only are durable and good looking, but easily made and the only ones in the wardrobe which may be laundered in a "jiffy." The crocheted garment illustrated is worked in the shell stitch and double crochet for the body and the yoke, respectively.

For instructions in crocheting the baby's dress for the infant 9 to 18 months, No. X-940, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Charm Spells Beauty, Avers a Photographer

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Webster may insist b-e-a-u-t-y spells beauty, but the only spelling Hollywood recognizes is c-h-a-r-m.

Whether in Vienna, Shanghai, Paris or Walla Walla, charm is the password into the beauty circle.

And charm depends on naturalness, according to Lazlo Willinger, photographer whose experience as one of Europe's ace portrait men lends weight to his words.

Since coming to Hollywood Willinger has photographed Norma Shearer, Joan Crawford, Virginia Bruce, Myrna Loy, and other leading stars of the realm. In that time he has found the American girl has a beauty surpassed by no other.

"Her beauty is the freshness of youth, the vitality of happiness, and the utter naturalness which, together, bespeak charm the world over.

"In America the average girl is in superb physical condition; she leads the outdoor life; is brought up with comparatively few worries; leads a normal, carefree life which is reflected in a beauty all the more alluring because it is unaffected.

"This is aptly illustrated in the case of Myrna Loy. Certainly not a beauty by ancient standards, Miss Loy is nevertheless the ideally charming, attractive American girl. During her portrait sitting there was never a moment when I had to suggest a pose. Miss Loy never poses. She reacts to the situation of the moment, is herself, and thus achieves the secret of the perfect model."

"Miss Shearer has the perfect photographic face. You can 'shoot' her from any angle with the result always one of beauty. And with her clear, perfect skin she is ideal for color.

"What constitutes charm?

For the Romping Small Fry

JUVENILE FROCK.

For the small fry who like to romp [and what youngster doesn't?] we're offering a frock the mothers will like because of its practicality and the ease with which it may be made. The model has a dipped shoulder yoke, under which there is shirring that, in addition to the flared cut, lends fullness to the entire frock. Buttons may be used down the front, and the dress may have collar and cuffs trimmed with ruffling. Panties to match accompany this frock.

At the upper right is sketched a plainer version, ideal for playtime. The round neckline is collarless, and on the skirt is a "Scottie" pocket, easily created with the aid of embroidery pattern No. E-11159, available for 10 cents extra.

Clotilde patterns are 10 cents each. Address orders to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

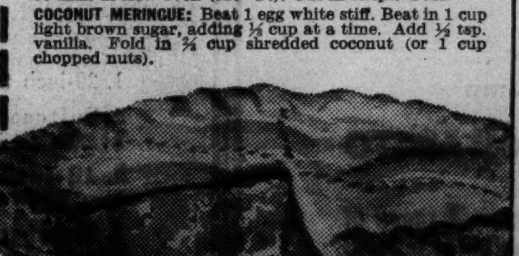
COCONUT MERINGUE BARS...Yum!

¼ cup Crisco
1 cup white sugar
2 eggs (save one white)
1½ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons milk
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon lemon juice

Blend Crisco (now so creamy—so easy to blend) with sugar and eggs. Sift dry ingredients. Add to Crisco mixture alternately with milk. Blend well. Add flavorings. Spread ¼ inch thick in shallow "Criscoed" pans. Spread with coconut meringue (see below). Bake 30 min. in slow oven (325° F.). Cut in strips. Cool.

COCONUT MERINGUE: Beat 1 egg white stiff. Beat in 1 cup light brown sugar, adding ⅓ cup at a time. Add ½ tsp. vanilla. Fold in ⅔ cup shredded coconut (or 1 cup chopped nuts).



SPICED PEACH PIE... has zest!

1 large can peaches (halves)
Whole cloves
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ cup vinegar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
Pinch of allspice

Stick two cloves in each peach. Add other ingredients, simmer ten minutes.

"SPICED CRUST" by Crisco: Sift 2 cups flour and 1 teaspoon salt. Blend in ⅔ cup Crisco (creamier now—easy to blend!). Add 4 to 5 tablespoons water—use as little as possible. Divide dough; roll out. Line pie plate and fill with spiced peaches. Add ½ cup pickled peach syrup; if thin, add 1 tablespoon flour. Put on slashed top crust; sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar. Bake in hot oven (400° F.) 20 to 25 min. All Measurements Level.

Methodists Refuse to Prohibit Tobacco for Lay Preachers

Kansas City, Mo., May 2.—[Special.]—An attempt to prohibit the use of tobacco by lay preachers was defeated heavily today at the unity conference of American Methodism here. It was suggested that laymen who apply for licenses to preach be required to sign an anti-tobacco pledge. The vote against it was held to indicate that the rule against tobacco for regular ministers may be modified.

It appeared today that the home and foreign missionary societies of the northern church may be abolished by the conference. In their place, it was indicated, a single board of missions and church extension would be set up. It would have charge of all missions, educational work, charities, including the present board of hospitals, for all three uniting churches. It would control endowments and properties worth more than a billion dollars.

Homes Opened for New Season at Lake Geneva

BY JUDITH CASS.

OUR correspondent from Lake Geneva sends word that the winter gates have been removed from the driveway leading to the Lake Geneva Country club, the snow fences are rolled up and piled along the road, the flag is flying and the blue and gold pennants are floating from the veranda. So the season at Lake Geneva officially is open.

The Lake Geneva Yacht club has held no formal opening ceremonies yet, but the first launching and christening party took place last Sunday when Incitatus, a 21 foot power boat, slid down the ways with banners streaming and cameras clicking. The Incitatus is the latest addition to the fleet at Black Point, the site of the summer homes of Mrs. Otto L. Schmidt and her son, Ernst C. Schmidt, the William F. Petersens, the Henry Bartholomays, senior and junior, and the Albert F. Madleners.

Incitatus is a gift from Mrs. Schmidt to her grandchildren, Conrad, Edward and William Petersen, and 10 year old Sybil Reese, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Hans Reese of Madison. Tied in a canvas bag to prevent the glass from flying, a bottle of champagne was smashed by small blonde Sybil, who already has officiated at three other Black Point boat christenings.

Enjoy Luncheon Before Log Fire.

Despite a choppy sea and a stiff breeze the new boat sped away from the yacht club pier, manned by the Petersen-Reese crew, their Uncle Ernst and their cousin, Henry C. Bartholomay Jr. Down the lake a few miles could be seen golfers on the Country club course, among them Philip Starck, William Madlener,

What Interests a Club Woman? Lunch Is First

BY BETTY BROWNING.

What most interests a club woman? Yesterday's sessions of the 44th annual convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs provided several answers.

A luncheon drew more than 800 women to the exhibition hall of the Hotel Sherman. It was the largest attendance at a session to date. Delegates were grouped by departments around tables decorated to illustrate their particular activities. The press chairmen's table won first prize with its surrealistic arrangements of newspapers, a giant fountain pen and a gallon jug of ink from which ink blue paper ribbons extended to paper ink pot and quill place cards.

After lunch several hundred members were kept continually on the move trying to attend several of the twenty department conferences held simultaneously.

Another indication of their interests: The music meeting was probably the largest, with John G. Paine, general manager of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, and Philip Maxwell, director of the Tribune's Chicagoland music festival, as speakers.

Another large audience heard an expert tell which colors to wear to bring out one's personality. A crowd applauded Mrs. Laurence T. Heron's prize winning publicity skit and witnessed the presentation of awards to winners of three other press and publicity department contests: release writing, scrap book, and attendance. A literary program drew still another large audience.

A fair sized group attended the public welfare session where the crime problem was discussed.

A scant score took part in a round table on legislation. They lamented over their difficulties in having a discussion of legislation included on club programs. "I can get legislation talked about only once a year," one delegate complained. "Then you're lucky," another retorted.

At an evening meeting for junior members Mrs. Grace Morrison Reynolds, former president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, told them that they give promise of a bright future for women's clubs.

Gardening Outfits Are Colorful

Garden outfits of dyed muslin come in such eye filling colors as cactus green, japonica, butter cup yellow and primrose pink. The jeans are of the dark colors, the shirt of the contrast. Shorts and a short skirt (not illustrated) come in the same effective color contrasts. A visored cap protects the eyes. The skin softening gloves are treated to smooth the skin while you're grubbing in the dirt.

Summer Coats Are Styled in Elegant Moire

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Handsome adjectives will be needed to express the elegance of the moire fabric used in the newest summer coats. Discreetly shining, they are perfect foils for dress parade dresses of fine lace, filmy chiffon, or combinations of net and less sheer materials. They couldn't be better finds for all the lovely feminine summertime fashions that are so flattering and soft after years of more tailored wardrobes.

Moire coats come in the two street shades, black and a knockout dark coppery brown called cedar. The cedar is grand for coppertops and blondes, and goes with chamois colored accessories as well as smart toast colors in straw, faille, or fine linen. The swishing blacks go with chartreuse, powder pink, oyster white, and cloud blue dresses.

Two distinctive models are available . . . one with a yoke and a molded midriff section, also cut with long wide sleeves and slightly square shoulderlines. This coat has reminiscent charm of the early nineties. The other coat is made with supple front fullness, a curved outline to the front of the blouse top and a casually tied belt.

By Way of Report.

Daughter of John Marquand's Mr. Willing.

An attractive, blue-eyed young woman greeting friends in town this week is Boston's Helen Howe, who gave a series of dramatic sketches, Characters and Caricatures, in costume at the Woman's Athletic club yesterday. Miss Howe is the daughter of Mark Antony De Wolf Howe, overseer of Harvard, New England litterateur, author of the recently published Holmes of the Breakfast Table, and rumored to be the prototype of the late George Apley in John Marquand's excellent book by that title.

"Father is not George Apley," said Miss Howe. "He is, however, Mr. Willing, the biographer of George Apley in Marquand's book." Which settled a much discussed point.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

KIND: Melodrama, advancing a laudable, earnest but disjointed argument in favor of better housing conditions for the very poor.

ACTING: Excellent.

DIRECTION, PHOTOGRAPHY, SOUND, ETC.: Satisfactory.

STORY: The poorly constructed tale is about a poverty stricken but beautiful and brainy heroine who convinces a handsome, wealthy, young playboy tenement owner that his job in life is to tear down his vermin infested holdings and on their sites erect sanitary, sunshiny dwellings in which happier tenenats will become better citizens.

DIALOG: There has been cleverer.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: "One Third of a Nation" will prove fairly interesting to the average fan.

"THE SAINT STRIKES BACK."
Produced by RKO-Radio.
Directed by John Farrow.
Based on stories by Leslie Charteris.
Presented at the Oriental theater.

THE CAST.

Simon Templar	George Sanders
Valerie Travers	Wendie Barrie
Inspector Fernack	Jonathan Hale
Cullis	Jerome Cowan
Allen Breck	Neil Hamilton
Zipper Dyson	Barry Fitzgerald
Webster	Robert Elliott
Harry Donnell	Russell Hopton
Pinky Budd	Howard Gargan
Commissioner	Robert Strange
Martin Eastman	Gilbert Emery
Secretary	James Burke
Mrs. Fernax	Nella Walker

KIND: Latest episode in the life of Simon Templar, better known in police and thievery circles as "The Saint."

ACTING: Able. Though I liked Louis Hayward better in the rôle than George Sanders, it must be said of the latter that he depicts "The Saint" with agreeable nonchalance, agility, and intelligence. . . . Wendy Barrie is pretty and appealing as the latest maid to love and be left by the superthief who realizes that "he travels fastest who travels alone," and, to date has proved one of the screen's most uncatchable bachelors. . . . Other players please.

DIALOG: Unremarkable.

DIRECTION, ETC.: Okeh.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Plenty to get by.

ENGAGEMENT

The engagement of Miss Ethyl Kennedy to Angus John Ray of Los Angeles, Cal., has been announced by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Edward Thomas Kennedy of Evanston. Mr. Ray is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. George Ray of Chicago. Miss Kennedy is a graduate of the Marywood School for Girls and Lake Forest college. Mr. Ray was graduated from Colgate college. The wedding will take place June 10 at a candlelight ceremony in the Kennedy home and will be followed by a reception at the Georgian hotel.

Looking at Hollywood

Spring Comes to Manhattan.

New York, May 2.—Faint, delicate green buds on the trees in front of Radio City. . . . The gray doves feeding on the diocesan lawn of St. Patrick's cathedral, the throaty cooing of the flock sounding not unlike a chorus of gray robed monks chanting the benediction responses. . . . The mob of musicians on West 46th, dressed in dinner jacket though it is only 4 p. m., stalling around until they go to their jobs when Broadway gets hot—and dark.

Grand Central information clerks pestered by people bewildered by daylight saving time. The fish in the Wrigley sign still swimming and getting no place, like a lot of Broadway fish. . . . Navy gobs arriving at the Hotel Astor for their dance, kidding with the giant Irish cops at 45th street. . . . The gap in Broadway at 43d where the wreckers have plucked out a building as cleanly as a dentist yanks a wisdom tooth.

A sidewalk vendor demonstrating shoe laces that have unusual values, according to him. . . . Not unusual enough to save him from the "Get along, now" of a brawny copper. . . . Jimmy Durante exiting from Dave's Blue room, biting happily into a pickle the size of his nose.

The wrinkled little man selling apples on a stick from a horse drawn cart. . . . The slim, gray peak of the Empire State building, where Al Smith parks the brown derby which he once flung into the presidential ring. . . . Russell Thaw, who flew back the soviet flyers. . . . Sailors nudging each other and pointing to the sign over Nick Blair's Paradise, "Venus in Paradise." . . . The venuses are displayed in fetching poses in the lobby. . . . The portly man emerging from Leone's with telltale traces of meat sauce on his cravat [it always splashes me, too]. . . . Universal Pictures President Nate Blumberg emerging hurriedly from the RKO building, interrupting his exit to fish out a dime for a lady selling pencils. . . . Few beggars on New York streets, the gendarmes locking 'em up during the fair.

Park avenue, the suavest boulevard in town, sitting atop the New York Central tracks. . . . Swell looking girls boarding the subway at the Wall street station, smartly dressed and with silk clad legs that could qualify for movie inserts. . . . Maybe it's because I've been away, but I-ve never seen such stunners.

In the Gateway restaurant, at Grand Central, a blonde captain of waitresses and a red-head who could give Sheridan some "O-omph" competition. . . . I think I'll go back and say that I left my hat. . . . Lunched there with my father, who is 74 years old. He had two eggs trimmed with sausages, laced with French frieds and moistened by two glasses of ale. . . . They made 'em heartier in the old days.

Lee Shubert, the boy from Syracuse. . . . Cabbies in front of the Strand discussing the war scare news. . . . "It's this way," says one, "them Heinies got airplanes and they figger they move in and knock off London like this—BOOM." . . . The other nods. . . . "Yeah. What's the score of the Giants' game?" . . . The war expert regards him disgustedly. . . . Long haired boys and short haired girls entering the Steinway building, rendezvous of the musically literate.

A wire haired dog hopping up and down excitedly, trying to get at the fish swimming in the tank of an 8th avenue fish store. . . . The owner has to drag the pup away, his paws slipping reluctantly on the sidewalk, his bright eyes focused on the goggle-eyed fish. . . . Song writers beating out the tempo of a tune on the windows of Lindy's.

The city startled by the small opening day attendance at the world's fair. . . . Of the expected 1,000,000 only 300,000 showed up, the other 700,000 staying home to avoid the crush that didn't develop. . . . It was lucky that 1,000,000 didn't show up, as the concessions and restaurants needed a dress rehearsal badly.

The River Bend Feud

By William MacLeod Raine

(Copyright: 1939: By William MacLeod Raine.)

SYNOPSIS.

Jeff Hunter, an American mining engineer, awaits execution in a Mexican jail by order of Pancho Banderas, rebel leader. A peon friend helps him escape to Texas. Jeff meets Joan Raleigh, lost in the vastness of her feudal estate, and assists her home, where he meets her brothers, Bill and Phil, and Phil's wife Mary Lou. When they learn Jeff went to college with their cousin, Raeburn, he is invited to be their guest. In a surprise encounter with Banderas, who has been routed from Mexico, Jeff disarms the bandit and his men. An old feud against the Raleighs is being renewed under the leadership of Butler Lane, suspected of poisoning their aunt, his wife, and forging her will. Banderas joins Lane. Jeff counsels diplomacy. He offers to be an envoy of good will among the better element.

INSTALMENT XV.
SILENT HATE.

Joan met Jeff in the big hall as he was leaving for the guest house She had not been present at the conference. They strolled together out of a French window to a side porch.

"Is it to be war or peace?" she asked in her low drawl.

"I'm to try to convince the neighbors that the Raleighs are reasonable people," he smiled.

"But you don't think so yourself," she countered.

"Come, that's not fair," he protested cheerfully. "You can't think my thoughts for me."

Her dark, long lashed eyes rested on him mockingly. "You'll be a fine ambassador, since you don't believe in the cause you represent."

"But I do."

"O, I daresay you believe in peace. We all do, theoretically. But you don't think we'll agree to any treaty that will be fair to the other side."

"On the contrary, I think you will offer generous terms, if you feel you're not being driven into them."

"How well you know us," she mocked lightly.

"Perhaps better than you think." He looked down at her disturbing loveliness. "Of course, you have been spoiled all your life. All you have had to do to get your wish fulfilled was to ask for it. Not good for any girl. Gives her an exaggerated sense of her importance. But there's a lot of good stuff in you."

"Nice of you to see the grains of gold in so much dross," she murmured.

"Perhaps I'm prejudiced in your favor. 'I was an hungered, and ye gave me meat. I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink. I was a stranger, and ye took me in.' I hope I'm properly grateful."

"Don't be so smug about it, just because I threw you a bone." A husky chuckle sounded in her throat. "And I don't reckon I ever took you in very far, since you see so clearly I'm just a spoiled brat. It must be nice to go around the world uplifting it and feeling so superior."

He took the thrust with a grin. "Confidentially, I'm surprising myself. This is the first time I ever carried an olive branch."

"Well, don't carry it too carelessly. Butler Lane and Pancho Banderas may not quite get the idea that this is all Christian altruism on your part." She looked at him a moment before she added, seriously: "I don't like your going. It's not safe, with Pancho on the warpath looking for you."

"If I get in a jam I will send you a wireless and you can come with a plane and snatch me from the jaws of death," he suggested.

Rae joined them. After a few minutes chat the two men left for the guest house.

After breakfast the peace envoys departed in one of the ranch small cars. Both of them had revolvers. A rifle was tucked in the alley back of the seat.

Jeff had demurred at this. "We don't need a rifle. We're not going to war."

"Might see a turkey," the cowboy explained, his blue eyes innocently bland.

His companion let it go at that. He was confident the old-timer was not going to do any unnecessary shooting. From Rae he had gathered some details of the history of Williams. Once, as a deputy sheriff, he had walked coolly into a nest of rustlers, all armed and ready for battle, and had brought the four of them back to town without a shot having been fired. Old Jim carried the scars of several bullet wounds and one cicatrice made by a knife in the hands of a Mexican outlaw he was arresting, but unless rumor lied he had in the course of duty left at least four bad men lying dead on the ground at one time or another.

They traveled at first in silence. Old Jim could ramble on in talk by the hour, his companion discovered later, but until he became acquainted he could be taciturn. After they had passed through the estate gate and were approaching Trail End he offered a suggestion.

"I got a cousin runs a two-bit restaurant here. Might drap in and have a pow-wow with him. I dunno as we'll get much from him. He's one of these guys who carry water on both shoulders . . close as a Pullman window. But we helled around consid'rable together when we was kids Maybe he'll gimme a nod."

Jeff thought this a good idea. They might pick up some information. At least they were likely to find out what if anything was agitating the mind of the town just now. It would be interesting to know whether the presence of Butler Lane and his imported gunmen had raised the local temperature.

Before his feet had touched the sidewalk Jeff felt the resentment of the residents beat upon him. Three men were standing in front of a store They had been talking but had stopped their conversation to glare at the two arrivals from the big ranch. In their silent hate was a simmering menace.

"Yes," agreed Hunter. "It's worse than when I was here before."

Williams introduced his companion to Judd Moss. The restaurant owner was a round little man with a fat pasty face which smiled expansively while the skim-milk eyes remained cold. He was alone and the cowboy wasted no time.

"Saw Rannigan and Fidler front of the hardware store," he said. "They looked at us like we'd come to scatter cholera germs. What's eatin' those birds?"

"Why, I don't know any news, Jim," his cousin purred. "Except that Bob Sutter died an hour ago."

"Better phone the ranch at once," Jeff said in a low voice.

A customer had come into the restaurant and had slid on to a stool at the counter. He called for a cup of coffee. Moss went to wait on him. The man was the one they had seen outside with Rannigan and Fidler.

"Reckon we'll use your phone for long distance," Williams said.

"I'd rather you didn't use it. I'm always having trouble with the company about toll fares when outsiders use it." Moss had walked down the counter toward them and was contorting his face violently to let them know the customer was a spy and that he did not want to have any part in this business.

Since Williams was aware of both these facts already he paid no attention. "Sho, we'll fix up the toll all right, Judd. Don't you worry a mite." He took off the receiver and rang the bell. "Gimme the River Bend ranch, lady. . . . Twenty cents? Okay. Say when."

While the cowboy waited Moss renewed his objections peevishly. "I don't like folks using this phone for outa town calls. I done told you that before you started."

"That's right. So you did. Might as well go on with the call now, seeing I'm in a hurry. I'll sure remember next time." Williams leaned his lank length against the wall chewing tobacco placidly as he waited for the completion of the call. "Hello, this the River Bend? I want the boss. . . That you, Phil? . . . We just heard some bad news. Bob Sutter took a turn for the worse and died this mo'ning. . . . Talking from the Moss restaurant."

Phil Raleigh did most of the rest of the talking. At intervals Williams murmured, "Yep. . . . Yep. . . . I'll tell him. . . . Sure. . . . Okay."

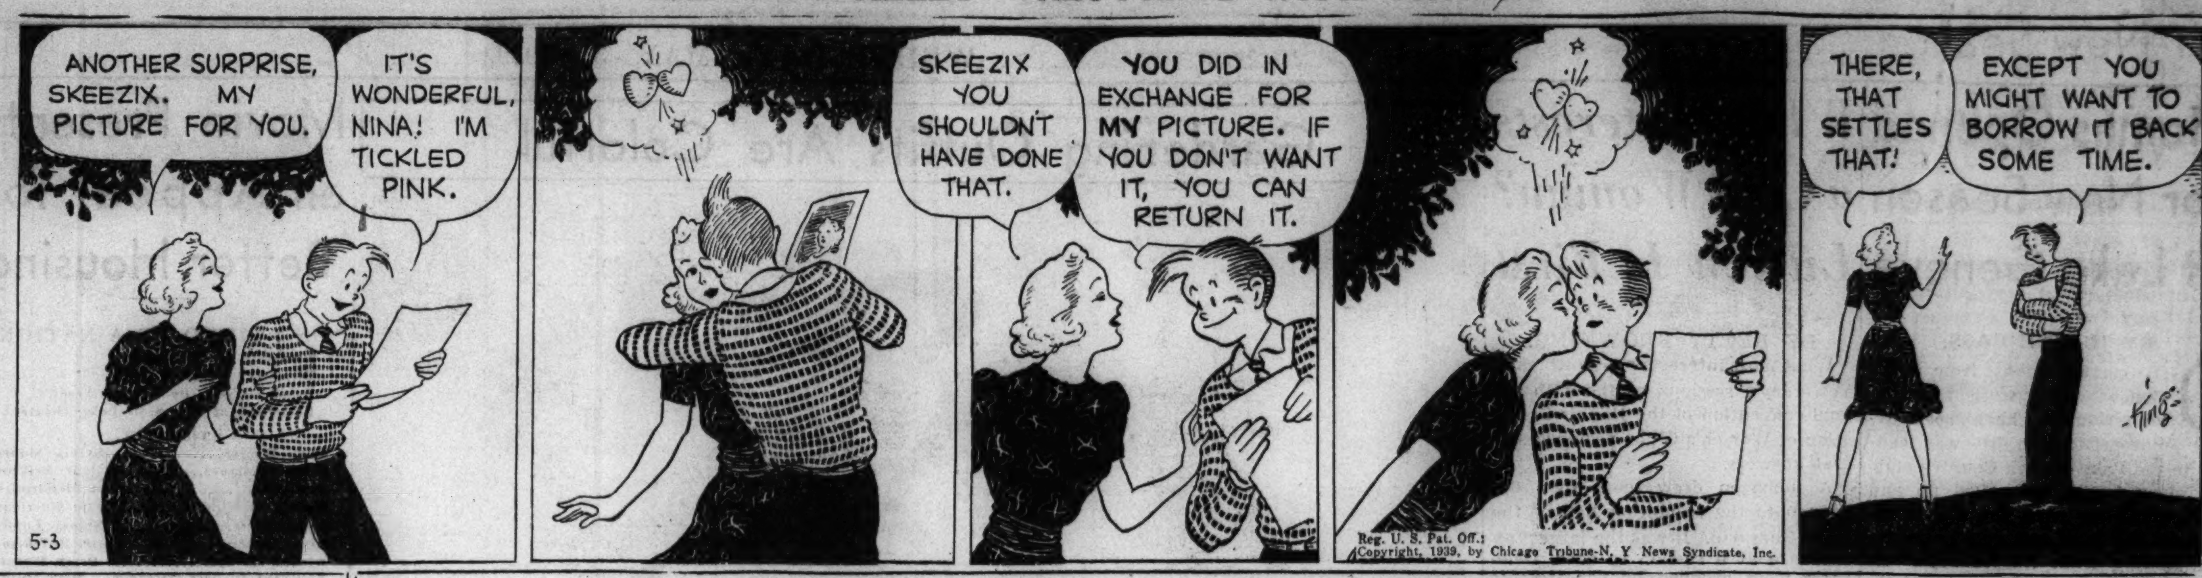
GASOLINE ALLEY — RETURNED WITH THANKS



WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Reunion

Miss Fairman Well Liked in First Concert

BY CECIL SMITH.

Joy Fairman, the winsome soprano who recently created the soprano rôle in the first American performances of Telemann's opera "Pimpinone," gave her first full length recital in the Goodman theater last night. She was capably accompanied by Rhea Shelters. In appearance Miss Fairman was all one could wish a lyric soprano to be—slender, blonde, pretty, and exquisitely gowned in pure white.

Her voice is as youthful and unspoiled as her appearance, with a spangled glitter to give it individuality and charm. From sound schooling both here and in Italy she has derived not only unusually good Italian diction, but also a feeling for the beauty of smooth melodic line, clean ornamentation and coloratura, and an evenly produced scale. She possesses both a lovely pianissimo and an ample volume in full voice.

Miss Fairman is a decidedly attractive artist, but as yet not a wholly mature one. She was at her best in a group of modern Italian and Spanish songs by Respighi, Pizzetti, Donaudy, and Turina. Here her projection of the musical idea to the audience was often pointed and delightful. Here also she revealed the fullest loveliness of her voice, which at other times she marred by achieving only a partial resonance.

In her French and German songs she seemed interpretatively less secure. Her diction was also less good. Along with this imperfection some of the warmth left her upper voice, and a trembly quality emerged to mar the flow of tone in the middle register.

I am not sure that Miss Fairman has yet learned to criticize all her own work objectively. Why should a singer who can produce a tone of ravishing loveliness one-fourth of the time permit herself to descend noticeably below this level the rest of the time? Why should an artist who can sing half a dozen songs with strong emotional appeal and intellectual control allow herself the luxury of presenting a large number of tentative interpretations in public?

When Miss Fairman raises all her singing to the present level of the best of it, she will become one of the most gratifying lyric sopranos before the Chicago public.

DE PAUL CHOIR

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The a cappella choir of De Paul university, Arthur C. Becker, director, began its Kimball hall concert of last evening with some finely executed Palestrina. These youthful voices achieved in the serenely moving music a genuinly angelic quality. A little farther on, in Russian sacred music, there was an electrifying suggestion of the solemn, strangely emotional service of the Orthodox church.

The program was varied by a group of madrigals sung by a special choir. Also by the duos of Joan Franston and Maurine Powell, sopranos.

Wednesday, May 3.

The tendency is toward the quick leap, but you should look over any contemplated deals at least once more before action is taken, especially in daylight hours. Evening improves considerably, particularly in emotional and social matters.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead demands steadiness, responsibility, patience, and admission of past errors for best results, if this is date of your birth. From mid-October personal and occupational changes in the air. Danger: Oct. 11-25 and Feb. 22-March 10, 1940.

Tomorrow.

120 Year Old Collection of Fossils Given Museum

A collection of 1,500 specimens of minerals and fossils, gathered more than 120 years ago, has been presented to the Field museum, it was announced yesterday. It was presented by Dr. Henry Field, a distant relative of the collectors, who are on record only as "the Misses Salisbury" of Baggrave Hall, Leicestershire, England. They died in the 1820s.

Few Husbands Ever Really Forgive This ONE NEGLECT

OFTEN a "neglected" wife may blame her own neglect—of the important obligation of feminine hygiene. If there is any doubt or perplexity in your mind regarding feminine hygiene, ask your doctor about "Lysol's" 50 years of service to women. Probably no other product is so widely used for this important purpose as "Lysol". On sale at all drug counters.

Henry C. Bartholomay, F. J. Clifford Jr., and Francis Lagorio.

In the clubhouse, lunching before a big log fire, were the Augustus K. Maxwells, Daniel Peterkin, and Hubbard Carpenter. Mr. Maxwell, president of the country club, and Mrs. Maxwell were at the lake only for the week-end as they will not open their house at Jerseyhurst until May 15. The A. F. Gartz home, also at Jerseyhurst, is kept open the year around.

The Gartz house is not the only open one all the time, for the William M. Spencers have been in residence at their House in the Woods almost every week-end all winter. Their children, Billy, Edson, and Susan, are all skating enthusiasts, and so are the Whiting youngsters, Larry Jr. and Barbara. They spent many winter week-ends at Somerset with their father, Lawrence Whiting.

Mrs. Philip T. Starck and her children, Barbara and Brent, often are in their Lake Geneva home, Casa del Sueno. Last week-end the young Phil Starcks and the former Mildred Starck and her husband, Paul Loeber, were at Casa del Sueno [House of Dreams] with their mother. The young Phil Starcks have purchased a summer home of their own on the lake. It is at Lindon lodge, formerly part of the Levi Z. Leiter estate. They will have the Hubbard Carpenters as neighbors on one side and the Henry H. Porters and Henry Porter Ishams on the other.

Norwegian Royalty Arrives Tomorrow.

The arrival tomorrow morning of the crown prince and princess of Norway will occasion the start of three days of such activity and festivity among Norwegian-Americans as they have not had in many years, if ever before.

Every one of Norwegian descent is excited over the prospects of seeing Prince Olav and Princess Martha. It would seem as if every one, young and old, well and sick, would have an opportunity to see them, for the royal guests will visit several hospitals, old people's homes and orphanages during their brief stay.

Women of Norwegian descent will give a luncheon tomorrow at the Drake hotel for the princess while the prince attends a luncheon to be given for him at the Chicago club by Arthur Andersen, chairman of special arrangements committee for the visit. Mrs. Andersen and her daughter, Mrs. Robert E. Hornberger [Dorothy Andersen] will attend the luncheon. Mr. and Mrs. Hornberger, who were married on April 5, have come from their home in Dallas, Tex., to visit the Andersens in Winnetka while the prince and princess are here. Later this month the Hornbergers will sail for a deferred honeymoon in Honolulu.

Mrs. Caspera Sarheim is chairman of a large committee representing the various Norwegian-American organizations that will present a gift to Princess Martha at the luncheon tomorrow. Mrs. John M. Pedersen is vice chairman of the committee that has been raising funds for the special gift.

Luncheon for Board of Le Cercle Francais.

Mrs. Allen C. Howes, new president of Le Cercle Français, will entertain the new board members at luncheon today at home. Mrs. Howes succeeds Mrs. Fred M. Bobo who has moved to Pasadena. Mrs. Winfield Scott Brainerd and Mrs. Daniel Taylor will be especial guests at the luncheon.

Mrs. Richard H. Mabbatt will open her home at 245 Vine drive in Lake Forest for a needle-point exhibit tomorrow and Friday. The handiwork, made and donated by Lake Forest women, will be sold at the Trading Post, which is operated for the benefit of the Alice Home hospital. Tea will be served on both days from four to six.

Mrs. Milo Winter of 1120 Lake Shore drive will give a luncheon Friday at the Arts club for her guest, Miss Elizabeth Klingensmith of Bloomfield Hills, Mich.

An International Night program will be presented at 8:30 o'clock next Tuesday night at the Woman's Club theater for the benefit of the Henry Booth House settlement. Customs, dances and music of several foreign nations will be represented. Dr. Horace J. Bridges is president of the Booth House board.

Split North Shore Infant Welfare Unit

Mrs. Charles W. Cregier has been elected president of the senior group of the Highland Park-Ravinia center of the Infant Welfare society. The center grew so rapidly that just recently it was split in two. To celebrate the forming of the new group, the two centers will give a luncheon on May 22 at the Exmoor Country club. Philip D. Armour, president, and Lucius Teter, chairman of the board of directors of the society will be especial guests. Presidents of all other centers are being invited to the party.

The annual Gads Hill dinner-dance will be held on June 9 at the Skokie Country club. Mrs. William Vernetson Carroll Jr., is the general chairman.

Jelly Blends with Ham in Jiffy Dinner

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

There must be a hundred different ways to combine ham and fruits in a meal. Any juicy fruit blends well with a ham or part of a ham. Fruit jellies are good with ham, too.

Grape jelly is used in the recipe for today's easy-to-fix dinner ham slice, but you may substitute any other which happens to be at hand. Cranberry, quince, currant, and crab-apple jellies are to be recommended.

SHORT CUT DINNER
Baked Ham Slice with Grape Jelly
Cheese-Baked Potatoes
Buttered Fresh Lima Beans
Beet, Avocado and Cucumber Salad, French Dressing
Cupcakes with Crushed Strawberries

HAM SLICE WITH GRAPE JELLY.

Buy a slice of ham from an inch to an inch and a half thick. Clip the fat around the edges to prevent curling. Place in a baking dish and bake uncovered in a slow oven, 350 degrees, for 20 to 30 minutes, depending upon whether the ham has been pre-cooked or not. Remove from oven and spread with one-third cup grape jelly. Poke several whole cloves into the ham and return to the oven for ten minutes longer, during which time the ham slice will become glazed.

CHEESE BAKED POTATOES.

Select long baking potatoes, scrub carefully, and split each in half lengthwise. Brush all over with butter and bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes. Then reduce heat for the ham and let potatoes continue to cook at the lower temperature. It may be necessary to brush over again with butter in order to prevent drying out. When ham is removed from the grape glaze remove potatoes, too [they should be done by this time], and make a slash in the top of each. Drop in a bit of butter and lay a thin slice of American cheese over each half potato. Return to oven to melt cheese.

Ordinarily potatoes are baked at a high temperature throughout the cooking period, but ham would be ruined by high heat, so in this case it is necessary to make an adjustment.

To make the salad arrange slices of canned or previously cooked beets, thin, crisp slices of cucumber, and cross-cuts of avocado on lettuce or other greens, and drip French dressing over them.

Buy tiny cupcakes or make your own. If you buy them get plain ones with little if any frosting, and if you make them leave them unfrosted for this dessert. Some of them may be frosted later for use at another meal.

Youth Facing Problem: Kiss or Not to Kiss

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Carl begs to inquire if it is proper to kiss a girl the first time he takes her out. Or, should he wait for a second time? Or, what is the correct procedure so that the girl won't think him a big stiff?

We elders are inclined to laugh at these questions of "to kiss or not to kiss." But it is fairly serious business with the group from which the queries come. Silly as it may sound to some of you, our experience with young folk, through their confidences and personal contacts, leads us to believe that there is considerable misunderstanding between the sexes on the subject.

As Carl puts it, he doesn't want the girl to think him a big stiff. Word seems to have gotten around among the boys that the way to sell themselves to girls is to act the experienced man of the world. And, by the same token, some girls seem to think they have to give the "come-on" so that the boy won't think them killjoys. All of which leads to confusion on this first date, or second.

Our best advice to young folk is to discuss the subject frankly. If a girl has ideas and ideals about not wanting to make her lips the parking ground for every Tom, Dick, and Harry, let her say so, but not dramatically, not snobbishly, and not in a militant manner.

A boy can be got around easily by putting the problem up to him—as to just how he feels about girls with too ready lips. She can make the boy feel pretty noble by seeking his advice on the subject.

Of course, she will run into some who won't stop to argue or listen, but that type she'll want to dismiss anyway as a collector who won't be around long in any event.

There are any number of young people today who don't want to jeopardize a nice budding romance by shoddy actions, with just as many boys with ideals as girls. It's this type to whom we suggest frank, good natured, and open discussions.

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Being just the wife in this case, and not nearly as good a bridge player [in his estimation] as my husband, I would like your opinion on the following hand which came up at duplicate bridge last evening. I was playing South with my husband, North. Our side was vulnerable.

"The bidding [match point duplicate]:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 spade	Pass	3 clubs
Pass	3 spades	Pass	4 no trump
Pass	5 diamonds	Pass	5 no trump
Pass	6 hearts	Pass	6 no trump
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

"We use the Blackwood convention and of course my five diamond bid showed one ace and my six heart bid [in response to the five no trump bid] showed two kings. Needless to say, we went down one trick at six no trump and were lucky that it wasn't more. If the spade honors had not been so fortunately placed for us, it would have been a real debacle.

"The argument is this: My husband insists that my rebid, after his forcing three clubs, should have been three no trump, even with a void, to show that I had opened on a minimum. My contention is that with a void, a minimum honor count, and a rebiddable suit, my bid was three spades. Even with the adverse distribution, the hand easily makes game in spades. Without a fit in my bid suit, I believe he should have signed off with three no trump, or made some other bid whereby I could have put in a slam try if my hand had been really strong. I dislike very much to swallow my pride in this particular instance, because I do not feel that I did wrong. However, we will abide by your decision. Mrs. G. C. M., Wisconsin."

My correspondent should most certainly not swallow her pride in this instance, nor should she swallow the absurd criticism emanating from her so-called better half. Not only was North's bidding 100 per cent atrocious, but his comments on South's responses were, if possible, worse. South's bidding was correct throughout. Holding a seven card spade suit, it was out of the question that she bid anything but three spades in response to three clubs. Three no trump [North's suggestion] would have been one of the worst bids ever heard on land or sea. Apparently, it is North's contention that the opening bidder must make artificial rebids to indicate his honor trick holding—whether minimum or better than minimum. This does not conform to the practice of all leading players. They feel, logically enough, that if a player has a sound opening bid, his rebids should show his distribution whenever possible.

North's bidding left a great deal to be desired. His three club force was extremely questionable and his terrific subsequent bidding, which landed the partnership in a horrible slam contract, was beyond the pale. Four spades was the correct final contract.

WOMAN, 77, KILLED BY TRUCK AS SHE RUNS TO MAILBOX

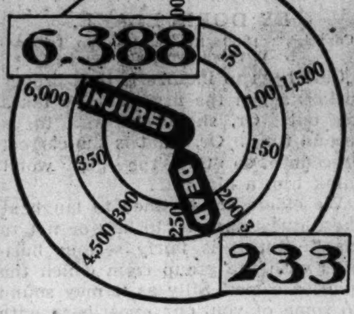
Mrs. Mary Lally, 77 years old, was killed by a truck yesterday when she ran to a mailbox in front of her home on Nippersink avenue, one half mile east of Round Lake in Lake county. The driver was Emil Radke, employed on the Round Lake farm of Judge Oscar F. Nelson of the Superior court. Mrs. Lally was the wife of Charles Lally, a retired farmer.

Mose Smith, 53, colored, of 317 Wendell street, died in County hospital of a skull fracture incurred April 2 when he was struck by a hit-run automobile at Elm and Sedgwick streets.

Policeman Gustave Milz of Niles Center was seriously injured when he drove his motorcycle against the side of an automobile while pursuing another speeding car at Simpson street and Central Park avenue in the suburb. The speeder escaped.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 301 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 233 were killed in Chicago, where 6,388 were injured in the same period.

THE MASSACRE
Chicago's 1939 Trafic Toll



More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

3 JUDGES CLAMP DOWN TO REQUIRE DRIVER LICENSES

Defendants appearing in the three courts hearing complaints of motor law violations were informed yesterday that they face penalties if they do not have their drivers' licenses or evidence of having applied for them. This warning came from Judge John Gutknecht in Trafic court, Judge Thomas A. Green in Safety court and Judge Jay A. Schiller in the Auto Jury court.

Meanwhile, the drive on motorists delinquent in obtaining their state licenses, city vehicle stickers, and drivers' licenses was continued by city, park, county, and state highway police. The effect of the drive was reflected by the crowds that appeared at the city collector's office. Twenty extra clerks were put on duty to help the ten regular clerks.

Judge Gutknecht announced that, effective immediately, he would impose a $10 fine on any motorist brought before him on trafic charges if he did not have a driver's license. On and after May 15 the fine will be $25, he said. The maximum penalty under the law, which became effective May 1, is $300.

FREED IN SHORT CHANGE RACKET.

Judge Matthew D. Hartigan of the Felony court yesterday freed Edward Lang, 47 years old, an alleged international swindler, on a charge of attempting to defraud Edward Seveley in a short change racket. The charge was dismissed when Seveley, a druggist at 6158 Clark street, failed to appear in court.

WRIT HALTS USE OF CHURCH NAME IN CHARITY DRIVE

An injunction to restrain the Rev. Joseph Jablonowski, pastor of the Sacred Heart of Jesus Polish National Catholic church, 1953 22d place, from use of the name "Sacred Heart of Jesus" in solicting charity funds was issued yesterday in Superior court. The suit was brought by the Catholic bishop of Chicago on behalf of the Rev. James A. Walsh, pastor of the Sacred Heart Roman Catholic church, 815 19th street. The suit alleged that five professional solicitors were leading contributors to believe that the Sacred Heart Roman Catholic church was the beneficiary.

Starting today at 2:45 p. m.—in 9th Floor Tea Rooms—The Club Woman's Bureau will hold the first of a series of five lessons in Parliamentary Law. Mrs. M. H. Lieber, instructor. No admission charge.

EUROPE'S BOXERS SEE FAIR; EAGER TO REACH CHICAGO

THEY WANT TO FIGHT; EXPECT TO WIN EASILY

Continue Trip West Today.

BY STEWART OWEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 2.—Europe's eight Golden Gloves battlers paused in their journey to Chicago and their bout with Chicago's champions in the Stadium on May 12 to devote all of today looking over New York's World's Fair. Tirelessly they toured the grounds from one end to the other and when they had finished the general reaction was:

Luigi Musina.

"Nice. O. K. When we go Chicago?"

This eagerness to reach Chicago is born of a firm conviction in the mind of every one of Europe's fighters that he will win his fight against his American opponent and that the team will carry away an overwhelming victory for the first time in the history of International Golden Gloves. This confidence is so great that the boys want to get into the ring and finish the fights as speedily as possible. Little things like sightseeing, world's fairs, and ocean voyages have become merely incidental to their desire to get into action in Chicago. These other things are "Nice. O. K.," but the big question is, "When we go Chicago?"

Olli Is Determined.

Little Olli Lehtinen, the Finnish flyweight, thinks that in losing to Walter Cavalieri on his first trip to America last year he learned enough about the American style of boxing to enable him to whip anybody who is tossed into the ring with him this year. It isn't cockiness on Olli's part; it's just quiet determination to avenge that defeat of last year. To attain that goal the little Finn has been working harder than anybody else on the European team running endless miles around the decks of the liner Normandie, on which the boys arrived yesterday, shadow boxing at every opportunity and putting in long hours in the ship's gymnasium.

There is more or less cockiness in the attitude of Guido Nardecchia, the Italian bantamweight. Guido won two bouts in America last year, one over Johnny Noto in Chicago and the other in Minneapolis, and won two bouts, one against Billy Speary, in New York the year before. His confusing habit of running rings around his opponents and bobbing up in the most unexpected places has carried this amusing little fellow to 93 victories in 99 fights and it would be pretty hard to convince him there's anybody on the Chicago team who can beat him this year.

Musina Knows He's Good.

It would be impossible to convince Luigi Musina that there's anybody in Chicago or elsewhere who can whip him. There's something more than cockiness in his attitude toward opponents. His contempt for them would amount to arrogance if his record as a boxer were less impressive. Since 1935 he has been the king of light heavyweights in Italy. For three years he was officially the champion; for the last two he has been so good that Italian boxing authorities have kept him out of the national tournament because no other light heavyweights would enter if he took part. They took a look at his record of 40 knockouts and of 240 victories in 250 bouts and decided to stay home if Luigi was going to be around swinging that powerful right fist.

It's pretty hard to make a man with a record like that believe anybody is going to stand in his way of his win-

THE GUMPS—WE HOPE HE DOESN'T PLAY HIS HUNCHES

Brisk Rivalry Develops for Places on Card.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's Golden Gloves squad stepped through its second ring workout yesterday with an enthusiam engendered by the knowledge that no European team ever has conquered a Chicagoland team and the anticipation of the arrival of Europe's best fighters tomorrow morning. All of the boys, with the exception of Jimmy Reeves of Cleveland, and Orlan Ott of Sioux City, Ia., fought two rounds each.

Reeves, Golden Gloves light heavyweight champion, was granted a day of rest yesterday by the coaching staff because of sore hands. Ott, who was brought in for the international squad as a heavyweight alternate, was limited to one round. He'll be ready for more strenuous work today.

Musina? Phooey, Says Reeves.

Reeves not only is Golden Gloves champion but he won the 175 pound title in the recent National A. A. U. tournament in San Francisco. No better fighter, nor a more lighthearted, happy-go-lucky boy, can be found on the Chicago squad. And he isn't a bit concerned over his international bout with Luigi Musina, of Milan, Italy. You can tell Jimmy about Musina's 250 fights and how he was so good the Italian association wouldn't let him compete in the national tournament for two years, but Jimmy just grins.

"Maybe the others were so bad he just looked good," Reeves suggested. "I don't scare easy so maybe this Musina had better bring his boxing gloves to the Stadium anyway. If I fight him there ain't going to be a dance until after the show."

This is the year, according to the European fighters, three of whom are veterans of international Golden Gloves campaigns, that Europe will win. But to the Chicago boxers training in the Illinois Athletic club the prospect of international fights looms no more importantly than did the bouts against New York last March. Then, it was predicted, New York was ready to end Chicago's supremacy in amateur boxing. New York failed, and if condition and determination still are the most important factors, Europe also will fail.

Assignments Wide Open.

Another reason for the Chicagoans' diligent drills is the uncertainty as to whom will be named to fight Europe's best. Eight of the 17 boys will be named and the showing in the training battles will determine the selection, barring, of course, injury. From now until the last ring workout, as near as possible, the rivals in each weight class will box. This plan insures maximum of effort and fair decision concerning makeup of the Chicago team.

It was necessary yesterday, however, to use six Chicago sparmates to round out the day's series of two round matches.

Viscounty Wins Last Derby Test in Photo Finish; Technician 2d

BY HOWARD BARRY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 2.—E. F. Woodward's Viscounty won the Derby trial this afternoon, beating the 1 to 3 favorite, Technician, by a nose in a photo finish. Steel Heels was third, six lengths behind at the finish of the mile race, which was the last big test for next Saturday's Kentucky Derby.

Porter's Mite, regarded as Technician's chief threat, tired and came in fourth, a length back of Steel Heels, after setting the pace for more than three-quarters of a mile.

Pile-up is Threatened.

Meanwhile Ira Hanford seemed reluctant to drive too desperately through the narrow opening as an accident might have put his valuable mount out of the Derby. Throughout the final eighth it was a question whether or not there would be a pile-up on the rail.

Under the circumstances, neither rider could do full justice to his mount, but toward the end Technician was drawing up steadily and probably would have pushed his nose in front in a few more strides.

Viscounty's time for the mile was 1:38 2-5. In the mutuels he paid $61.60 to win, $8 to place, and $3.80 to show.

Challedon Works Well.

The highly regarded Challedon, winner of three futurities last fall, was worked over the full Derby route this morning and gave his backers more reason for the confidence they have placed in him. Moving with great, easy strides he covered the distance in 2:08. He was at the quarter in :26, the half in :52 1-5, the three-quarters in 1:18, and the mile in 1:43 1-5.

Johnstown and T. M. Dorsett arrived from New York this morning, a few minutes after Heather Broom had been brought over from Lexing-

Within the cedar chest there lay
The linens, shiny and white,
That every bride is proud to own
And thrills her soul with delight.

To the dainty baby clothes
Containing a woman's holy dream
Like a budding fragrant rose.

A sweater that's old and torn,
A faded sash, a party dress
That now looks quite forlorn.

The best that life decrees,
A bride's delight—a woman's hopes—
And a mother's memories.

The outfielders look at the sun dazzled sky
And portentously put on their glasses,
Silence settles on the crowded stands,
On the fans, both lads and lasses.
The pitcher tenses, as he toes the mound,
And anxiously looks about;
The batter stands grim as he waits at the plate,
And then proceeds . . . to strike out.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Ted Lyons, who carries 38 years and seventeen seasons of pitching on his shoulders, was the answer yesterday to the White Sox's prayer for a victory which would extend their winning streak to five straight. Lyons stretched it almost without stretching himself, Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics succumbing easily, as well as humorously, in the opener of a two game series. The score was 4 to 1 and James J. Dykes' gang now is enjoying exclusive tenancy of second place not far behind the world champion Yankees.

The Athletics lent a humorous touch to the proceedings by concentrating on errors, an act for which they have a definite weakness. By doing things contrary to the teachings of their venerable and patient professor, Connie Mack, they piled up a total of five miscues. What made their act even more pleasing for 1,500 spectators, who were smart enough to fetch along their overcoats, was that four of the blunders were paired, thus giving the Sox three runs that technically were not earned although hitting was involved.

Funny Business Helps.

At the start the Athletics' pitching was in charge of Leroy Parmelee, whom the Sox hadn't seen since he was sporting Cub regalia. The exrover of the National league was gone before the finish, but his pitching wasn't as bad as indicated by what happened during his tenure.

The Sox were entitled to one run off him in the third, but made it two because Parmelee and his catching partner, Frank Hayes, each erred on the same play. The fifth was even worse for the big speedballer. Three fielding slips, two by Dario Lodigiani, made it possible for the Chicagoans to register their last two runs on only one hit.

Lyons Is Right.

Lyons performed so perfectly in the chilly atmosphere that he went through six innings in which only three of the Mack menage reached base, two on hits and the other on Lyons' only pass. In the last three innings, however, the visitors ran up their hitting string enough to surpass their total in the error column. They peeled off two hits in the seventh, one of them flukey but good for a run, and the last two in the ninth with one out. Lyons still had

Lou Sadly Plays a Strange Role

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 2.—Ancient Sylvester Johnson, Philly coach who stays on the active pitching list just to toss to fellows who don't know much about the art of hitting baseballs, this afternoon took nine innings of exercise in a 6 to 1 victory over Ray Harrell and other Cubs. The Cubs eked out four hits, giving them a grand total of eleven in their last three games.

Manager Gabby Hartnett, who looks upon Harrell as his protégé despite an unimpressive record with the St. Louis Cardinals, did his first catching of the 1939 championship season. Gabby did all he could in the Texas cowboy's behalf including driving in the lone Cub run.

Dick Bartell doubled in the third inning, but died on third base. Phil Cavarretta doubled in the fifth and Hartnett sent him home with a single. The other Cub hit was authored by Stanley Hack at the start of the sixth, but he got only as far as second base, which he had to steal.

Russell Finishes for Cubs.

Obviously, Gabby's assistance was woefully inadequate. Harrell was knocked out in the seventh, after the Phils had attacked him with their seventh, eighth and ninth hits for their fifth and sixth runs. Jack Russell got two men out to end the seventh inning jam and in the eighth waded out of a jam of his own after loading the bases.

Thus started the Cubs' first 1939 invasion of the east, against a team which last year won only four out of twenty-two, three here and one in Chicago. Incidentally, the Cubs were popping up so much that they were able to hit only six grounders.

Hartnett Drives in Cavarretta.

The Cub defense blew up in the home fourth. Klein drew Harrell's first walk, stole second and went on to third when Hartnett's perfect throw went through Bartell's fingers. Arnovich singled to left, scoring Klein. May tapped in front of the plate and when Harrell threw past Cavarretta, Arnovich got to third and May to second. Powers was given an intentional pass, after which Arnovich scored on Scharein's sacrifice fly.

The Cubs cut the Philly lead in two in the fifth inning. With one out Cavarretta doubled to left and scored on Hartnett's single to center. Bartell flied to Klein and Harrell forced Hartnett.

With two out in the sixth May singled for the third time and the Phillies' fifth hit. Powers singled, May stopping at second. Scharein tripled to right center, scoring May and Powers. Davis was given an intentional pass, then Johnson popped to Hack.

Mueller launched the home seventh with a double off the right field wall and went to third as Martin beat out a bunt toward third. Mueller scored and Martin went from first to third on a wild pitch. Klein bounced to Cavarretta, Martin holding third, but Arnovich singled to center, Martin scoring. At this point Russell replaced Harrell.

Detroit, Mich., May 2.—[Special.]—Lou Gehrig's string of 2,130 consecutive games came to an abrupt end today. The 35 year old first baseman, who started baseball's greatest iron man feat with the New York Yankees fourteen years ago, approached Manager Joe McCarthy shortly before the world champions met the Detroit Tigers and asked to be benched. His record streak started on May 31, 1925.

Gehrig said he made up his mind Sunday night to request Manager McCarthy to give him a rest. Meeting baseball reporters after the game had started this afternoon, Gehrig said:

"This record for consecutive games always was meaningless to me. Some of you newspaper guys wouldn't believe it, but maybe you will now."

Cheers Yankees to Victory.

While the veteran first baseman sat on the bench and shouted words of encouragement to his teammates, the Yankees again appeared as the team which is rated as the greatest in the history of baseball. The champions routed the Tigers, 22 to 2.

Gehrig said he intended to remain on the bench "for just a few days." Gehrig, who will be 36 years old on June 19, is hopeful that warmer weather will help bring him out of his slump.

"I felt I wasn't helping the club by the way I was playing. Physically, I am in wonderful condition, but I have had trouble getting started," Gehrig said. "One thing I certainly appreciate is that despite my slump, the fans never got on me. I want the fans in New York and elsewhere to know that I am grateful for that."

List of Gehrig's Records.

Last year Gehrig batted only .295, the first time he had failed to reach .300 since 1925. That year he won over the Yankees' first base duties from Wally Pipp. While he was setting his amazing endurance record Gehrig made numerous major league marks. Among them are:

Most consecutive games played—2,130.
Most consecutive years, 100 games or more—13.
Most years, 150 games or more—12.
Most consecutive years, 100 runs or more—13.
Most home runs with bases filled—23.
Most years, 300 or more total bases—13.
Most years, 100 runs or more driven in—13.
Double plays by first baseman—157.
Most home runs in a game—four [1932].

Keller Leads Attack.

The Yankees clubbed the offerings of five pitchers for seventeen hits. Rookie Outfielder Charley Keller, making his first start in the lineup, led the attack with a home run and triple, the latter with the bases loaded, driving in six runs. Babe Dahlgren, who took Gehrig's place at first base, also had a big hand in the barrage. His double in the first figured in a six run attack, and in the third he boosted the Yankee lead to

OTT HITS HOMER WITH 2 ON BASE; GIANTS WIN, 8-7

Drive in 9th Ends 5 Game Losing Streak.

New York, May 2.—(AP)—Mel Ott, the Giants' best trouble shooter, solved two problems for Manager Bill Terry today. He moved in to third base to plug the team's biggest defensive gap and, with two on and two out in the ninth, blasted a home run that beat the Reds, 8 to 7, and broke the New Yorkers' five game losing streak.

The Reds knocked Harry Gumbert off the mound with a three run rally in the seventh to take a 6 to 5 lead. Cincinnati got another tally off Relief Pitcher Dick Coffman in the ninth, but in the last half of the inning, Joe Moore and Harry Danning singled, and then Ott came through. Danning hit a homer off Paul Derringer in the third.

Johnstown was considered just a promising colt last year while El Chico was sweeping undefeated to the juvenile championship and Porter's Mite was acquiring the prestige that goes with victory in the Belmont Futurity. But today Johnstown is running on top of the thoroughbred world while his former conquerors have been slipping in public esteem.

Last season Johnstown tagged along in third place behind El Chico in the Hopeful stakes at Saratoga and in the junior championship event at Aqueduct. He ran fourth to Porter's Mite in the Belmont Futurity, but Johnstown changed that setup entirely by a strong finish in his juvenile campaign and a brilliant beginning of his career as a 3 year old. Those six consecutive victories, three last fall and three this spring, put the stamp of true class upon him.

Heather Broom in Condition.

Tommy Driscoll, assistant to Trainer Jim Fitzsimmons, supervised the shipment of Johnstown. The William Woodward colt is in racing shape and is expected to make no hard training moves between now and Derby day. He probably will just be galloped to keep on edge.

Trainer Earl Sande arrived with Heather Broom and expressed himself well satisfied with the condition of John Hay Whitney's colt, winner of the recent Blue Grass stakes at Keeneland. Heather Broom worked an impressive mile and a quarter yesterday at Keeneland, going the full Derby distance in 2:06, well in hand all the way.

T. M. Dorsett, which arrived in the same car with Johnstown, was returning to the scene of his greatest triumph, the Kentucky Jockey Club stakes last fall at Churchill Downs.

LINDBLOM NINE BEATS KELLY, 13-1; TILDEN WINS, 3-1

Lindblom's baseball team won its third straight game in the central section of the Chicago Public High school league yesterday, beating Kelly, 13 to 1. Pitcher Larry Brunke of Lindblom struck out 11 and yielded only two hits.

A fifth inning home run by Harry Beste with two on gave Tilden a 3 to 1 triumph over Englewood in another central division game.

Gehrig String Broken After 2,130 Games

8 to 0 with a two run homer. George Selkirk and Tommy Henrich also hit homers.

Red Ruffing, making his first appearance since April 25, when he pulled a muscle in his pitching arm, yielded only seven hits.

Hutchinson Treated Roughly.

Vernon Kennedy, first Tiger hurler, was charged with the defeat, but Freddy Hutchinson, high priced rookie from the Pacific Coast league, was on the mound when the New Yorkers put on their nine run outburst in the seventh.

The jinx that has been working double duty against the Yankees of late has struck again. Pitching in batting practice during yesterday's workout in Yankee stadium, Monte Pearson was hit on the left forearm by a line drive. This morning he was unable to use his arm and was excused from pre-game practice to have X-rays taken. Score:

ATHLETICS HELP LYONS LIFT SOX INTO SECOND, 4-1

Make Five Errors and Get Only Six Hits.

enough to take care of the next two batters.

In the third the Sox were booted, with the aid of a few hits, into a two run lead.

Lyons opened by lining a single into center. He took second on Owen's sacrifice. Kuhel's grounder traveled so slowly that he beat Gantenbein's throw for a hit. Walker fouled to Etten. Appling upset the entire Mack layout with a dribbler toward first. Parmelee picked it up and threw it wild, as well as too late, to get Appling. Lyons scored on the hit and Kuhel scored when Hayes dropped the throw from Moses, who had captured Parmelee's wild toss. McNair rolled to Parmelee for the third out.

More Funny Stuff.

The first indication of the giddy spell suffered by the Macks in the fifth was Lodigiani's bloomer girl drop of an easy pop up. He made partial amends for this offense by picking up Kuhel's bunt and forcing Owen at second. Kuhel balanced his bunting failure by stealing second. Walker beat out a slow roller toward Lodigiani and Etten threw the ball back to Lodigiani, thinking that Kuhel could be stopped going into third. The throw was wild, so Kuhel scored and, when Lodigiani captured the loose ball and heaved it wild to the plate, Walker took third. He scored on Appling's infield out.

The Macks got their run in the seventh when Johnson hoisted a fly to deep right with one out and Rosenthal misplaced it in the sun, thus giving Johnson a cut rate triple. Etten whistled a single past Kuhel and Johnson scored. A double play put a quick stop to this annoyance.

Bill Dietrich, whose only other start this year was a brilliant victory over the Cleveland Indians, will pitch for the White Sox today in the final of the series with the Macks. Nelson Potter may oppose him.

The fund for Monty Stratton, for whom the Cubs and Sox played a benefit game on Monday, has passed the $29,000 mark, according to a bulletin issued yesterday by Vice President Harry Grabiner of the Sox. This total includes receipts from the game, $500 from W-G-N, $268 from WCFL, $200 from WJJD and contributions from the parking concessionaires and the Hartnett banquet committee. The report on the ticket sale hasn't been completed.

Additional improvement was reported yesterday in the condition of Thornton Lee's left arm which developed complications while he was trimming the Browns last Sunday. For the time being the club has abandoned plans to have the arm X-rayed.

Vic Frasier, the Sox pitcher whose spring training was halted when a thrown ball fractured his skull, has been working out in uniform the last couple of days and thinks he may be able to pitch in another week.

Whitehill Faces Mulcahy in 2d Cub-Philly Game

KENTUCKY became famous for its BOURBON WHISKEY because it has the proper type of water and other necessary and ideal conditions for the making of that product. The best results are obtained when only the finest selected grains are used and when the whiskey is distilled in the old-fashioned way. The mash must contain a sufficient percentage of small grains to give the product body. That type of whiskey will continue to improve with ageing—and when fully matured in the wood nothing can be added that will improve its quality. For three-quarters of a century CHAPIN & GORE whiskies have never been MIXED—have always been marketed as STRAIGHT KENTUCKY BOURBON WHISKEY—made in the old-fashioned way—the SOUR MASH METHOD. ANGOTT TO SPOT ARON 12 POUNDS IN COLISEUM BOUT

Dick Kist Risks Record Against Theodorescu.

Sammy Angott of Louisville, Ky., who has had considerable success as a lightweight, will step out of his weight class for a ten round bout tonight with Milt Aron, National Boxing association's No. 4 welterweight challenger, in the Coliseum.

Sammy Angott.

Fans believe Angott may be taking on more than he can handle in the aggressive, two fisted Aron, but Sammy, who is a ball of fire in his own right, has other ideas.

"I'll keep Aron so busy defending himself he won't have time to throw many punches," Angott, who is listed third ranking 135 pound contender by the N. B. A., said yesterday as he finished his last workout.

May Give Away 12 Pounds.

In the event he weighs in at 135 pounds, as his handlers predict, Angott will be outweighed approximately twelve pounds. Though experts are of the opinion that this advantage may prove to be too great for Angott, there are many who give the rugged little fellow a chance to score an upset.

Barney Ross, who lost his welterweight title to a lightweight, Henry Armstrong, is among the Angott fans. Ross, 1929 Chicago Golden Gloves featherweight champion, will be among the 7,500 expected to attend. So will Chicago's International Golden Gloves team, which meets Europe's champions in the Stadium May 12.

Theodorescu Boxes Kist.

In a ten round secondary feature Milo Theodorescu will return to action against Dick Kist, 1938 sectional Golden Gloves welterweight champion. Milo will seek to make amends for his loss to Aron by attempting to spoil Kist's undefeated record. In twenty-one professional starts Dick has scored nineteen conquests and two draw decisions.

However, since Kist compiled his string against mediocre opposition it didn't give followers a full line on his capabilities. This evening's appearance against a fighter of skill such as the Rumanian should give a true index of Kist's ability.

Billy Marquart, Winnipeg, Man., puncher, will make his junior welterweight debut in a third ten rounder against Irish Eddie Brink of Scranton, Pa. Marquart will be in quest of his fourth straight decision. If he achieves his aim Bill's prestige will boom. Brink conquered Tony Canzoneri March 28.

Verle Davis Meets Brownlee.

Bill Brownlee, 140 pound stranger from Indianapolis, has been signed to brave the knockout punches of Verle Davis, former Kankakee Golden Gloves lightweight winner, in a six round event. A four round opening bout brings together Billy Seward Ingamore, Mont., lightweight, and Willie Kline.

WHITE CITY BOXERS DUE

Tony Cianciola, Milwaukee middleweight, and Red Lyons, Pittsburgh junior welterweight, will arrive from New York today for ten round bouts against Nate Bolden and Irish Eddie McGeever, respectively, in White City Friday. . . . Wladek Zbyszko and John Evko, who drew three weeks ago, will meet in a return match tonight in Cicero stadium, 19th street and 52d avenue. Phil Gruber and Leo [Cowboy] Ackley clash in the semi-final. Other engagements bring together Jack Zeravich and Joe Dvorak, George Mack and John Hepner, and Otto Birnbaum and Rex Eggleston.

POLO PONIES FOR BRITISH RIDERS REACH NEW YORK

New York, May 2.—(AP)—Twenty-eight of the ponies the British will ride against the United States in the international polo series in June arrived today showing effects of a train wreck that killed one of their number while en route from California.

William Harris, in charge of the thirteen grooms who accompanied the ponies, said the horses were very tired and two were still suffering from slight injuries. They'll have a week of rest at Mitchel field before the British players arrive. When the second contingent arrives from the west coast and twenty from Aiken, S. C., the British will have more than sixty ponies from which to select their mounts.

HONOR MOAKLEY, CORNELL COACH FOR FORTY YEARS

New York, May 2.—[Special.]—Leaders of athletics on both sides of the Atlantic joined with the Sportsmanship brotherhood today in honoring John Francis [Jack] Moakley, track coach at Cornell university for the last 40 years and former coach of the American Olympic team.

The occasion was the brotherhood's presentation of its 1938 award for international sportsmanship to Moakley at its twelfth annual meeting and luncheon. John T. [Terry] McGovern, a member of Moakley's first track team at Cornell and chairman of the committee of arrangements, was toastmaster. President Devereux Milburn presented the medal.

MOON MULLINS—FRIENDLY RELATIONS

Europe's Ring Team Eager to Reach Chicago

ning a world's championship. The fact that he won the European championship in Dublin last month hasn't made the task any easier. Having fought six fights in America since 1937 and won them all, he's probably entitled to the feeling of superiority he maintains toward American amateurs.

The confidence of the three team members who have taken part in previous Golden Gloves contests has become infectious. Though none of the other five has been here before, each manifests his confidence in his own way. Despite the growing dissension among the nations of Europe, there is a far greater unity of purpose on this Golden Gloves team than on either of the all-European teams that have preceded it to Chicago. It was shown in the friendliness with which the boys associated during the European tournament, where all lived at the same hotel, and in the rapidity with which they became close friends even before they boarded the Normandie at Southampton.

Raadik Is Anxious.

Anton Raadik, the Estonian middleweight, whose flailing fists carried him to the middleweight championship, for instance, has a pretty good right to think he's going to win. A two fisted puncher who couldn't find any one to stand up against him in the Dublin tournament, he has gone undefeated in Europe since 1937. He has won exactly half of his seventy victories by knockouts. He's a fighter who likes to fight without any thought of the consequences. He probably has never entertained the idea that he might be beaten. Because of his feeling of kinship toward Lehtinen and Erik Agren, the Swedish welterweight, he naturally wants and expects them to win their bouts, just as they expect him to win his. That's why he's the most anxious of the whole lot to get to Chicago and settle down to serious training.

Paddy Dowdall, Ireland's featherweight champion of Europe, is just as confident as the others. He doesn't know much about Chicago and its fighters, but he knows a lot about Dowdall. Before the finals of the Dublin tournament nobody gave Paddy much of a chance to win the title, but he was certain of it. He's just as certain now that he'll win in Chicago and that the European team will go along to victory with him.

"Sure I want to win for myself and for Ireland, but I want to win for Europe, too," he said. "All the other boys feel that way and we think we're going to do it."

Start West Today.

Egisto Peire, lightweight, and Nemesio Lazzari, heavyweight, the two Italians who are making their first trip to Chicago, expressed the same sentiments. Lazzari has a good many more reasons for wanting to win. As the only boy in his family he considers victory compulsory to satisfy his eighteen sisters. He has been battering down opponents with a punch that is as expressive as the sledgehammer he swings in his trade as the village blacksmith of Terracina and he regards a triumph as his incontrovertible right. He merely shrugs when some one suggests that he may find Chicago champions a little tougher than Europeans.

"I whip them in Europe, I whip them in America," he says, not boastfully, but merely as a statement of fact.

Tomorrow morning the team will go on a sightseeing tour of New York before leaving for Chicago. The boxers will find the city interesting and they'll enjoy the trip, just as they have everything else that has been done for them. But the reaction will be the same:

"Nice. O K. Now we go Chicago!"

WEISS, BADGER FULL BACK, SIGNS LIONS' CONTRACT

Detroit, Mich., May 2.—[Special.]—Howie Weiss, University of Wisconsin full back and winner of the CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S most valuable player award last fall, signed a one year contract with the Detroit Lions of the National Football league today. Terms of the contract were not announced. Weiss came here to confer with Assistant Coach Hunk Anderson and Vice President William Alfs of the Lions, and signed the first contract offered.

Tarpon Spurn Large Bait for Little Pinfish

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Useppa Island, Fla., May 2.—How a big, sporty fish like the tarpon will allow himself to be fooled by such very small baits as all the fishermen are using down here in the home of the Silver Kings is intriguing to the fresh water angler. You go out with the anticipation of hooking a tarpon weighing anywhere from 35 up to 100 pounds or more, and you naturally expect fish of this size to look for at least a two or three pound chunk of live bait. But the big tarpon that are coming out of the famous Boca Grande and Captiva passes are dainty, fastidious eaters that fall for a little stone crab not more than four inches in diameter or a flat pinfish that is just about the same length.

Very Dainty Eaters.

The Silver Kings may consume many a pound of food in the course every twenty-four hours, but they certainly like it divided into small portions! The fisherman who tosses 8 inch live suckers around a northern Wisconsin lake to catch muskies from ten to twenty-five pounds in weight wouldn't look twice at the tiny pinfish baits that we're using down here to catch tarpon. He'd call 'em worthless as fish getters.

When Floyd Levens, our guide, hustled us up to Captiva pass last night for a few hours of fishing we had a good chance to observe the difference in the methods of fishing in that pass as compared to the tactics in Boca Grande. It's less than a quarter of a mile wide and you put your live bait down about twelve or fourteen feet. Because it is fairly shallow the system calls for the use of a big white float or cork to hold the live pinfish or stone crab above the bottom. We ran out to the entrance of the pass, attached the float to the line about fourteen feet above the wire leader and No. 10 hook baited with a pinfish, and then let the tide take us through the pass.

No Float Used.

In Boca Grande pass no float or cork is used. An eight ounce sinker is tied to the upper end of the wire leader so that the live bait will ride close to the bottom. The stone crab or the pinfish is down forty-two feet when you take a drift through the pass in the hope that a fighting tarpon will take a sock at this dainty little tidbit.

First Teeitis? Let Tribune's Pros Cure You!

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The sun shines bright and the grass grows greener and greener, but there are thousands of citizens of our town who are not well. Their ailment, an old one to the faculty of THE TRIBUNE free golf school, has been diagnosed as "first teeitis."

This is the pernicious malady which appears at the advent of every golf season. The victim watches his fellows carrying golf clubs to their favorite courses. He'd like to join them. He even is found loitering in the vicinity of those courses. He watches their swings off of the initial tee with an obvious longing. It is easy to see that he would like to go along, but does he? No, he is suffering from first teeitis.

Let the Pros Cure You!

This disease is the one which the seventh annual Tribune school will begin to attack again on the evening of May 9, when the first lesson of the 1939 series opens on the four courses of the Chicago park district. The members of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America, who will handle the teaching duties of the school, know it well. They realize that first teeitis is the golfing sickness which prevents thousands of potential golfers from taking up the game each year.

The symptoms of first teeitis are several, but the chief one is the thought of the ridicule that may follow after a missed swing on the first tee. Too often the patient has seen from the sidelines another and braver soul whiff completely. The ensuing laughter frightens him, and he is certain that he will never risk such embarrassment.

Misery Loves Company.

The Tribune golf school, largest system of group instruction in the history of golf, has cured many a victim of first teeitis by the very manner in which it is conducted. The would-be golfer is taught the fundamentals of the game in company with others of his type. In this manner, he gains the confidence that will enable him to take a solo swing on any first tee without fear of blushing.

If you have been timid about taking up golf because of this fear of the first tee, the Tribune school offers you the opportunity for a quick and certain cure.

The school will be held simultaneously on the four park district courses—Marquette, Columbus, Jackson, and Diversey in Lincoln park. Every man, woman, and child interested in learning the A B C's of the game from experienced professionals is invited to attend.

First Class Next Tuesday.

All classes will open at 7 p. m. and last approximately one hour. The first will be held next Tuesday; the second on Thursday, May 11; the third on Tuesday, May 16, and the fourth and last lesson of the regular program will be given on Thursday, May 18. The final demonstration for pupils adjudged the best in their classes will be held on Sunday afternoon, May 21, at one of the four park district courses. Prizes will be awarded to the winners.

NEW YORK PAIR TAKES 11TH PLACE IN A. B. C. DOUBLES

Cleveland, O., May 2.—(AP)—Leo De Lorenzo and Frank Smith of Solvay, N. Y., provided the only threat today to leaders in the American Bowling Congress tournament when they rolled into eleventh place in doubles with a 1,315 total. Smith scored 711 on games of 257—196—258 and De Lorenzo contributed 604 on games of 245—166—193. P. Icus and M. Fowler of Steubenville, O., lead the division with 1,405.

Highest singles scores of the day was rolled by Peter Pikul of Buffalo, N. Y., with 669. His games were 179—233—257. James Danek of Forest Park, Ill., leads the singles with 739.

Courtroom Fans Bowled Over by This Scene!

Like the lion and the lamb, the Bible and the sword lay down together yesterday in the federal court of Judge John P. Barnes. Nearby, spread over the courtroom floor, were two bowling alley runways, several bowling balls, and two sets of tenpins.

The Bible, written in Holland Dutch, is 296 years old. The sword was swung by a soldier in the Napoleonic wars. Each has a sheath of ancient wood.

Spectators puzzled by the exhibits learned they were in court for trial of a patent infringement suit. The suit was brought by the Brunswick-Balke Collender company, 629 South Wabash avenue, against the National Billiard Supply company, 1721 Lake street.

Patent infringement is alleged in the trademark on tenpins, the use of metal caps in constructing certain divisions of a bowling ball runway, and the use of a metal retarder on the runway where bowling balls are returned to the bowler from the end of the alley.

Attorneys Casper Ooms, for the defense, and Harry W. Lindsay, for the plaintiff, spent considerable time making bowling balls rumble down the runways. They also talked at length about the merits of their respective tenpins. That, said the spectators, was understandable.

But the Bible and the sword? Attorney Ooms cleared up this mystery. He intends to use them to show that metal has been used for centuries to protect wood from wear and weathering.

Brass clasps adorn the wooden cover of the old family Bible which Ooms said had been in his family since 1643. Similar brass embossments are on the weathered wooden sheath, encasing the sword, which Ooms said was used by his great-great-grandfather.

Baseball Puts 6 Ancients in Hall of Fame

Six more names—players whose brilliant careers contributed an early chapter to the 100 year old story of baseball were added to the Hall of Fame yesterday.

Plaques will be placed in the Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N. Y., honoring Albert G. Spalding, Charles Radbourne, Adrian Constantine, Cap Anson, William Arthur Cummings, William [Buck] Ewing, and Charles A. Comiskey.

Star performers of the era prior to 1900, they were selected by Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball; President William Harridge of the American league and President Ford Frick of the National league, who worked with baseball writers of the nation in memorializing the game's great.

Won Sixty Games in One Season.

Radbourne was with Providence, R. I., of the National league through the season of 1885 and pitched four years for the Boston Nationals. He wound up his career with Cincinnati in 1890. Altogether he pitched in 517 games, winning 310 and losing 191. In 1884 he won sixty games for Providence.

Anson managed the Chicago Nationals twenty-one years. A first baseman, he hit more than .300 for twenty seasons, leading the league in hitting in 1879, 1881, 1887, and 1888. In twenty-two seasons in the National league he averaged .339.

Cummings was famed as the inventor of the curve ball, first using the pitch when with the Brooklyn Stars in 1867.

Comiskey Set New Style.

Ewing, a great catcher, starred with the New York Giants, batting more than .300 nine years. A fine all around star, he later managed Cincinnati. The Old Roman, Charles A. Comiskey, revolutionized the style of playing first base. Until his entrance into the game first basemen played with one foot on the bag. He moved away from the base and made pitchers cover the sack. He bought the St. Paul club of the Western league and moved it to Chicago in 1900.

Spalding, a Rockford, Ill., native, starred as a pitcher for Boston and Chicago, winning forty-seven games and losing only thirteen for Chicago in 1876. He retired from the game in 1891 to devote his time to the sporting goods business bearing his name.

The selections are the last to be made before June 12, when baseball's 100th birthday will be celebrated at Cooperstown.

NEW BASKETBALL RULE PASSED TO DIMINISH FOULS

New York, May 2.—(AP)—A new basketball rule, designed to discourage deliberate fouls to gain possession of the ball, was announced today by the national rules committee.

The rule provides that when a personal foul is called the offended team shall have the option of trying for the free throw or of waiving the penalty and putting the ball back in play from out of bounds at midcourt. The same rule will apply to technical fouls. If two free throws are awarded, the offended side may try for one and then pass up the second. The rule does not, of course, apply to a double foul.

Another new measure stipulates that if a player trying for a field goal is fouled from behind or roughed, he shall be awarded two free throws, whether the field goal is made or not. This is designed to discourage rough play.

The committee also decided that hereafter any player may ask the referee for time out, instead of the captain alone, as formerly.

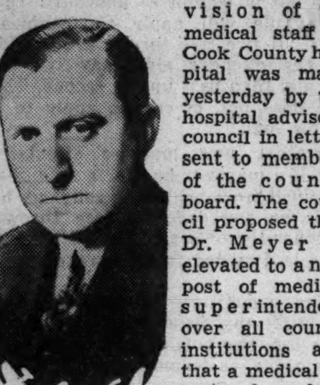
RENEW ATTEMPT TO END MEYER'S HOSPITAL RULE

Advisory Board Asks New Medical Director.

Another attempt to remove Dr. Karl A. Meyer from direct supervision of the medical staff at Cook County hospital was made yesterday by the hospital advisory council in letters sent to members of the county board. The council proposed that Dr. Meyer be elevated to a new post of medical superintendent over all county institutions and that a medical director be selected by civil service to take supervision of the hospital medical staff.



Dr. Karl A. Meyer.

Dr. Meyer, as medical superintendent of the hospital, draws an anuual salary of $4,900. The new medical director would receive $10,000 a year. The council which made the recommendation is composed of prominent citizens appointed by the county board two years ago to serve in an advisory capacity for the hospital.

The members ended their letter by offering their resignations, stating "we feel that the reasons for our appointment have been fulfilled."

First Attempt Voted Down.

Last February the county board unanimously voted down the council's proposal to displace Dr. Meyer. The council had recommended Dr. Marshall Davison of the hospital surgical staff as Dr. Meyer's successor, and declared its belief that the hospital would be restored to the American Medical association's accredited list for training of interns if a change were made. The hospital was removed from the list last summer.

The council, in its letters yesterday, paid tribute to Dr. Meyer as an outstanding surgeon, but stated that because of his large private practice he cannot devote his full time to medical direction of the hospital. The council said that it had considered, therefore, how Dr. Meyer's experience and background could best be conserved for the benefit of the indigent sick of the county.

It recommended that in the new post of medical superintendent over all county institutions, Dr. Meyer should represent the county board in relations with the city board of health, concern himself with a coordinated program for care of the sick, and be responsible for developing a long term plan for the growth of the hospital and the planning of additional buildings for the institution.

Offers New Recommendations.

The council then made the following recommendations:

1. Adopt a plan of general organization for the hospital.

2. Establish the position of medical director under civil service and appoint to it a competent medical administrator.

3. Appoint a thoroughly competent person under civil service to the position of superintendent of buildings.

4. Establish the position of business manager under civil service rules, preferably choosing a person who has had experience comparable to that of a controler.

5. Provide that detailed accounts on operating costs of the hospital be kept under suitable classifications.

6. Introduce a legislative measure to change the title of hospital warden to director. [The present warden is Gen. Manus McCloskey.]

Urge a New Council.

7. Establish a citizens' advisory council of legal authority, with duties of advising the county board on hospital problems and policies, studying annual budgetary requirements, and making special studies as needed. A council of nine members is suggested, these to be outstanding citizens and serve three years.

The members of the council were Charles H. Schweppe, chairman; Col. A. A. Sprague, Eugene McDonald, Britton I. Budd, Victor Olander, Walter J. Cummings, Robert F. Carr, Albert D. Lasker, and Gilbert H. Scribner.

When informed of their proposals, Dr. Meyer said: "I don't know exactly what the committee has in mind, so I would want to study the details of its plans before committing myself. I will say, however, that my only desire is to continue to be of benefit to the thousands of sick persons in the county."

The county board will consider the council's proposals at its regular meeting next Tuesday.

MOTHER WINS 3D CHID'S CUSTODY, RAISE IN ALIMONY

Mrs. Goldie Buehler, 38 years old, 151 Abingdon avenue, Kenilworth, was given custody of her daughter, Rose Marie, 9, and her monthly alimony was raised from $175 to $300 yesterday by a ruling of the Illinois Appellate court. Mrs. Buehler won a divorce in 1937 from Albert C. Buehler, president of the Victor Adding Machine company. At that time she was given custody of two other children, Barbara, now 14 years old, and Albert Jr., 13. Rose Marie was awarded to the father. Mrs. Buehler appealed for Rose Marie's custody and the alimony increase. The court held the increase was justified because Buehler's income from 1925 to 1936 was shown to have ranged from $12,000 to $34,000 a year.

YEAR OF WORKER OPERATION SAPS MEXICAN RAILS

Properties Go to Ruin; Accidents Frequent.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY [By Mail.]—Four major train accidents within a week recently have drawn attention to the rapid deterioration of service, equipment, and physical condition of the National Railways of Mexico after a year of operation by the workers.

After the most serious of the wrecks on April 13—when a train of the Laredo-Guadalajara line plowed into the rear of a standing passenger train—railroad officials at first said the deaths were twenty-five, then raised the figure to fifty-four. Persons who were on the trains asserted the actual figure was even more.

The passenger train was halted for repairs to the brake system. A flagman was sent down the track to the rear. Railroad officials said the approaching train apparently missed his signal.

Asleep in the Bushes?

Other sources assert the flagman was under the influence of liquor, crawled into the bushes and went to sleep. These sources add that liquor is a frequent companion of train crews.

When the National Railways of Mexico was incorporated in 1907 the government retained 51.35 per cent of the stock. On June 24, 1937, the government expropriated the 7,115 miles of lines in which American investors had $73,000,000 of holdings.

Labor trouble was the first obstacle which the administration met. The unions were completely undisciplined and had no respect for life and property. Then revenues declined.

The unions got more unruly, demanded pay raises and threatened strikes and the government was unable to cope with the situation. The unions insisted that the lines be given to them for sole operation. They got satisfaction of their demands on May 1, 1938.

Elect Operating Chiefs.

Chaos has been the order of the day since that time. Managers, superintendents and other bosses are elected by popular vote. The good positions all are held through union politics regardless of ability.

No one has the authority to discharge any one else and 61 per cent of receipts go for salaries. The workers voted themselves a pay raise and boosted freight rates 100 per cent in some cases. Rolling stock, roadbeds, and office records all have suffered with the declining morale of operating personnel. The handling of freight and express and the accommodation of passengers likewise has suffered.

An experienced railroad man declared that unless a drastic reorganization and a general housecleaning is effected and competent management restored, no trains will be running in Mexico at the end of ten more years.

FRANK P. WALSH, 74, NOTED LAWYER, DIES ON NEW YORK STREET

New York, May 2.—(AP)—Frank P. Walsh, 74 years old, chairman of the New York State Power authority and widely known labor lawyer, collapsed and died from a heart attack in Foley square just outside the Supreme court building today. Prior to his appointment to the power authority, in May, 1931, Walsh had served as a member of the New York commission on revision of public utility laws under appointment of Franklin D. Roosevelt, then governor.

He was at one time chairman of the federal commission on industrial relations, appointed by President Wilson, and from 1915 through 1916 he was editor and publisher of the Kansas City Post.

Mr. Walsh for years managed the fight for Tom Mooney's release in California. He handled the defense of Benjamin Clark Hyde, charged with administering typhoid germs to his father-in-law, Col. Thomas Swope of Kansas City, and took part in several other cases of national prominence.

PREDICT PARDON FOR A GIRL IN PRISON FOR LOVE

Ruth Strickland, who went to prison in Kentucky to put herself away from the man she loved, probably will be pardoned, it was indicated in Frankfort, Ky., last night. Mrs. Hazel Jones of Harvey had an audience late yesterday with Gov. Albert B. Chandler, who was elected on a no-pardon platform.

Mrs. Jones had reared the pretty girl who called herself Barbara Williams when she surrendered after holding up two women with a toy pistol in Paducah several weeks ago. The governor promised her "consideration."

"I don't give pardons down here unless the person is proved innocent or there are very unusual circumstances," the governor told Mrs. Jones. He added the case certainly presented an unusual circumstance.

HAMBURGER STAND ROBBED.

Montreal Finds Pictures of King Made in Germany

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., May 2.—Decorating their stores for the forthcoming visit of King George VI. of Great Britain, hundreds of Montreal tobaccanists have placed large lithographed pictures of the king in their windows. The cards were supplied by a local cigaret company. Tonight it was discovered that every one of them bears the stamp, "Printed in Germany."

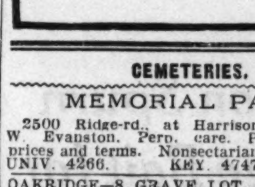
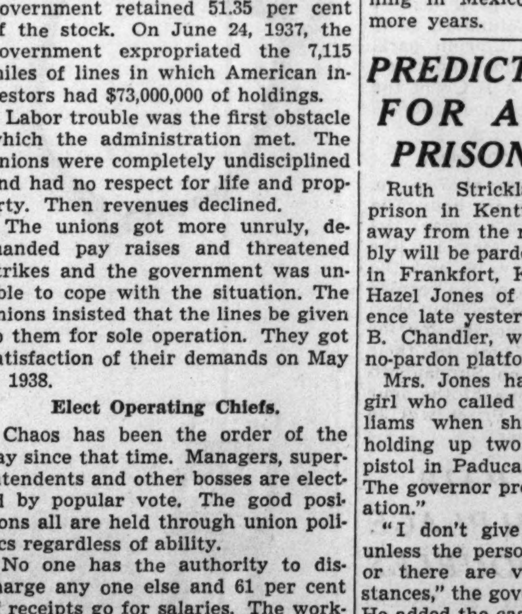
ARE YOUR FALSE TEETH false friends ?



1 DOES THEIR STAINED LOOK SHOUT "FALSE"?
2 DO THEY GIVE YOU "DENTURE BREATH"?
3 ARE GUMS SORE DUE TO UNCLEAN PLATES?



NOT IF YOU USE POLIDENT

Of course you clean your plate or bridge. You may even soak it in a mouth wash. But still your denture may be only half-clean. And unless it is truly clean and purified it can mean real trouble!

For "denture breath"—probably the most offensive of all breath odors—is caused by half-clean plates. And their tell-tale stains can actually shout "false". Often they result in sore gums—and even in serious infection.

But even worst stains, food deposits, tarnish and odors are dissolved away with Polident. No acid or danger. No brushing. Your plate looks better and feels better. Denture breath is prevented—and your mouth feels fresher and sweeter.

Dentists everywhere recommend Polident to all who wear plates or removable bridges. Millions use it daily. Sold at all drugstores—3 oz. can 30¢—7 oz. can 60¢. And your money back if not delighted.

WORKS LIKE MAGIC
Do this daily:—Add a little Polident powder to ½ glass water. Stir. Then put in plate or bridge for 10 to 15 minutes—Rinse—and it's ready to use!

POLIDENT NO BRUSHING

SLUM CLEARING PLAN BACKED BY 2 MORE GROUPS

Legislators Hear It Lauded as Sound.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 2.—The Chicago plan for slum clearance with private capital tonight received new support from two important sources.

Both the Chicago plan commission and the Downtown council for the first time came out for the program originally proposed by the Chicago Building Congress, Inc. The Downtown council is an organization representing business interests and property owners in Chicago's loop district.

The development of this important new backing for the slum clearance plan was made known when representatives of these two organizations spoke tonight before a joint meeting of the revenue committees of the senate and house. The meeting was the first at which the proposed "public service building corporation" plan of slum rebuilding had been discussed since the introduction several weeks ago of bills which would make possible the formation of such corporations.

Proposal Is Termed Sound.

Eugene Taylor, representing the Chicago plan commission, urged the passage of this enabling legislation. He said that the commission had had nothing to do with the drawing up of the plan, but that it had carefully examined the bills recently introduced and had decided that they were fundamentally sound. He suggested several minor amendments.

"We believe that these bills are a step in the right direction," he told the members of the committees. "They are going to encounter some troubles in getting under way, because they represent a new departure, but the step should be taken so that a start can be made on the job of rebuilding the rundown areas. Our executive committee has gone over the bills with great care. We think they are good bills and hope that the legislature will pass them."

Stresses Need of Fast Action.

Taylor then presented a graphic picture of the rapid deterioration of the residential areas of Chicago to show the need for quick action to halt the tide of property depreciation.

"There are 212 square miles of land within the city of Chicago," he said. "Fifty square miles of that total is suffering from what is called the 'blight.' That blight is steadily creeping outward. You can measure the trend of depreciation by watching it as we have from year to year.

"In the last ten years alone the value of all the property in the city of Chicago has been cut in half, according to the records of the assessed valuation of all property within the city. The tide is moving fast. If the slums are ever to be redeemed this 'public service building corporation' plan is the only way in which it can be redeemed."

Calls U. S. Effort No Solution.

Taylor said that government housing projects, such as those undertaken by the United States Housing authority, could never do more than scratch the surface. He estimated that it would require 4 billion dollars of government funds to clear up slums in Chicago alone. In slum districts, he added, the city now spends two to six times as much for municipal services as it receives in taxes.

Barnet Hodes, corporation counsel of the city of Chicago, and his assistants had gone over the proposed legislation and joined with the plan commission in suggesting the minor amendments, Taylor said.

W. J. Stebbins, chairman of the "blighted areas" committee of the Downtown council, likewise urged the passage of the bills as the first step in reclaiming rundown areas.

Sees City's Welfare at Stake.

"As a group representing various interests in the loop district, we are naturally interested in the fact that large areas of our city are now blighted and in a condition which is detrimental to the welfare of our city and thus to us as property owners, business men, and taxpayers," Stebbins said.

"We believe and wish to stress that a real job of rebuilding such districts as they exist in nearly all our cities can be done only if private capital can be induced to enter into productive building projects. The bills seem to us, after serious study, to make possible a method which

Public Service First Quarter Net $1,396,226

The Public Service Company of Northern Illinois yesterday reported net income of $1,396,226 for the first three months of 1939, compared with $1,194,788 in the corresponding 1938 period. The earnings were equivalent to $2.08 a share on common stock, against $1.79 a share a year earlier.

The upward earnings trend was in line with that shown a few days ago in the first quarter report of the Commonwealth Edison company, which heads the group of utilities that includes Public Service.

Celanese Corporation of America, leading producer of rayon and related products, reported a steep rise in earnings. Its first quarter net income was $1,336,714, equal to 71 cents a common share, compared with $114,274 in the 1938 period, or 69 cents on prior preferred stock.

Coca-Cola Raises Dividend.

Despite a small reduction in earnings, directors of Coca-Cola International corporation, holding firm controling large blocks of stock in the beverage company, declared a larger dividend. First quarter net income was $750,058, equal to $3.14 a share, against $759,815 in the 1938 period, or $3.16 a share.

The board voted a dividend of $5.80 a share on common stock, payable July 1 to holders of record June 12. The company's most recent payment was $3.85 a share.

In line with the experience of several other oil producers and distributors, the Standard Oil Company of California in the first quarter of 1939 earned only half as much as in the 1938 period. The company reported net income of $3,226,017, equal to 25 cents a share, against $7,130,486 in the first 1938 quarter, or 54 cents a share.

Dividend Rate Detained.

Despite the reduced earnings, directors continued dividend payments at rates in effect since March of last year, ordering an extra disbursement of 5 cents and a regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents, both payable June 15 to shareholders of record May 15.

Purity Bakeries Corporation of Chicago announced net income for sixteen weeks ended April 22 amounted to $389,640. This equaled 51 cents a share on common stock and compared with $186,305 in the corresponding weeks of 1938, or 25 cents a share.

CONSTRUCTION FIRM TO ENTER CHICAGO; FORECASTS UPTURN

Expressing the belief the nation is on the eve of an expansion in construction which will originate in the Chicago area, James H. Manning, president of Ulen & Co., announced yesterday that his company, a firm of engineers and constructors, will open a Chicago office.

Vern E. Alden.

Headquarters will be established in the Field building under direction of Vern E. Alden, vice president, as part of the company's drive to expand its domestic business. Manning expressed belief that public utility and industrial construction will lead an upturn in building.

Alden until recently has been with the Stone and Webster Engineering corporation in Chicago. Ulen & Co. will confine its foreign operations to the New York office, Manning said, and will devote the Chicago headquarters to heavy construction and engineering in the domestic field.

ILL. CENTRAL'S REVENUES FALL 7.54 PCT. IN 1938

Operating revenues of the Illinois Central system in 1938 decreased $8,599,981, or 7.54 per cent [L. A. Downs, chairman, and J. L. Beven, stated in the annual report sent stockholders yesterday. Freight revenues declined $6,802,677, or 7.22 per cent. They explained that the severe decline in business which started in 1937 adversely affected trafic during the latter part of 1937 and in the first five months of 1938.

Passenger revenues dropped $986,314, or 9.01 per cent, from the 1937 volume. Excluding suburban trafic at Chicago there was a decrease of 12.21 per cent in revenue and an 18.48 per cent decrease in number of passengers carried. The average travel per passenger was 123.18 miles, an increase of 1.04 per cent. Suburban passenger revenues decreased 1.21 per cent and the number of suburban passengers carried declined 6.19 per cent.

As previously reported net income was $1,222,874, compared with a $2,063,841 net income for 1937.

NEW YORK SELLS BONDS AT RECORD LOW INTEREST

A group headed by the National City bank yesterday was awarded New York City's $35,700,000 of serial bonds at a low bid of 100.0699 for $15,000,000 of the bonds as 2½s and $20,700,000 as 3s. It was a record low interest rate basis for city borrowing.

The bonds immediately were reoffered on the basis of the 2½s to yield 0.40 to 2.90 per cent and the 3s to yield 0.40 to 3 per cent. Maturities of the 2½s are May 1, 1940 to 1979. The 3s are due May 1, 1940 to 1969.

Commerce Group Backs Building Industry Week

The Chicago Building congress announced yesterday that the Chicago Association of Commerce has joined the large group of organizations that will sponsor Building Industry week, which will start Monday and continue through May 13. The purpose of the week is to promote home ownership, building and modernization. Paul D. Angell, secretary of the Chicago Building congress and chairman of Building Industry week, said leading groups in every division of Chicago activity have joined the movement.

MINE OWNERS REVISE OFFER IN COAL DEADLOCK

WouldCheckoff Dues of Nonunion Men.

New York, May 2.—(AP)—Exclusive bargaining rights to the United States Mine Workers of America [C. I. O.] and a checkoff system to collect dues from both union and non-union employés—designed to protect the union against inroads from other labor organizations—were offered today by soft coal operators in a new effort to draft a wage and hour contract for the industry.

Facing the possibility that some southern operators might refuse to sign contracts, the four operators representing the Appalachian soft coal industry, which has been idle since April 1, offered the new proposals to John L. Lewis and other representatives of the union at a joint conference.

The mine workers' representatives, who had marked time since the middle of last week while the operators worked out the proposition and attempted to obtain full support of their conferees, asked an adjournment until tomorrow to give them time to consult counsel on the legal phases.

Committee Long Deadlocked.

The negotiating committee of eight men, four from each side, has been deadlocked more than a month over Lewis' demand that the operators either grant a union shop or eliminate the penalty clauses for illegal strikes. The latter would permit the union to protect itself against raids by rival labor organizations, Lewis said.

The operators' new compromise proposal came at a time when a break, with the possibility of a nation-wide shutdown of the coal industry, was regarded by observers as imminent. For a month, 338,000 miners have been idle in the Appalachian area. Lewis had indicated he would force a showdown before Friday when, unless the order was countermanded, mine workers in the outlying regions also would quit work.

The new proposal included a rewritten version of the operators' offer of April 14 to recognize the union as the exclusive bargaining representative under the Wagner labor relations act.

Checkoff Is New Proposal.

The checkoff proposal made today was not advanced on April 14, when the exclusive bargaining proposition was rejected by the union. Under the proposed checkoff system, non-union miners would pay the same monthly dues as members of the U. M. W. as their contribution to the administration of the contract and participation in its benefits.

The non-union members would be exempt from initiation fees and special assessments. Average dues are $1 monthly. Acceptance of the checkoff would be made a condition to employment of any non-union employé.

The joint conference, which has agreed to renew the terms of the old contract as to wages, hours and conditions of employment, for the first time in several days held a lengthy discussion with Dr. John R. Steelman and James F. Dewey, government mediators. The mediators also conferred with Secretary of Labor Perkins, who came here to consult them.

Operator Quits Conference.

Reports of dissension among the operators over the projected peace plan were confirmed by the resignation of James Walker Carter, New York, from the committee of sixteen, and reports that certain coal associations and individual operators in the south had joined Carter in expressing opposition.

Carter, strongly opposed to the union demand for a closed shop, represented the Pocahontas Coal Operators' association of West Virginia and part of Virginia on the committee which has been acting in an advisory capacity to the negotiators.

Send Guards to Harlan.

Harlan, Ky., May 2.—(AP)—Despite the statement of Gov. A. B. Chandler that he had declined to send additional state highway patrolmen here to eight coal mines expected to resume work tomorrow or Thursday, 25 patrolmen were en route here tonight. Fifteen are now on duty.

Earlier reports from nearby Whitley county were that a "flying squadron" of trucks and automobiles packed with men came in from Tennessee, beat up two sherif's deputies and a bystander, and moved back across the state line.

Europe Takes Big Amount of Paper Dollars

The largest shipments of American paper money to foreign nations in the fifteen years the Federal Reserve Bank of New York has kept records of currency shipments was reported yesterday in the bank's monthly review. Ten commercial banks of New York City shipped a total of $25,000,000 in March, the review said, and in April "the amount appears to have been substantially larger."

The currency movement, consisting mostly of large denomination notes, was attributed to Europeans wishing to put their money into safe currency, the bank said. Heavy withdrawals of notes of $50 to $10,000 denominations were made in April, the bank added, and many foreigners have also bought United States currency to keep in safe deposit boxes in this country. Most of the demand was from Belgium, Switzerland, and the Netherlands.

Gold Influx Sets Record.

Foreign gold continued to flow to America at a record pace during April, according to the review, with imports reaching $575,000,000. This brought the total for the first four months to $1,200,000,000, an amount "about equal to the annual world production of gold and about four-fifths as large as the average annual increase in this country's gold stocks from 1934 to 1938, inclusive."

Gold shipments during April were exceeded only in February, 1934, and in September and October, 1938, the bank said. Of the April imports, $371,400,000 came from England, $84,600,000 from Belgium, $55,500,000 from Switzerland, and $44,300,000 from the Netherlands. Other countries which made large shipments were Canada, India, Argentina, and Colombia. Shipments received at San Francisco came from Japan, Australia, and China.

Store More Gold in U. S.

A total of $115,000,000 was added during April to the stock of metal earmarked [stored] in this country for foreign account. The monetary gold stock of the United States increased about $530,000,000 during the month to a record high mark of approximately $15,790,000,000. This sum compared with $385,000,000 in March and with $624,000,000 during the gold inflow last September during the Czecho-Slovakian crisis.

A system of more complete reports on foreign gold receipts was inaugurated by the New York Federal Reserve bank yesterday. It will now give total gold imports instead of only those which directly affect the United States monetary gold stock. Yesterday's statement showed the arrival of $29,012,000 of gold from England and $6,675,000 from Belgium.

Buy More Metal in London.

An additional $9,230,000 of gold was engaged in England for shipment to this country, the bank reported.

The bank's statements will not make public until Wednesday the net changes in the stock of metal held under foreign account. This will provide some measure of secrecy in connection with the operations of the stabilization fund and of foreign central banks.

Belgian currency yesterday rose to the highest level in more than a year in foreign exchange transactions at New York. It gained 0.01½ cent in terms of the dollar, closing at 17.03 cents. The Dutch guilder advanced 0.05 cent at 53.38 cents. British, Swiss and French currencies were unchanged.

STEEL PAY ROLLS IN MARCH SET 16 MONTHS' HIGH

New York, May 2.—(AP)—The American Iron and Steel Institute reported today that March pay rolls in the steel institute, totaling $64,174,000, were the highest in sixteen months. The pay rolls compared with $57,044,000 in February and $51,386,000 in March, 1938.

An average of 455,000 men was employed by the steel industry in March, compared with 453,000 in February and 455,000 in March, 1938.

Wages in March averaged 82.8 cents an hour for 34.7 hours a week, compared with 82.7 cents for 33.5 hours a week in February and 81.8 cents for 26.7 hours a week in March, 1938.

Business Talks Over Its Problems

Delegates to the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States formally opened their sessions yesterday in Washington, D. C. Among the leaders were (left to right) W. Gibson Carey Jr. of New York, who is expected to be elected chamber president; George H. Davis, retiring president, and S. Clay Williams, one of the speakers. Williams, chairman of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company, said investors' confidence must be restored to create jobs.

Santa Fe Will BuyEquipment at $3,750,000

A $3,750,000 equipment purchase for the Santa Fe railway was announced yesterday by Edward J. Engel, newly elected president. Engel said orders already have been placed for thirty 1,000 horsepower Diesel-electric switch engines and one 4,000 horsepower Diesel-electric passenger locomotive. In addition bids are being asked for eleven light weight passenger cars of various types.

When the new Diesel-electric locomotives are delivered, Engel said, the Santa Fe will have a total of 64,900 Diesel-electric horsepower—the largest amount of power of this type on any railroad in the world.

Locomotive Orders Spread.

The passenger locomotive and thirteen of the switchers have been ordered from the Electro-Motive corporation, La Grange, Ill., twelve switchers have been ordered from the American Locomotive company, Schenectady, N. Y., and five switchers from the Baldwin Locomotive company, Eddystone, Pa.

The new switch engines will be used at the Chicago, Kansas City and other terminals.

Forty-one Engines Give 37,500 H. P.

When the new switch engines are delivered, the Santa Fe will have a total of forty-one which will give a total of 37,500 horsepower. It will have a total of fourteen Diesel-electric passenger units with the delivery of the new unit for a total of 27,400 horsepower.

The Santa Fe's Diesel-electric locomotives that pull the road's stream lined passenger trains have traveled a total of 4,106,297 miles, or 164 times around the world. They have been in use about four years.

Engel said that cash will be paid for all the new equipment.

HOLDING FIRM SELLS CONTROLING STOCK IN CHECKER CAB MFG.

New York, May 2.—[Special.]—The Aviation and Transportation corporation, a holding company controling several companies in which E. L. Cord formerly was interested, has disposed of its controling block of stock in the Checker Cab Manufacturing company, it was learned today.

Aviation company's 32,430 share block of Checker stock was sold to the Cab Sales and Parts corporation of Chicago. Cab Sales is a subsidiary of the Checker Taxi company, which operates taxicabs in Chicago.

Cord obtained control of the manufacturing company and other automotive and aviation corporations several years ago through organization of the Cord corporation, a holding company which was succeeded by Aviation and Transportation.

The change in name followed an injunction issued against Cord in 1937 by Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward in Chicago restraining Cord from allegedly manipulating Checker Cab Manufacturing and other stocks

Washington, D. C., May 2.—Business men must prepare to assume greater responsibility in national affairs, because an analysis of election returns indicates a change of administration in 1940, Representative Bruce Barton [R., N. Y.] tonight told delegates to the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Earlier in the day's sessions spokesmen for business and labor had made concerted demands for drastic tax revision as a means of restoring the flow of private capital into enterprise. Only by putting capital to work can jobs be found for the millions of unemployed, they said.

Approximately 2,000 representatives of big and little business are attending the meeting, which opened formally today after preliminary sessions yesterday.

Finds Swift Change in Opinion.

Barton said that only two other times since the civil war has there been so swift a change in political opinion as was represented by the difference in the congressional votes of 1936 and 1938. On each of the two previous occasions, he said, the minority party won the next presidential election. Apparently, he said, neither the candidate nor the platform made any important difference in the result.

"A shift in sentiment so marked as that which took place between 1936 and 1938 indicates that the people have made up their minds," Barton said. "Unless there is a war overshadowing all our domestic issues, the result of the 1940 election already is determined."

Sees "Release from Doghouse."

"We who call ourselves leaders in American business life are to be released from the doghouse and allowed once more to participate in the orderly discussion of world affairs," Barton continued. "The nation wants employment, it wants peace inside and out, it wants again to enjoy the stimulus and hope that can spring only from expanding economy.

"For six years business men have been proclaiming that we can help to give America these blessings. Our promises are about to be put to the test. If we fail we shall have only ourselves to blame."

Barton is a business man congressman. For many years he has been associated with the New York advertising firm of Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn.

He said that business men must prepare for their larger responsibility by the following steps:

1. Continue the current shift in the

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 2.—With steel, motor, and airplane issues showing the way, the stock market worked higher today in slightly improved trading. Gains ranged from fractions to about 2 points. The turnover of 447,320 shares compared with the 279,140 shares eleven month low mark of yesterday.

The list opened strong and moved higher during an active first hour. After gains ranging to about 3 points had been registered, activity slowed somewhat and there was some recession from the day's highs.

Chrysler and General Motors turned active in their group, gaining 1⅝ and 1¼ points, respectively. In the steel group, United States Steel, Bethlehem, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube each advanced more than 1 point.

Gains of a point or more were scored by Douglas, Sperry, Glenn Martin, Consolidated Aircraft, and United Aircraft. Curtiss-Wright, Boeing, Bendix, and North American Aviation also worked higher.

Rubbers made fractional gains under the leadership of United States Rubber. Most oils worked fractionally higher, with Socony Vacuum active. Coppers ruled firm. Montgomery Ward featured the merchandising section with a spurt of 1½ points.

General Electric in the equipments was active and higher. Westinghouse spurted nearly 2 points. Farm implement shares showed fractional gains. Electric Autolite among motor accessories shares gained 1¼ points.

New York Bonds.

New York, May 2.—(AP)—A brisk rally in the rail group helped other sections of the bond market to higher ground today. While turnover remained below the average, it rose above the low stage of the preceding session. Transfers of $4,625,500, face value, compared with $3,261,600 the day before.

Bond men said favorable implications contained in early carloadings reports for last week was the principal support for the rise in the carrier group.

Bonds rising fractions to around 2 points included Southern Pacific 4½s of 1981 at 41, Manhattan Railway 4s at 46, International Mercantile Marine 6s at 56, Nickel Plate 4½s at 43½, and Western Union 5s at 58¼.

United States government issues went along with the rest of the list with gains up to 7/32 of a point outnumbering minor losses. The treasury 2¾s of 1965 were turned over in the amount of $114,000.

Chicago Stocks.

Higher prices were paid for a majority of issues on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Middle West corporation led the list in volume and closed fractionally higher. Commonwealth Edison also was actively traded, finishing unchanged.

Of eighty-three issues traded, forty-four closed higher, fifteen lower and twenty-four unchanged. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE average of leading stocks closed at 9.80, compared with 9.67 Monday.

Mountain States Power finished at 51¼ on a few transactions, a new high for the year and 6¼ points above the last sale on April 20. Quaker Oats advanced 2½ in limited dealings and Central Illinois Public Service rose a point.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks were irregular yesterday in quiet trading. Chicago Title and Trust shares gained $1 and Continental Illinois advanced 25 cents. City National shares declined $1.

Trading in cotton futures yesterday was fairly active within a relatively narrow price range. Mills and spot interests bought the nearby deliveries, but liquidation developed late in the session, and closing trades were .02 to .07 cent lower. New crop months closed unchanged to .07 cent a pound higher.

Spot cotton closed .05 to .07 cent lower, with New York, 9.17 cents; New Orleans, 8.95 cents, and Galveston and Houston at 8.67 cents a pound. Prices follow:

Commodities

Great Britain yesterday asked American copper producers to submit bids by today on approximately 1,500,000 pounds of electrolytic copper. The copper presumably would be used for armament purposes. Quotations on domestic copper remained unchanged yesterday while copper futures held steady, closing unchanged to 0.03 cent a pound higher.

Inquiries for more than 4,000,000 pounds of copper were reported in the domestic market during the day.

The United States navy called for tenders around May 10 on about 1,160,000 pounds of electrolytic copper and for additional tenders about May 17 on 1,500,000 pounds of "lake" copper.

"Lake" copper, which is mined in northern Michigan, contains minute quantities of silver and arsenic.

Lead prices were firm in yesterday's trading and zinc prices unchanged.

World sugar contracts advanced to new seasonal highs, following strength in London. Gains at the close ranged to 0.045 cent a pound. Buying by European interests, reportedly for war reserve, was said to have inspired the rise in world sugar contracts.

Domestic sugar closed unchanged to 0.02 cent a pound higher. Coffee, rubber, silk, and hides futures were higher. Cottonseed oil declined 0.05 to 0.11 cent a pound. Wool tops closed irregular.

SEES NEW FIELD FOR U.S. INDUSTRY IN TELEVISION

Sarnoff Predicts Gradual Development Process.

Sale of such widely varied products as television machines, copper, and snuff occupied the attention of company stockholders at annual meetings held yesterday.

David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, told stockholders that although it is too early to make predictions regarding the immediate retail demand for television sets, he expects ultimately this development will open the way for new industrial expansion.

Sarnoff reported that Radio corporation's first quarter earnings were $1,448,110, equal after interest and other charges, and preferred stock dividend requirements, to about 4 cents a common share. Profit in the first quarter of 1938 was $1,437,801, equal also to about 4 cents a share.

Working Capital Adequate.

Sarnoff said that cash in hand and in banks amounts to $16,800,000, which is adequate for working capital needs, and that bank loans have been reduced by $3,000,000. Interest on $5,000,000 of bank loans still outstanding has been reduced from 2½ to 1¾ per cent, he added.

Unemployment among the cotton workers in the south may adversely affect earnings of the American Snuff company, Col. Martin C. Condon, president, told stockholders in Jersey City, N. J.

"However, we have hopes of earning slightly more this year than in 1938," Col. Condon said. Sales and earnings in the first four months of 1939 were slightly ahead of the first four months of 1938, he added. Replying to a question, he said he believes the safety of the company's dividend rate can be relied upon.

Kennecott Copper Earnings.

Earnings of the Kennecott Copper corporation in the first quarter of 1939, after depreciation but before depletion, were at the annual rate of $1.09 a share, Stephen Birch, president, told stockholders. He said the company is now working at 60 per cent of capacity. Birch estimated that capital expenditures this year would be between $4,000,000 and $4,750,000.

The Consolidated Coppermines corporation in the first quarter of 1939 had earnings of $240,000, compared with $231,000 in the first quarter of 1938, Boudinot Atterbury, president, told stockholders in New York. The company operates in Nevada. J. B. Haffner, vice president and general manager since 1926, was elected a director to succeed M. C. Lake.

New York Curb Seat Sells for $8,000, Drop of $2,000

New York, May 2.—[Special.]—Arrangements were announced today for the sale of a New York Curb exchange seat at $8,000, a decrease of $2,000 from the last transaction.

NEW IDEA, INC.

Investors' Guide: I saw a passing mention in your column recently of a company called New Idea, Inc. The company, I believe, makes farm implements, including manure spreaders, transplanters, steel wagons, and portable grain elevators. I am not, however, at all familiar with its financial status and should like to know how successful its operations have been in the last three years. Does the company have any bonds or preferred stock outstanding?—M. H. R.

Answer: Sales and profits of New Idea, Inc., turned downward last year, but the company was still able to make net income of $670,534 on net sales of $4,344,735. Profits had shown gains in every year from 1934 through 1937.

The company is this year observing its fortieth anniversary, having been founded in 1899 as a partnership under the name New Idea Spreader company. The concern was incorporated in 1920 and its common stock was listed on the New York Curb in May, 1938.

The recent operations record follows:

	Sales.	Net inc.	Net inc. per shr.
1938	$4,345,000	$670,500	$2.47
1937	5,107,000	757,000	2.78
1936	3,661,000	558,000	2.48

In 1937 the present no par common stock was issued on a basis of fifteen shares for each share of old $100 par common. This made 225,000 shares outstanding, and 47,000 additional shares were sold in 1937 to retire bank indebtedness. There are no bonds or preferred stock.

Since the stock splitup, dividends have been as follows: $1.10 a share in 1937, 80 cents in 1938, and 15 cents so far in 1939.

Current position is good. Current assets of $3,789,000 at the end of last year included $322,412 in cash and $1,000,000 in government treasury bills. Current liabilities were only $368,379.

The stock is somewhat speculative.

BUYING AND SELLING.

Investors' Guide: How can one tell by looking at the stock market tables whether there is more buying or selling? Isn't it true that purchases and sales on the exchange must equal each other?—R. M.

Answer: It is, of course, true that purchases and sales must of necessity equal each other. It is the excess of orders to buy or sell at a given price level that determines whether there is more or less of what is sometimes loosely called simply buying and selling.

You cannot tell by looking at the market tables alone whether there are more buying or selling orders. A rise in the market indicates that buying orders are on the whole greater and a decline indicates more selling orders.

Business Bits

E. C. Wilson, general sales manager of Munsingwear, Inc., since 1934, has been elected vice president in charge of sales and merchandise. He was at one time merchandise manager of the hosiery and underwear departments of the wholesale division of Carson Pirie Scott & Co.

BILL ON TRUST INDENTURES WINS IN SENATE, 40-16

Washington, D. C., May 2.—(AP)—The senate today passed and sent to the house a bill setting up new requirements for trust indentures and establishing standards of conduct for trustees. The vote was 40 to 16.

The measure would require that security holders have the service of "disinterested" indenture trustees. Trust indentures would be submitted to the Securities and Exchange commission and would become effective twenty days after filing unless the commission took action.

[A trust indenture is a contract between a borrowing corporation, a trustee, and the holders of bonds issued under the indenture.]

The SEC backed the bill, which was sponsored on the floor by Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky.

Senator Taft [R., O.], charged that the measure would discourage business and accomplish little in the way of protecting investors.

FORECLOSURE RIGHT UPHELD IN RAIL CASES

Washington, D. C., May 2.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission today agreed with the committee of railroad bondholders that section 77 of the bankruptcy act does not deprive them of the right of foreclosure.

The commission's position was announced in a modified decision in the Spokane International railway and the Coeur d'Alene and Pend d'Oreille railway reorganization proceeding.

The commision said that in the event of failure of various classes of creditors to approve the plan, bondholders may go before the judge of the federal District court for eastern Washington and petition for the sale of the properties.

It was the first time the commission had ever inserted such a provision in a reorganization plan.

Pick Three New Directors for Pere Marquette Road

Detroit, Mich., May 2.—(AP)—Three new directors were elected today at the annual stockholders' meeting of the Pere Marquette railway. They are Frank B. Bernard, Muncie, Ind.; Homer L. Ferguson, Newport News, Va., and John B. Hollister, Cincinnati. They succeed Michael Gallagher and William H. Wenneman, both of Cleveland, and Seward L. Merriam, Detroit. President George D. Brooke presided at the meeting, at which 71⅓ per cent of the outstanding stock was represented by proxy.

New York Stock Exchange Members Cut Borrowings

New York, May 2.—(AP)—The New York Stock exchange today reported collateral borrowings by members totaled $547,443,175 as of April 30, a decrease of $107,412,496 from the March 31 total. This compared with the record high of $8,549,383,979 in October, 1929, and a low since 1929 of $241,599,943 in August, 1932.

emphasis of business thinking. The top man of the future will be the man who knows people, likes people, and thinks day and night in terms of better public relations.

2. Thinks in terms of giving something to the country instead of trying to get something from it. The next administration, if it is any good, will not be popular. It will spend most of its time saying "no."

Seeks a Chance for Youth.

3. Recreate opportunity for youth. So far as young men are concerned, the whole program of the New Deal is now revealed and it is a program of defeatism. It starts with $30 a month and a CCC job in the woods; it moves forward to $60 a month in the WPA, and it ends with $30 or $40 a month as an old age pension.

Barton spoke at a dinner meeting of the National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries, affiliated with the chamber. At other dinner meetings similar guides for the future conduct of business government were offered.

"Dead gold" holdings of the government, stored in Fort Knox, were criticized by James S. Carton, vice president of the American and Foreign Power Co., Inc., at the annual dinner of the American Chambers of Commerce Abroad.

Carson urged "intelligent redistribution" of the more than 15 billions in hoarded gold held by the United States and proposed a "fair policy of reciprocal trading."

Davis Lashes New Deal.

George H. Davis, retiring president of the chamber and a Kansas City grain operator, opened the first general session of the meeting by declaring that the Roosevelt administration's reforms, ill advised and not readily digested, have "murdered" business incentive in this country.

In a bristling speech he said that there is no scarcity of money to revive business but that the only scarcity is of confidence in the future.

"We must change tax laws," he said, "in a way that will encourage people who have money to invest. In taking a poll of 2,000,000 owner-managers of business, approximately one-third of which are members of this organization, we find a large percentage willing and eager to expand their enterprises if given even a fighting chance to succeed."

Davis said that a rise in government expenditures during the last twenty-five years has brought an increase in taxes which has boosted costs to such an extent that America is no longer able to compete with other nations for vital export trade.

Urges Economies Now.

"In working for present national recovery and for a safeguard of future prosperity," he continued, "it is an act of wise statesmanship to effect those economies now—both in private industry and in public activity—that will keep America keyed in with world competitive conditions."

Centralization of government was assailed by Davis, who said the American people are aroused at last to its dangers.

In private conversations the delegates lauded the speeches by Davis and by S. Clay Williams, chairman of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company and former NRA administrator. Asked why such forceful opposition to federal policy is being expressed at this year's meeting in contrast to the more conciliatory tone of other meetings in recent years, the delegates expressed the opinion that there is a feeling of victory in the air and that their recommendations may at last bear fruit.

Balanced Budget Urged.

Williams called for a balanced budget and restoration of confidence as the first move toward recovery. He appeared as a substitute for Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins, who could not attend because of ill health.

Williams said he did not believe money is on strike, but that there exist conditions of mind on the part of investors that leave them discouraged.

"I think the question of why more jobs don't exist can be answered rather simply and directly," said Williams. "It takes money—money at work—to create jobs. The investment of even venturesome dollars has always had to be accompanied by a degree of confidence as to what was going to happen to the dollars ventured. It seems pretty clear that confidence is the key to that measure of recovery on which everything hangs."

Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, spoke at a round table discussion on tax revision this afternoon, at which he joined, on behalf of labor, in the demands for tax revision. He said success of the recovery spending program rests upon the fairness of the taxing plans devised to pay for it.

Senator Byrd Charges Waste.

Senator Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.], charged in round table discussion that the present government in Washington "is the most wasteful and autocratic burocracy that this or any other country has ever been afflicted with."

J. Frank Grimes of Chicago, president of the Independent Grocers Alliance of America, stressed the need for increasing agricultural income as a factor in recovery.

L. D. H. Weld, director of research for McCann-Erickson, Inc., New York, urged increased advertising in the development of new and larger markets for merchandise. It is a low cost way of creating demand and sales, he said.

The Portland Cement association of Chicago was awarded first prize in the American Trade Association Executives contest for the outstanding trade association achievement in 1938. The award was given for the promotion of "farm to market" light trafic roads.

FORD MOTOR ARRANGES TO INSURE EMPLOYES IN 150 MILLION DEAL

Detroit, Mich., May 2.—[Special.]—The Ford Motor company has arranged a $150,000,000 group insurance deal for more than 100,000 of its employés throughout the United States, it was announced today. All employés who have worked for Ford two years or more are eilgible for the insurance.

Life insurance policies of $1,500, with sick and accident benefits, will be available to Ford employés through an employé contributory plan, starting June 1.

The Ford company will pay approximately half the cost of the insurance, an insurance agent who handled the deal said. Actual cost to the workmen will be about 20 per cent of what they would have to pay in the insurance market.

Ford executives closed the deal last week with agents of the Travelers Insurance company of Hartford, Conn. It is one of the largest group insurance arrangements in the world.

BROKERAGE FIRM SPRUCES UP 'AD' UNDER NEW RULE

More colorful advertising is being undertaken by member firms of the New York stock exchange since the exchange liberalized its regulations regarding advertising. The first indication of the new trend on the part of Chicago members appears this morning with the announcement by Shearson, Hammill & Co., of a new branch office in the Wrigley building.

The advertisment, conforming to long standing custom in other respects, carries an illustration of the Wrigley building, something frowned upon under the exchange's former rules. In the past members have been required to confine their public announcements to factual statements and omit illustrated copy.

Shearson's branch, to be opened today, will be under the supervision of Farwell Winston, partner of the firm; F. G. Cheney and Howard G. Lindquist. Cheney is being transferred to the new branch from the firm's main Chicago office at 208 South La Salle street. Lindquist, who recently became associated with the firm, has been identified with the brokerage business in the Wrigley building for fifteen years.

KROGER GROCERY SALES INCREASE OVER YEAR AGO

One large grocery chain yesterday reported an increase in April sales and another reported a decline.

The Kroger Grocery and Baking company's sales in the four weeks ended April 22 rose 3.6 per cent to $18,798,037 from $18,147,022 in the corresponding 1938 period. For the sixteen week period trade rose 0.5 per cent to $72,418,241 from $72,030,766 in the 1938 period.

Sales of the National Tea company in the four weeks ended April 22 totaled $4,201,693, a decline of 3.07 per cent from $4,334,599 in the corresponding 1938 week. For sixteen weeks ended April 22 sales were $16,777,569, a drop of 5.3 per cent from $17,728,774 for the 1938 period.

Sales of companies reporting yesterday were:

U. S. STEEL CUTS OFFICE STAFF'S HOURS AND PAY

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 2.—(AP)—In the wake of seven consecutive weeks of dwindling operations, the United States Steel corporation today notified more than 10,000 of its "white collar" workers their offices would be closed down Saturdays with a corresponding reduction of 9.1 per cent in their weekly pay.

The notifications went to operating subsidiaries, including the Carnegie-Illinois, National Tube, American Bridge, American Steel and Wire, and H. C. Frick Coke companies, where office employés have been on a 5½ day week. Workers in the mills were unaffected.

The corporation first inaugurated the shorter work week in February, 1938, when the national operating rate was running around 30 per cent of capacity, but on Jan. 1 restored the extra half day's work weekly.

School Board Will Redeem First 1938 Tax Warants

The board of education yesterday issued its first call for redemption of 1938 tax anticipation warants. Called for payment were $1,013,000 of warants of the following numbers: Educational fund, E 1 to E 11; building fund, B 1 to B 205, and playground fund, P 1 to P 8.

Central Illinois Public Service company declared dividends of $1 a share on the 6 per cent and the $6 preferred stocks of record May 20 payable June 16. Arrears after these payments will total $22 on each share.

Cushman's Sons, Inc., declared a dividend of 87½c on the 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock of record May 15 payable June 1. Arrears after payment will total $10.50.

The letter "q" in the table refers to regular quarterly dividends.

RISE IN WHEAT ADDS VALUE TO GRAIN ON FARM

Prices Now Highest Since Early Last Summer.

Within a week about 10 per cent has been added to the value of American farmers' wheat, as measured by Chicago Board of Trade futures prices. The sudden upturn, the most pronounced in a year, has lifted prices to their highest level since early last summer.

Buying, based on the unfavorable crop reports from the winter wheat belt, has come opportunely a few weeks prior to the start of 1939 harvesting and has given the market a lift of about 7 cents from quotations of a week ago.

Not only has the sudden wave of buying answered grain traders' prayers for larger volume of business, but it has provided a possible solution of the problem of disposing of millions of bushels of wheat stored under government loans.

Farmers Redeem Grain.

With the cash price above the loan, farmers are redeeming their wheat and the grain is moving into trade channels, according to brokers.

May wheat closed yesterday at 74⅞ cents a bushel, or ⅛ cent below the final level of Monday. The slight reaction was attributed to profit taking after sharp advances early in yesterday's session and the day before.

The last time prices were that high, early last summer, the market was sliding from the nine-year top

Indicative of how much the revival has meant to traders and merchants, the turnover in grain futures in Chicago last week totaled 129,838,000 bushels, practically double that of the preceding week.

Although the price bulge has been at the expense of producers whose crops may have deteriorated because of dry weather, it has put values 7 to 15 cents above the five-year lows reached earlier in the season.

Loans at 60 Cents a Bushel.

The government has loaned $47,225,255 on 81,843,224 bushels of wheat at an average price of about 60 cents a bushel to the farmer.

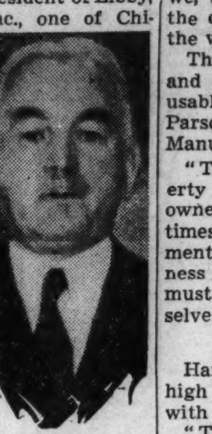
Reports of continued hot and dry weather throughout most of the North American wheat producing areas, combined with strength in foreign grain markets, caused a bulge of about ¾ cent in the Chicago wheat pit yesterday. Heavy profit taking developed, however, and closing trades were ⅛ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower.

Corn showed a strong undertone and closed ½ to ⅞ cent a bushel higher. The May contract sold at 49⅝ cents at one time, the highest price since early in March.

May and July oats sold at new highs for the season early yesterday with the May delivery at 31⅞ cents and in new high ground since January, 1938. Profit taking caused a reaction with the close ⅛ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher.

World Advertising to Boost Chicago Is Urged at 'Clinic'

E. G. McDougall, president of Libby, McNeill & Libby, Inc., one of Chicago's largest food enterprises, yesterady declared that Chicago should engage in a militant advertising campaign throughout the world to take advantage of the benefits it possesses.



E. G. McDougall.

He spoke at a business clinic at the Palmer House held in connection with the Greater Chicago campaign of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

"We have a great city, a great location and a great people," McDougall said, "but to attain even wider community progress, we must have more people. To secure these much desired recruits for Chicago, we must put an end to the unwaranted criticism of our hometown.

"Urges Real Advertising."

"This can be done only by real advertising where it will do the most good. Chicago is entitled to a better reputation. Crime statistics of Chicago prove definitly that compared with man yother cities we are much more law abiding. But while we, as local citizens realize all this, the damage will not be undone until the world knows the facts, too."

The placing of thousands of idle and boarded-up buildings back into usable condition was urged by N. B. Parsons, vice president of the Belden Manufacturing company.

"The reason so much of our property stands untenanted is because owners refuse to keep abreast of the times and make necessary improvements," Parsons said. "To get business the owners of these properties must get down to business themselves."

Warns of High Taxes.

Harry Gay, an engineer, said that high taxes have a great deal to do with Chicago's troubles.

"The cost of government is reflected in the cost of living," he said. "To give our citizens the higher grade of living which they should enjoy and which in turn would mean better homes and demands for the better things of life we must bring the cost of government down."

Frank A. Hecht presided at the clinic, which is one o fabout a hundred that will be held throughout the city.

The Chicago Wholesale Market council announced it would cooperate in the "Greater Chicago campaign" by urging all individuals, property owners and tenants in the area it serves to take part in a rehabilitation drive.

CRITICS OF WAHL LEADERSHIP LOSE DIRECTOR BATTLE

Board Re-elected After 9 Hour Proxy Count.

Efforts of a minority group to unseat present directors of the Wahl company, Chicago manufacturer of fountain pens and pencils, failed yesterday after nine hours spent counting proxies cast at the annual meeting.

The dissenting group mustered 47,366 votes, representing common and preferred stocks, while the management faction obtained 77,352 votes for retention of the retiring directors. One hundred stockholders were present during the early hours of oratory, but the group later dwindled to fifty.

Strawn In Winning Group.

Retaining their positions as directors were C. W. Priesing, president; C. L. Floyd, vice president; Arthur Bentley, L. W. Brigham, Thomas Drever, Arthur B. Poole, Silas H. Strawn, Ward W. Willits, and J. H. Winston.

Unsuccessful nominees proposed by the dissenters were Rawson Lizars and Frank Lyons of the investment firm of Rawson Lizars & Co., John R. McGibbons and Martin Crone, all of Chicago, and George C. Heberling of Bloomington, Ill.

Management Is Assailed.

In their proxy campaign they charged the present directors lacked sufficient interest in the company because of their limited stock holdings, and criticized the management for the company's failure to earn profits in recent years.

Stockholders were told the company hsd net profit of $11,740 in the first two months of 1939. No comparison with last year's period was given.

SUE ALLEGHANY TO SETTLE USE OF FREED CASH

Bond Trustees Question Value of Collateral.

New York, May 2.—(AP)—Service of papers in two suits in the United States District court here was accepted late today by counsel for the Alleghany corporation in a "friendly action" to determine the disposal of $543,325 paid to Alleghany today by the Guaranty Trust company.

The actions were brought separately by the Continental Bank and Trust company and by the Marine Midland Trust company, new trustees, respectively, for Alleghany 5 per cent bonds maturing in 1949 and for the 5s of 1950.

The sum involved was that left after Alleghany had immediately disposed of $324,060. Out of a total of $867,385 paid out by Guaranty Trust, trustee for the Alleghany 5s of 1944 and until recently trustee for all three issues. Guaranty has been involved in a year-long dispute with the Alleghany management, headed by Robert R. Young, over its trusteeship.

Cash Freed by Appraisal.

The money paid over by Guaranty late today was cash freed by a March 9 appraisal which showed that the collateral behind the 5s of 1944 was in excess of the 150 per cent required by the terms of the indenture. The sum represented $555,346 income from the collateral impounded before March 9, and $312,040 received by the trustee as dividend from Chesapeake and Ohio railway April 1, but never impounded.

Both the 5s of 1949 and the 5s of 1950 were far below the 150 per cent collateral requirements, according to appraisals made yesterday by the new trustees. Hence, their presumed interest in the suits was to determine whether some of the money in dispute should not be applied to increase the proportion of collateral behind the issues for which they are trustees.

Part of Money Used.

Alleghany disposed of the $324,060 received this afternoon in payment of corporate running expenses, accrued up to last Aug. 31, and pending subsequently. The items involved included $19,543 salary to Young for the period June 1, 1938, to May 1, 1939, and legal expenses in excess of $100,000.

Alleghany's annual stockholders' meeeting is scheduled for tomorrow at Baltimore. The Young management group has received a proxy for 1,200,000 common shares held subject to their option by the George and Frances Ball Foundation as collateral for a note given by Young and associates May 5, 1937, in acquiring control. With this proxy the Young group is expected to exercise control tomorrow, but, on Thursday, must give up rights to that stock or pay $2,375,000 face value of the note with accrued interest.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Further advances of 15 to 25 cents yesterday raised lamb prices to the highest levels since April 21 and 35 to 50 cents above last week's close. Trading was lively. Top old crop wool lambs reached $10.60. New crop spring lambs also increased in price, top loads from California reaching $10.90.

Recent advances in prices at the Chicago stockyards have forced all lamb meat to the highest levels of the year. The various cuts were 12 to 21 per cent higher than on the corresponding day last year.

Lighter cattle receipts prevented buyers from forcing another decline in prices. Trading progressed slowly as buyers resisted lower bids, but the bulk of the supply finally was cleared at about steady prices.

Weakness developed in hogs yesterday after a large share of the supply had changed hands at steady rates. Final quotations were 5 to 10 cents lower.

SLUM CLEARING PLAN BACKED BY 2 MORE GROUPS

Legislators Hear Bills Lauded as Sound.

will induce private capital to enter into the rebuilding of our blighted areas."

The bills, which were introduced as nonpartisan measures in both houses of the legislature a month ago, are sponsored by Representatives Harry L. Topping of Kankakee and Edward J. McCabe of Chicago and Senators Richard J. Daly of Chicago and Arnold P. Benson of Batavia.

Principle Is Explained.

The bills are intended to make possible the rebuilding of depreciated areas in cities of 25,000 or more population with private capital by making possible the assembling of sites at reasonable cost. To prevent minority "holdout" property owners from balking such projects by demanding prohibitive prices for small parcels of land, the bills would authorize the creation of "public service building corporations" with the right to acquire land by condemnation.

Others who addressed the joint meeting tonight to urge passage of the bills included J. S. Warterfield, Paul D. Angell, Elmer Jensen, and William Wilson, representing the Chicago Building Congress, Inc., and Joseph K. Britten, former president of the Chicago Real Estate board and vice chairman of the blighted areas committee of the Downtown council.

Indorsed by National Group.

Angell, who is also a member of the housing committee of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, disclosed that that group had indorsed the "public service building corporation" plan.

Warterfield said that the only important organized opposition to the plan was being conducted by mortgage and real estate interests in Chicago who do not like the idea of new buildings being constructed to compete with already existing structures in which they are interested and who "would like nothing better than to see a serious housing shortage in their own properties so that they can boost rents."

The bills will come before the individual committees later for a vote.

Senator Smith Threatens Filibuster on Subsidy Bill

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 1.—(AP)—Chairman Smith [D., S. C.] of the senate agriculture committee said today that he and some other southern senators were ready "to talk for three weeks" if necessary to defeat a compromise cotton subsidy proposal by Senator Bankhead [D., Ala.].

Plant Family Garden.

PLANTING was started last week in the family size vegetable garden at the Du Page county farm. Onion seeds and sets, spinach, radishes, peanuts, carrots, and early potatoes have been planted. More seeds of early vegetables are to be put in this week.

The gardeners were about two weeks late in starting because of the retarded season. They had hoped to plant the earliest vegetable crops about the middle of April. More than thirty different kinds of vegetables are included in the garden plan. Planting dates will be arranged to provide a succession of fresh vegetables for the table from the time the first are ready for harvest until frost next fall.

Plowed 6 Inches Deep.

The garden is on dark, sandy loam soil that is well drained. Last fall the land was covered with a heavy application of strawy manure from the barn lots. This was turned under last week when the ground was plowed about six inches deep. The surface of the plowed soil was worked into a mellow seed bed.

Rows are 170 feet long. They are marked off with a line for planting. Some of the rows are divided, having two or more crops in the same row. All rows planted so far are three feet apart. Rows for some of the vine crops will be six to nine feet apart.

Three full rows of improved early Ohio potatoes were included in the first planting. The seed potatoes were cut into three or four pieces each with about three eyes to a piece. The rows were marked off with a pointed hoe, leaving trenches about four inches deep.

The pieces of seed potatoes were dropped fifteen inches apart in the rows. The gardeners followed the old-time practice of stepping on each piece as it was dropped to press it firmly into the soil. They have found that potatoes sprout sooner when the soil is pressed firmly around them. Soil was raked into the trenches and patted down smooth and firm with a garden rake.

Onions, Radishes, Spinach.

Onion seeds and sets, radishes, and spinach were planted in marks two inches deep. The onion and radish seeds were scattered along the trench and covered lightly with the garden rake. The spinach seeds were sown the same way, but the soil was patted down firmly. Onion sets were put three inches apart in the rows and pressed down firmly into the soil. Enough soil then was raked into the trench to fill it and leave the row smooth.

The big, double jointed peanuts—mammoth Virginia variety—were planted three inches deep and six inches apart in the rows. They were planted in the shell, covered, and the soil was patted down with the rake.

Some of the annual flowers that are to be planted around the borders of the vegetable garden have been started in boxes of soil indoors. They include petunias, asters, nicotianas, and sanvitalias. Seeds of these and other annuals will be sown outdoors later.

RULES INSURANCE ADJUSTERS NEED NOT BE LAWYERS

Missouri High Court Balks at Bar's Stand.

Jefferson City, Mo., May 2.—(AP)—The Missouri Supreme court refused today to make the work of insurance adjusters an exclusive business realm for lawyers.

The test case drew nationwide attention of lawyer and insurance groups. The court denied the plea of the state bar advisory committee, which was set up by the court to police the legal profession, that insurance adjusters were engaging in illegal practice of law when they negotiated settlement of insurance claims. The bar committee contended such adjustments involved legal technicalities and should be performed only by licensed lawyers.

"We cannot see any benefit to the public in holding such work must be done by lawyers," the court said in a unanimous opinion written by Judge George Robb Ellison.

Scope of Activity Defined.

The opinion detailed business steps which could be taken by insurance adjusters without encroaching on the practice of law.

Bar associations in Alabama, California, Mississippi, New Orleans and Milwaukee entered the Missouri case as friends of the court on the side of the state bar committee. The American Federation of Labor was among numerous intervenors who joined the Liberty Mutual and other insurance companies in contesting the suit.

"After all, the question of the amount of damage to an automobile, a plate glass window, boiler or other physical properties is not a question for legal experts but a question for mechanical experts in the particular line," the court said.

Sees No Basis for Plea.

"There is no reason why a claim investigator or adjuster should be denied the right to gather information on these questions from the proper sources from his own judgment and report it to his company, whether the damage is disputed or not."

The opinion held insurance adjusters could perform these functions without engaging in the illegal practice of law:

[1] Issue forms of casualty policies, [2] investigate claims, [3] fill out releases prepared in form by a lawyer, [4] report lawyers' findings on company liability, [5] express an opinion as to the financial extent of liabilities, [ ] determine how much money the company will pay for settlement and [7] participate in informal conferences with the workmen's compensation commission.

LEGAL NOTICES.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS AND SHAREHOLDERS OF THE GRIESS-PFLEGER TANNING COMPANY, THE GRIESS PFLEGER TANNING CO. OF MASSACHUSETTS, AND GRIESS-PFLEGER TANNING COMPANY OF PEABODY, DEBTORS.

The undersigned has been appointed an additional disinterested Trustee of The Griess-Pfleger Tanning Company, The Griess Pfleger Tanning Co. of Massachusetts, and Griess-Pfleger Tanning Company of Peabody, debtors, for the purpose of submitting in this proceeding a Plan of Reorganization of said debtors. Acting under an order of the United States District Court for the Southern District of Ohio, Western Division, entered April 24th, 1939, the undersigned Trustee has prepared a Plan of Reorganization of said debtors and has filed it with the Clerk of said court. Said court has provided that a hearing on such Plan of Reorganization proposed by said Trustee will be held by it in the Court Room of said District Court, Federal Building, Cincinnati, Ohio, on May 15, 1939, at 2 o'clock P. M. At such hearing the court will consider any objections to such plan which may be made and such amendments thereto or other plans as may be proposed by the said debtors or by any of their creditors or stockholders. Copies of the complete plan can be obtained from the undersigned Trustee, 603 Dixie Terminal Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

At said hearing to be held on May 15, 1939, the court will review the appointment of the undersigned as additional Trustee, and will also consider the division of creditors and shareholders of the debtors into classes for the purposes of the Plan of Reorganization and its adoption.

If at said hearing on May 15, 1939, the said plan or any other plan is approved by the court, the plan as approved, will thereafter be submitted to creditors and shareholders for their consideration, and at that time information concerning the conduct of the affairs of the debtors and such further information as shall be directed by said court will also be furnished.

JOHN H. FINN, as Additional Trustee of The Griess-Pfleger Tanning Company, The Griess Pfleger Tanning Co. of Massachusetts, and Griess-Pfleger Tanning Company of Peabody, debtors.

"How I Got a Loan of $100 without embarrassment or delay."

"I needed $100 in a hurry. I dreaded to ask friends for a favor. And I had no security for getting a loan at a bank. What was I to do? Fortunately I heard about Household Finance and so went to a nearby office. The manager was courteous and friendly. He merely asked me a few simple questions. The next day I got the money, with 20 months to repay. Only my wife and I signed the papers. I was delighted to get a loan so simply and promptly."

Whether you are married or single, if you need a loan of $20 to $300 the manager of the Household office near you will be glad to discuss your problem with you in complete privacy and without obligation. Why not phone or visit him today?
